71ST CONGRESS STARTS TODAY ON MAJOR TASK

Tax and Tariff Laws to Come Before It.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Tax reduction and appropriations in the house and the Vare case and the tariff in the senate are the principal subjects awaiting early attention as congress wings into its regular session.

Speaker Longworth and Vice President Curtis will call the two houses to order at noon tomorrow for the first regular session of the 71st congress.

While only ten days have elapsed since sine die adjournment of the special session it will be the first time since last June that a quorum of the house has been present. The full membership of the senate has been kept on the job more steadily.

All legislation which originated in the special session keeps its place on the calendars. The tariff bill remains the unfinished business in the senate. It will not be necessary to reintroduce the hundreds of bills which were thrown into the hopper during the special session in anticipation of committee action in the regular session.

Today's Sessions Brief.

The meetings of both houses will be brief tomorrow. After committees have been appointed to notify President Hoover that congress is prepared to receive any communication which he may desire to present both the house and senate will adjourn out of respect to the memory of the late Senator Francis E. Warren of Wyoming.

President Hoover's annual message will be read to the two houses on Tuesday.

The President's annual budget message probably will be presented on Wednesday. Secretary of the Treasury Mellon's annual report also is scheduled for submission to congress on that day.

Committees to Get Attention.

Organization of committees will receive attention in both houses. The house during the special session perfected the organization of only such committees as were necessary to transact the business then pending, such as ways and means, agriculture, rules, accounts and appropriations. The other committees remain to be appointed. While there will be but few changes in chairmanships from the last congress, a number of vacancies must be filled and there will be a change in the ratio of party strength to match the increase in the Republican house majority. The Republican committee on committees of the house is to meet Tuesday and will report recommendations for committee assignments within a few days thereafter.

Inasmuch as the senate is a continuing body, its standing committees do not require reappointment. The death of Senator Warren, however, leaves a vacancy in the chairmanship of the committee on appropriations which is to be filled by the transfer of Senator Wesley L. Jones [Rep., Wash.] from the chairmanship of the committee on commerce. This will lead to several shifts in chairmanships.

The death of Senator Theodore E. Burton of Ohio and the resignation of Senator Walter E. Edge of New Jersey to become ambassador to France have left a number of committee vacancies.

Opening for Coalition.

There is a lively contest for the Edge vacancy on the finance committee. The radicals are demanding the place for Senator Robert M. La Follette [Rep., Wis.] and the Democratic radical coalition may go into action to obtain it for him if the Republican committee assigns it to some one else. Senator La Follette's father held a place on the finance committee for many years.

Control of the Republican committees in the senate has been shifted from the east to the west with the naming of Senator Arthur Capper [Rep., Kas.] as a member in place of Senator Edge. The western members of the committee, including Senator Capper, undoubtedly would prefer to name some one less radical than Senator La Follette if they think they can do so without precipitating a smashing of party lines.

Work Ahead for House.

The program of the house for the opening week contemplates the consideration of miscellaneous business on Wednesday, probably minor bills from the committee on agriculture. The joint resolution making a reduction in income taxes payable next

GRAIN STEAMER DRIVEN ASHORE IN SNOWSTORM

18 Survivors Suffer from Exposure.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Six men perished and eighteen, near death from exposure, were rescued when the freighter Kiowa went aground in Lake Superior Saturday night, according to wireless messages received here from rescue vessels tonight.

First definite news of the lake tragedy was obtained late today when coast guardsmen searching for the Kiowa found one of the vessel's sailors dead in a lifeboat.

The master of the ship, Capt. Alex T. Young, was among the victims. He is a son-in-law of O. W. Blodgett, president of the O. W. Blodgett company, owners of the Kiowa. Others among the dead included the ship's cook, wheelman, watchman and porter.

Goes Aground in Storm.

The Kiowa, loaded with flaxseed, left Duluth, Minn., Wednesday evening bound for Chicago. The vessel went aground Saturday night about three miles west of Grand Marais, Mich., in a blizzard which had raged over the lake for two days.

According to fragmentary information obtained from the survivors, the captain and four other men launched a lifeboat, but it capsized and they were drowned.

Long Search Rewarded.

Coast guardsmen from the Grand Marais station rescued the eighteen men. They had been combing the lake for hours in search of the Kiowa.

Members of the rescue crew thought it possible that the Kiowa might be saved, although it was impossible to learn to what extent the vessel had been damaged. The Kiowa is a steel vessel 251 feet long with a tonnage of 2,309.

Of the ninety or more freight vessels caught in Lake Superior by the early wintry weather approximately a score had passed through the Soo locks and were on their way to the lower lakes tonight. Ice breaking tugs were convoying vessels down the St. Mary's river.

Another Ship Aground.

One mishap occurred tonight. The freighter, Queedoc, grain carrier, went aground in the upper river some fifteen miles from Sault Ste. Marie. The cargo was being removed in an effort to float the vessel.

A number of vessels which ran before the storm last week into Portage lake near Houghton sailed today, it was reported, some for Duluth and others for this port.

Six Fishermen Rescued.

ST. JOHNS, Newfoundland, Dec. 1.—[Special]—Picked up in a blizzard at sea when their fishing schooner, the George K., was in a sinking condition, six men were aboard the steamship Baufblein, bound for this port, according to wireless messages received here.

The government has instructed all vessels to be on the lookout for other fishing vessels that may be in distress.

YOUTH FOUND SHOT TO DEATH IN PLANT OFFICE

The death of John Kinsella Jr., 24 years old, who was found shot yesterday morning in the office of the Certified Ice Cream company at 1800 Cornelia avenue, where he was a clerk, were being investigated by the police last night in an effort to determine whether he had committed suicide or shot himself accidentally. There was a bullet wound in his right temple and a revolver was lying on the floor beside him.

His father, John Kinsella, 624 South Taylor avenue, Oak Park, who is secretary and treasurer of the company, said the youth had no reason to commit suicide and believed that he had shot himself accidentally while cleaning a revolver after target practice with other employés on an upper floor of the building. His son was receiving a salary of $5,000 a year, the elder Kinsella said.

Miss Leonore Wesner, 18 years old, 1035 South Austin boulevard, to whom young Kinsella had been paying attentions for a year, said that he had been moody for several days and that when she saw him last on Friday he said, "I have something to do tonight."

Kinsella's body was found slumped over a desk at the office by three truck drivers when they appeared for work. He had been dead several hours.

HOLD EX-CONVICT FOR WRECKING, ROBBING 2 TRAINS

Pawnee, Okla., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Tom Vernon, who five times has served sentences in California and eastern penitentiaries, was arrested here tonight and held in connection with the wrecking and robbing of the Portland Limited of the Union Pacific railroad near Cheyenne last Monday and the Pacific Coast Limited of the Southern Pacific at Saugus, Cal., Nov. 10.

Wyoming Wants Him.

Omaha, Neb., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Upon receiving word here late tonight of the arrest at Pawnee, Okla., of Tom Vernon, ex-convict and rodeo performer, as the man who wrecked the Union Pacific Portland limited near Cheyenne and robbed its passengers Monday, W. M. Jeffers, vice president of the Union Pacific, telephoned Gov. Frank Emerson of Wyoming, requesting that requisition papers be issued at once for the return of Vernon to Wyoming. Passengers on the wrecked train identified photographs of Vernon as the bandit.

Indicted in Los Angeles.

2 ALIENS VANISH ON DEPORTATION TRAIN IN OHIO

Two of the 300 aliens who were being carried to Ellis island for deportation from the United States were missing yesterday when the special train which left from Chicago Saturday night arrived at Conneaut, O. This information was conveyed to the detective bureau yesterday in a telegram from U. S. Inspector Raff, who was in charge of the train from Conneaut to New York.

The two men who escaped from the train are John Kemp, 22 years old, who was being deported to Scotland, and Theodore Vogelaar, 24 years old, who was returning to Holland. Raff's telegram, sent to Capt. Johnson of the Nickel Plate railroad police, said that he thought the men were lost in the shuffle in Chicago, where 40 men boarded the train, but at the office of the U. S. immigration bureau here it was said that Kemp and Vogelaar were not in the Chicago contingent, although they may have been on one of the three cars which came here from the west.

Fall in Bathroom Fatal to Veteran Chicago Physician

Dr. John J. Aeberly, 72 years old, a practicing physician in Chicago for thirty years, died yesterday in his home, 1839 Hammond street, of injuries suffered Thanksgiving day when he lost his footing in the bathroom and struck his head on the tile floor.

Drys Mop Up Roadhouse of Stickney Boss

Stickney, a village on the southwestern outskirts of Chicago, was under the control of prohibition agents for several hours yesterday. The home of Anton Rench, president of the village, also known as the La Ruth bungalow, 4035 Oak Park avenue, was raided by the agents and a quantity of alcohol seized.

ANTON RENCH.

Since the days of the Harlem tavern a decade ago, Stickney has been termed an oasis for the thirsty. Charges have been made in court proceedings over village elections that Al Capone, now serving a term in a Philadelphia prison, controlled the town. Raids have been made there almost weekly and stills and booze confiscated.

Raid President's Roadhouse.

Recently, a group of women complained to the U. S. district attorney's office about conditions. An investigation was made and a raid made Saturday night upon the roadhouse which was also said to be Rench's home. Ten agents participated in the raid and remained at the place until yesterday afternoon carrying out furniture and carting it away.

About forty couples were in the place when the agents arrived. John Rench, 18 year old son of the village president, was behind the bar with James Candelar, the regular bartender. Rench was released when he said he had only gone behind the bar to get a package of cigarets.

The agents found twelve pints of whisky, two gallons of wine, two pints of gin, and five barrels of beer. All present were placed under arrest and searched for arms. They were then allowed to leave after their names had been obtained.

The roadhouse was dismantled. An oak bar valued at $1,200, an electric piano, tables and chairs were carted out.

Promise to Appear Today.

Mrs. Anton Rench, wife of the village president, appeared and protested. Upon the assurance of Attorney Joseph Lustfield, representing Rench and his wife, that both would appear at the Federal building this morning, both were allowed to have their freedom.

Rench, former chief of police of the village, has had a stormy political career. A year ago he was announced as winner in the election for the presidency of the village board, defeating Edward Kabella, village clerk. There followed a contest of the election before County Judge Jarecki and Kabella finally declared the victor in a recount. However, Rench has continued to hold the position of president pending appeal of Jarecki's decision.

Kabella Frequent Visitor.

Residents in the vicinity of the road house raided said that Kabella has been a frequent visitor at the Rench house. They also said a report had been spread that Kabella was beaten severely about a week ago when leaving the place.

Rench was indicted before the grand jury about a year and a half ago on charges of promoting fraud in the village election. Codefendants with him were Al Capone and his brother, Ralph Capone. The indictments were later dismissed.

Rum Poor and High, Harvard Men Aid Drys

Boston, Mass., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Conflicting stories on the activities of several Harvard students in a series of liquor raids in Cambridge and Boston last night seemed to have crystallized tonight into definite reports from police headquarters here that six Harvard students, angered at being charged high prices for what they consider a poor grade of liquor, are cooperating with Boston and federal prohibition officers in an extensive drive on bootleggers.

News that two bootleggers were arrested outside Russell hall on the Harvard gold coast early today by federal agents acting on information from two Harvard students had the college by the ears today, as long as it appeared that the two student tipsters were acting as liquor stool pigeons for the federal authorities.

Expect More Arrests.

However, many students who were quick to voice resentment over the activities of the supposed spies later declared they would withhold judgment when Boston police headquarters announced that a total of five arrests had been made during the night in the student-police drive on high price liquor vendors and that the arrests in Cambridge were merely the forerunner of others.

Nearly a dozen bootleggers' establishments in Boston and Cambridge were visited last night and early this morning by the party of students and prohibition agents. The students, wearing fur coats, led the way for the raiding squad and obtained entree for them at the different places.

As a result of the evidence obtained by the students and agents, three men were taken into custody in Boston besides the two in Cambridge, although at most of the places visited the raiders found that the proprietors had been warned and had either closed up for the night or were unusually careful to whom they made sales of liquor.

Names Are Withheld.

From what could be learned from the police today, many Harvard students were angered by bootleggers because they were charged $135 a case for liquor they declared was of the lowest quality. Federal officials declined to make known the names of the six students who are aiding them, but said that they are the representatives of a large number of other students who feel that they have been victimized by the bootleggers.

It was learned on good authority that the federal men and the students first became acquainted during the federal investigation of advertisements that appeared in the Harvard Lampoon recently giving the prices of booze and the telephone numbers through which it could be procured. Since that time the students and agents have been making plans for the campaign they started Saturday night.

FIGHT EVANSTON BLAZE 5 HOURS; LOSS IS $50,000

Fire caused damage estimated at $50,000 in the heart of Evanston's business district early this morning. The blaze broke out shortly after 2 o'clock in the basement of Du Breuils' tearoom at 620 Davis street and spread to three other establishments in the two story building. Evanston's five companies of firemen under Chief Albert N. Hofstetter battled in the cold for nearly five hours before the flames were subdued.

From the tearoom the blaze spread to the Thompson restaurant next door, at 618 Davis street, routing a dozen early morning patrons. The McNaughtan & Appleyard electrical fixture shop and the Evanston Letter Service office on the second floor also were wrecked. A defective heating plant was blamed for the fire.

Italian King and Queen to Visit Pope Thursday

ROME, Dec. 2.—[Monday]—(AP)—An official communication today announced that the Italian sovereigns would visit Pope Pius at 11 a. m. Thursday. Their majesties will go to the Vatican with a numerous suite, including the foreign minister, the prefect of the palace, the court chaplain, and others.

This is the first time a king and a queen of united Italy have visited a pope.

11 Deer Hunters Killed, 17 Wounded in Michigan

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 1.—[U. P.]—Eleven deer hunters were killed and 17 injured during the 15 day season which ended Saturday in Michigan, figures received here today showed. During the general autumn and fall hunting season 22 hunters were killed and 33 injured.

SWANSON, YEAR IN OFFICE, WILL DETAIL RESULTS

Promises to Review His Prosecutions.

State's Attorney John A. Swanson, who is today celebrating his first birthday as head of the county's prosecuting office, announced yesterday that he is preparing a report of the accomplishments of his office for that period. The report, being prepared with difficulty because of the extensive powers and duties of the public prosecutor, so Mr. Swanson explains, should be compiled and released for public perusal some time during the week. The prosecutor's publicity director is preparing the statistics.

Mr. Swanson is expected to report to the public what has happened to many announced investigations, the result of his war on bombers and racketeers—his chief campaign pledge—and the difficulties encountered by him since he took over the task from Robert E. Crowe on the first Monday of December, 1928—just one year ago today.

Will Answer All Questions.

"I cannot be expected to have a picture of every case in the office," Mr. Swanson replied when asked if he might be interviewed about the outcome of what were considered important public matters. "If I am given a list of such things I will look them up and answer them in my report.

"Take for instance the sanitary district case prosecution, which this office took over from the Loesch staff early in the summer. There has been a stupendous amount of work in that case. If we find that the evidence we have been working on fits into the old indictment—the one obtained by Loesch—we will go to trial. If not, we will have to get new indictments. We will get around to trying that case pretty soon."

The racketeer subject was suggested and the prosecutor replied that his office was preparing to try some men indicted in a so-called glass conspiracy case nearly one year ago.

Will Try Union Case.

"We are going to try that glass case; maybe we will lose it because the prosecuting witnesses are none too anxious now, but we will try it in January or maybe in December. I would have to check up on that."

The case referred to is one in which seven men, most of them officials of the Glaziers' union, local 27, were indicted for conspiracy. It was alleged to be a $500,000 racketeer outfit controlling the output of glass. George H. Meyers, business agent of the union, was the principal defendant named in the indictment, returned on March 1.

The prosecution of Maxie Eisen, a notorious west side racketeer, who is the czar of the fish peddlers and known as one of the pioneers in the racket field, was suggested as a topic of discussion. Mr. Swanson said, however, that it was one case on which he did not have the information at this time.

"The bombing case which Roche worked up will be tried when we can get around to it," was the comment of the prosecutor on the suggestion that bombs might be a subject on which the public would like to be informed. "We should be trying that case pretty soon now."

His Campaign Pledge.

Mr. Swanson was elected on a reform ticket. He announced a broad campaign pledge, which was in part as follows:

"My single purpose in seeking the office of state's attorney of Cook county is to restore Chicago to her former prestige as a city comparatively free of dangerous felons. Chicago streets must be made safe for her own people and visitors. Her industries must be free of the menace of bombs, bombers, and racketeers.

"No official of Cook county has greater power or influence to make good on these pledges than the chief prosecutor of the county. His responsibility is correspondingly tremendous. He has at his command the sheriff and a small army of deputies; in the public interest it is his duty to galvanize into action the Chicago police. My first task as state's attorney will be to bring order out of chaos and restore confidence where fear and doubt have prevailed.

"The moment a state's attorney who is seriously intent upon the full discharge of his duty and who holds the confidence of the people of the county enters office and starts war on crookdom, the felons, racketeers, and stickup men automatically will take to the woods. If they hesitate for a day I shall urge them on their way. If, after leaving town they begin to sneak back, I shall devote every energy to repeating the job of driving them out. They will be harassed from Chicago so quickly and so often, under any conduct of the office, that they will be anxious to stay away."

SIX DIE TRYING TO BEAT A TRAIN TO THE CROSSING

Whittier, Cal., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Six young people, two of them a recently married couple on their honeymoon, were killed early today in the collision of a Santa Fe railroad passenger train with their small automobile at a crossing near here. Investigators said the young people, who were returning home from a Saturday night dance, apparently had attempted to beat the train to the crossing. The car was hurled against a concrete wig-wag signal base and all but one occupant killed instantly.

The dead were William R. De Ford, 21, former Los Angeles High school football star; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McCann, honeymooners, from Centralia, Wash.; Edwin C. Bike, 23; Miss Arlene Herr, 18; Mrs. Audna Day, 32.

What Report Will Contain.

In pursuance to the foregoing pledge, Mr. Swanson was piled high with work and started many investigations, which he is expected to report on next week. Some of them are:

The drive against jury fixers as announced in the midst of the Eller trials last summer when the late Judge Frank Comerford demanded the abolishment of fixing in the courts. At that time State Senator James Leonardo, Paul Harders, a Deneen precinct captain, and Fred Hesler, were indicted for conspiracy to corrupt a prospective juror. The indictment was returned on June 15, but as yet has not been tried.

The sweeping city hall investigation asked by Ald. Arthur Albert, who charged that city hall pay rolls were padded for political purposes. Mr. Swanson announced that he would investigate.

The dog track prosecutions have been dropped after the vigorous campaign against the tracks, which resulted in the indictment for conspiracy of all officials of the three tracks operating in Cook county. In one case an indictment has been nol prossed.

Realty Swindlers' Case.

The prosecution of real estate swindlers as announced by Assistant State's Attorney Charles Bellows during the bucket shop investigation.

No bucketshop operators have been tried. Many so-called brokers were indicted in this campaign several months ago. They have not yet been tried.

W. H. H. Miller, former head of the state department of registration and education, and a group of other men were indicted early in the summer for issuance of fraudulent licenses and immediate prosecution was promised. The cases have not yet been brought to trial.

Jack McGurn was indicted for the North Clark street massacre when seven followers of George [Bugs] Moran were shot down in a garage. The trial begins today, but seven murder indictments against McGurn will be nolle prossed, it was announced, because of insufficient evidence. That will be all for the McGurn case.

Will Discuss Coal Probe.

The investigation of the coal situation as recommended by the last grand jury is also expected to be discussed by the prosecutor. Several coal dealers complained that they had been terrorized and intimidated because they failed to belong to the Chicago Coal Merchants' association. The October jury heard some witnesses and wrote a letter recommending that Mr. Swanson continue the prosecution, but the November jury was not called on to do anything in the inquiry.

The bombing feature of the prosecutor's pledge resulted in the indictment of some west side Italians. They were charged at the time of a sensational raid last summer with being the men behind the bombing ring, who would sell or plant a "pineapple" for a money consideration. They have not been tried. Another case formulated by the bomb squad of the police department was placed on trial, but was called a mistrial because First Assistant State's Attorney Northup complained publicly about a bombing threat on his home. The judge ruled his conduct prejudicial. The case has never been retried.

119 Bombs Exploded.

A comparison of figures for the period of the year prior to Mr. Swanson's inauguration shows that from Dec. 1, 1927, to 1928, there were 130 bombings, while from the time Swanson took office to the present 119 bombs were exploded.

On two important bombing cases Mr. Swanson promised "important developments in a few days." That was last summer. He is expected to report these developments in his summary of work. They were the bombings at the home of Lawrence F. Kling, late sanitary district trustee, on Aug. 19, and the one at the home of First Assistant Corporation Counsel Breen on Nov. 15, 1929.

The racketeer prosecution is expected to be also explained in his report. As far as his office has made public to this time, Eisen was indicted, but the indictments were nolle prossed until a good case could be obtained, as explained by Assistant Northup. No new indictment has been returned. Then there is the still pending glaziers' case.

Little Canal Case Activity.

The only public announcement of activity in the sanitary district prosecution cases taken over from Loesch is that of calling pay rollers before the grand jury during the summer months. Assistant State's Attorney J. Calvin Webb spent several weeks around Beardstown, Ill., looking for evidence. In the meantime, Thomas Garry, one of those who were indicted, escaped prosecution by the four term act. Garry demanded trial at four terms of court and when he was about to be discharged the prosecutors expressed surprise over the situation.

The arson ring exposé—an offshoot of the bombing investigation—resulted in the trial and acquittal of two women.

The investigation of perjury and intimidation of witnesses in the murder trial of Virgil Litzinger is also expected to be discussed. Judge John P. McGoorty, in whose court Litzinger was acquitted because the witnesses refused to testify or committed perjury, ordered an inquiry and held several persons to the grand jury. No announcement has been forthcoming as to the result of this inquiry, which was ordered last winter.

Slot Case Falls Through.

Early in his term Mr. Swanson began his investigation of the so-called slot machine racket. He brought about the indictment of Dr. William H. Reid, six police captains and 21 other minor politicians and hoodlums. The trial ended Saturday when the prosecution admitted its inability to make out a case and entered an order of nol pros.

Mr. Swanson demanded he be given an increased police force for his office so that he might conduct the various contemplated investigations. He has some 110 policemen, two lieutenants and one captain working from his office. He was given the commanding officers despite an ordinance of the city council providing that only men of the rank of sergeant or less be assigned to the state's attorney's office. When Hoyne was state's attorney he had 35 policemen. Crowe had 60.

Swanson's force has made regular Saturday night visits, raiding vice and gambling resorts. These raids resulted in small fines in some instances.

Habitual Criminals to Go.

The campaign against habitual criminals, which was one of the first announced by Mr. Swanson after he assumed office, is expected to be statistically reported to him. He announced at the time that all repeaters would be prosecuted under the statute which fixes life imprisonment if convicted for such crimes as robbery, burglary and other serious offenses.

Statistics of the publication called Criminal Justice, the official organ of the Chicago crime commission, of which Frank J. Loesch is president show that nine men were sentenced during the year under the habitual act. The habitual count was waived or not used in 35 other cases. One man so indicted was given six months in the Bridewell and others escaped on 1 to 10 or 1 to 20 year penalties.

The old act dusted off during the summer—just once—to be used against James Orchowski, never was enforced against other defendants. This law fixes a sentence of from 1 to 10 years for a convicted felon found with a pistol.

Promised Efficient Staff.

Mr. Swanson in his statistical report is expected to show the efficiency of his new prosecuting staff, which he promised would be made up of "men of ability and integrity." Most of the recent major trials, however, have been carried on by prosecutors retained from the Crowe regime. The murder cases ending in death penalties were prosecuted by Crowe holdovers. The most recent was that of Willie Doody, who was prosecuted by Assistant State's Attorney Harry Ditchburne.

During the régime of Mr. Swanson he has had the benefit of increased energy on the bench as well as additional judges, due (the crime commission points out in its publications) to its campaigns for more judges and speedy trials. Some comparative figures obtained from the commission publications for the 11 month period from Dec. 1 to Nov. 1 are as follows:

Judges assigned during year	9	13
Hours on bench	7,166½	10,812½
Indictments returned	4,311	5,900
Cases stricken from docket	430	727
Verdicts of guilty	426	695
Verdicts of not guilty	389	583
Felonies waived	1,082	726
Murder counts waived to manslaughter	11	24
Gun counts waived	150	295
Robbery counts waived	79	81
Burglary counts waived	83	110
Probation granted	492	647
Bonds reduced by state's attorney	238	315
Bonds reduced for paid bondsmen	19	46
Death sentences	7	4
Sentences to penitentiary	336	537
Sentences to Pontiac	443	313
New trials granted	57	76
Defendants nol prossed	183	335

Bonds reduced, in money figures—Crowe regime, $1,443,500 to $686,900; Swanson regime, $2,107,500 to $885,250.

The Chicago crime commission points out that in cases such as against the waiving of felonies the practice has been a little less frequent as comparatively shown by the Crowe record of 1082 as compared with the Swanson figure of 726. Murder charges, gun waivers, and probations granted, it is pointed out by the commission, have increased.

The establishment of the felony court is credited with having reduced the number of indictments and having spared a few witnesses some trips to the Municipal court and grand jury. However, the trial of many cases has not been speeded, the commission points out.

IF I WERE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES

The Tribune invites pithy, brief statements describing what you would do if you were President of the United States. The invitation is to Tribune readers everywhere. Address Government Editor, The Tribune.

Editor: If I had the honor of being President I would at least endeavor to end this ever failing prohibition law and try to put in the Canadian government control liquor system, which I consider to be one of the best in the world.—Joseph J. Betlejewski, 327 South La Salle street.

Editor: I would recommend a law to prohibit newspapers from publishing photographs of women sitting in the divorce courts, with their legs crossed, asking for alimony.—Frank O. Strickland, Davenport, Ia.

Editor: If I were president legislation would be provided that would enable postal savings banks to pay 3 per cent on deposits. The government would use the increased deposits, saving 1 per cent on short term 4 per cent notes now being used for certain expenses. This would force the Chicago bankers trust to pay 4 per cent on deposits, as is done elsewhere.—D. W. F.

Editor. I would make it a felony for grocers to charge $19 a barrel for apples (12½ cents a pound) that they buy for $5 a barrel (3½ cents a pound). The farmer raises them, packs, barrels, and hauls them 6 to 10 miles, and pays freight to city and gets, say, $2 barrel, or $2.50. Also egg men charge 53 cents for packed eggs they bought in May for 20 cents.—J. R. P.

Editor: I would see that English speaking nations [such as England and America] should be allowed to visit each other without so much red tape—such as passports, permits and head tax.—S. A. W., Oak Park.

Editor: I would fire these "political" judges who allow influential lawyers 2 or 3 weeks to select a jury, thus costing the county thousands of dollars, much more than their salaries. —F. G. Taylor, 5806 Dorchester avenue.

Editor: I would ask Secretary of Labor J. J. Davis to refrain from making so many silly speeches.—Martin Hafron, Sterling, Ill.

SNOW BLANKETS CITY; COLDER, IS FORECAST TODAY

Storm Slows Up Traffic in Metropolitan Area.

A misty snow that sifted over Chicago between midnight Saturday and dusk last evening retarded traffic and increased motoring hazards in the metropolitan district. The official forecaster last night predicted fair weather and a moderate cold wave for today and tomorrow, with the temperature between 10 and 15 degrees.

The mercury, which the southwest wind boosted 15 degrees yesterday, stood close to the freezing point in the afternoon. Traffic moved at half speed as cautious motorists guided their cars from behind sleet covered windshields through the slippery streets. Many accidents occurred.

Mail and passenger planes left the municipal airport on schedule in all directions but eastward. Low visibility over Indiana forced the cancellation of flights to Cleveland.

While railroad schedules were unaffected, lake navigation was virtually blocked yesterday after the weather bureau hoisted warning of a strong northwest wind at 10 a. m. The sand sucker Gilbert was the only vessel to venture out of port. It cleared for Milwaukee.

FIVE AUTO DEATHS

A motorist was killed at a railroad crossing yesterday and four other persons died of injuries suffered in auto accidents. These five deaths increased the county motor toll this year to 912. The victims:

Howard Butts, 49 years old, 4928 West 23d place, Cicero. His car was demolished by a Michigan Central freight train at the 138th street crossing. Butts suffered injuries resulting in his death a short time later in the St. Francis hospital, Blue Island.

Mrs. Lucille Levine, 26 years old, 524 Belden avenue. Died at the Jackson Park hospital as the result of injuries received Tuesday when the automobile in which she was riding crashed into an Illinois Central train at 71st street and Stony Island avenue. Six others were seriously hurt in the accident.

George Dias, 40 years old, 7467 South Chicago avenue. Fatally injured, and Andrew Kolsen, 38 years old, 8945 Muskegon avenue, was seriously hurt when Kolsen's car skidded into a street car at 82d street and Cottage Grove avenue.

Frank Grill, 59 years old, a real estate dealer at 6815 South Ashland avenue. Died in St. Bernard's hospital of internal injuries incurred Thanksgiving day when he was run over while crossing 67th street and Hermitage avenue. The motorist, Miss Bernice Day, 28 years old, 5409 South Michigan avenue, was instructed to attend the inquest.

John Siska, 43 years old, 225 West 107th street. Died in the Roseland Community hospital of a skull fracture suffered Saturday night when struck at 107th street and Wentworth avenue by an automobile driven by David C. Capoal, 1259 South Kolin avenue. Capoal is held by Kensington police.

Thomas Caldwell, 26 years old, 4228 South Wallace street, and George Lewis, also 26, of 4701 Central avenue, Western Springs, suffered skull fractures, as did Mrs. Catherine McLaughlin, 42 years old, 5938 Cornell avenue, early this morning when a car owned by Lewis and driven by Caldwell skidded into a steel pillar under the Baltimore and Ohio tracks in 63d street. Mrs. McLaughlin's daughters, Helen, 22 years old, and Catherine, 17, escaped with lesser injuries. Caldwell and Lewis are clerks at the Drovers National bank.

$40,000 RESIDENCE BURNS.

Oak Bluffs, Mass., Dec. 1.—[U.P.]—The winter residence of H. O. Phillips, Pawtucket, R. I., manufacturer, burned early today. The damage is estimated at more than $40,000.

75 SNOWBOUND HUNTERS SAVED FROM FORESTS

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Aid was swiftly forthcoming today to hunters marooned in the snow-choked woods of eastern upper Michigan.

While reports of hardship continued to trickle in, volunteers took a hand to bring some 75 hunters whose cars were stuck in snowdrifts to the safety of a lumber camp.

At the same time, fears for the safety of nine hunters on the Tequamenon river, who had been missing for three days, were set at rest as their guide, Joe Beach, brought them out of the woods.

Beach brought reports that a number of other hunters still were marooned up the river and set out in his launch to bring them back. He was taking a chance in doing so, for cold weather made it a possibility that the river might freeze and trap him with them, residents of Newberry, Mich. said.

Conservation officers who made the trip on snowshoes said that the men whose cars were stuck near Eckerman had been brought to camp just in time. Their food was gone and many were suffering from the extreme cold.

Fail to Find Fishermen.

Ashland, Wis., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Search of the Apostle islands and mainland near Bayfield since Friday morning has failed to locate three fishermen who left Bayfield nearly two weeks ago for Manitou island in a small gasoline boat while a blizzard was raging. The fishermen are John Hanson, Harold Johnson, and a man known as Black Pete.

U. S. Forecasts Compared with Actual Weather

COBLENZ PRESS ATTACKS YANKS AT RHINE FETE

"Ueber Alles" Sung in 24 Hour Jubilee.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

COBLENZ, Germany, Dec. 1.—All night and all day Coblenz celebrated the liberation of the second zone of occupation in one of the most impressive demonstrations of patriotism Europe has seen in decades.

From the moment the German flag went up over the fortress of Ehrenbreitstein at midnight in a blaze of glory from bonfires and a sea of torches from the Rhine to the Moselle, the 50,000 celebrants, who flocked to Coblenz for the 24 hour festival, sang uninterruptedly "Deutchland Ueber Alles" and other national songs.

Flags in All Windows.

They went on until this afternoon when the Prussian state police, with their carbines, revolvers and cartridge belts, marched in both from the railroad station and river boats. On the Rhine and Moselle rivers hundreds of boats with improvised bands picked up the tunes that echoed back from the mountain sides, as well as in the narrow and quaint streets of picturesque Coblenz.

In every window flags of all descriptions were hanging, with only a few of the new black, red and gold republican flags showing against the mass of the old time imperial black, white and red flags.

Despite the government ban on the steel helmets, an ultra nationalist society, the organization of Rhineland steel helmets, in uniform, marched in military formation through the streets, with bands and flying colors. German Reichswehr soldiers from garrisons from beyond the neutral demilitarized Rhineland zone, appeared in their best uniforms.

Press Aims at U. S.

The celebration was marred by the attitude on the part of the Coblenz press, which indulged in gratuitous insults to the American army of occupation. The "Coblenz General-Anzeiger" gives a startling sample of European ingratitude in pretending to ignore that it was the American doughboys, who told their friends at home about the starving Germany that needed America's help. And this paper did not mention that it was the army that helped the women and children of Coblenz.

The Anzeiger, the town's biggest paper, issued a special 30 page "liberation number" with the alleged history of the eleven years of occupation. Speaking of the American army of occupation, this paper published:

"The Americans felt that they were the victors, and with the coarseness and lack of consideration that is peculiar to them, they made the population feel it. This must be stated, since the general impression prevails that everything was splendid in Coblenz during the days of the American occupation.

Americans "Full of Grotesque."

"It is true that the Americans did not meddle in Rhineland politics in the way the French did. But the Americans were full of the grotesque, and in view of their childish naïveté and gullibility, it is comprehensible that allied war propaganda had a disastrous effect on their attitude.

"The history of the days of the American occupation is filled with a great number of brutal violences, ruthless assaults and excesses.

"Many a Coblenz burgher, when walking the streets alone, suddenly found himself surrounded by a group of American soldiers who insulted him, knocked him down and tortured him until he became unconscious; not to speak of women and girls, who were assaulted while on their way home at nights. Assault, battery and rape and every kind of brutality was daily occurrence under the American régime. Girl telephone operators had to be escorted home from night duty by German policemen to protect them from American soldiers."

Calls Officers "Bad Actors."

Those who were in Coblenz in the days of the American occupation say the A. E. F. certainly did not need to resort to caveman tactics to win hearts. On the contrary, the observers state, the Americans were nonplused by the eagerness of young and older Rhineland maidens for good times.

In speaking of American officers, the Anzeiger moans about the "vicious way in which they lounged and kicked good leather armchairs with heavy boots and spurs, and how they let burning cigars fall on valuable rugs, or the way they threw empty champagne and cognac bottles through window panes, against mirrors or chandeliers."

Nine columns were devoted to the alleged American outrages. The Anzeiger has grace enough to admit that the military police did their best to keep order, but it does describe "the horrors of the American Fourth of July, and the way the American soldiers celebrated it. God! When we only think of it!"

Coblenz Takes Sides.

"In all justice, it must be recognized that during the last months before the American troops left there was little cause for complaint."

The Coblenz citizens are clearly divided in two camps. The women are unanimous in their indignation and warmly speak their love for the American soldiers. The men are surly. A good number of them were quite eloquent on the "wildness" of the well fed American boys, to whom the war was just a glorious adventure. They speak at great length of brawls, but there is in their talk a distinct and humanly comprehensible tinge of envy and jealousy.

BURNS FATAL TO PHONE WORKER.

Arthur Chatelton, 25 year old telephone lineman of 7429 South Green street, died yesterday in St. Anthony's hospital of burns suffered on Saturday when his clothing caught fire at 3700 West 38th street from a salamander beside which he stopped to warm himself.

ROMANCE ENDED BY DEATH

John J. Kinsella Jr., 24 years old, who was found dead, with a bullet hole in his right temple and a revolver on the floor beside him, in the office of the Certified Ice Cream company, in which he was a clerk and his father secretary and treasurer, and Miss Leonore Wegner, 18 years old, with whom he had been keeping company, on the steps of Kinsella's auto in Columbus park. (Story on page 1.)

MOSCOW TO GIVE FUNDS TO BRITISH REDS FOR PAPER

LONDON, Dec. 1.—Despite the insistence of Foreign Minister Arthur Henderson that the abandonment of the communist propaganda, which was made a condition for recognition between Russia and England, does not distinguish between the soviet government and the communist international, the latter organization has promised the British communists $275,000 to found a daily communist paper, says the Sunday Chronicle.

The British communists are now holding a conference in Leeds, where it was announced that the English Reds were only able to collect $2,000 towards the publication of the projected journal. It is understood that Moscow has criticised the English organization severely for its failure to publish a newspaper.

The communist movement is extremely weak in Great Britain and is losing daily. Shapurji Saklatvala, who was the only representative of the party in parliament, was defeated in the last election.

Crowds Watch Drowning from Two City Bridges

Crowds gathered on the Wells and La Salle street bridges last night attracted the attention of William Smith, the Wells street bridge tender, to a man struggling in the water in the middle of the river. Smith put out a boat in an effort to rescue the man, but he sank when the boat was about five yards away. The body was not found last night.

Whalen, New York Police Head, May Resign April 1

New York, Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Police Commissioner Grover A. Whalen may retire to private life on April 1, it was learned tonight. Whalen will remain in the post until the police college, his own creation, has opened its doors and is functioning smoothly. Then, and not until then, will he consider outside offers, it was said.

SIOUX CHIEF DIES; HEIRESS IS HELD AS DELINQUENT

Charging Hawk Leaves Rich Oil Lands.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Charging Hawk has gone to the happy hunting grounds, but last night there was agitation among his friends to know where his body had gone.

The wealthy old Sioux chieftain whose holdings in the Oklahoma oil fields, one square mile in area, are said to be valued at $2,000,000, died yesterday of tuberculosis at the Cook county hospital, where he had been a patient since October. His body was claimed by Silver Bear, another of the tribe, who represented himself to the authorities as the nearest relative of the deceased in Chicago.

Charging Hawk was a ward of the government and he had been unable to realize on his oil lands, which are held in trust for him.

Girl Heiress to Million.

Inez Charging Hawk, 18 years old, daughter of the dead Indian and by the terms of his will heiress to one-half his fortune, is an inmate of the House of the Good Shepherd. She is held there as a delinquent. Last February she made an unsuccessful effort through her father's attorney, Mary Belle Spencer, to gain her freedom in order to visit her father, then in Washington and said to be in a dying condition. The plea was refused.

Ethel O'Neil Charging Hawk, the white wife, whom the Sioux met and married in Chicago twenty years ago while on a trip here, and who went to live with him on the reservation at Rosebud, S. D., but was ostracised by his people, is somewhere in this city. She is the mother of Inez, and in his will is bequeathed the remaining $1,000,000. She is known as Ethel Numbo.

When Charging Hawk had breathed his last, word was sent to Silver Bear, houseman for a family on the South Shore drive, who had visited him frequently during his last days. It could not be learned last night whether Charging Hawk's daughter had visited the hospital, or whether his wife, estranged from him for years, had even known of his presence there.

Body Is Located.

Attorney Spencer was called last night by friends of the 72 year old chief, who informed her that Silver Bear had claimed the body. They denied that Silver Bear had any ties of blood with Charging Hawk. It was learned that Silver Bear had ordered the body removed to the Cohn undertaking parlors, 422 South Clark street.

Inez, like her father, is a ward of the federal government. He inherited his property from his parents, to whom it was allotted by the government. He had served with the United States army and also on the police force at the Rosebud reservation.

Fire Causes $50,000 Loss in Far South Side Plant

A fire starting from a gas leak in a machine shop last night caused damage estimated at $50,000 in the plant of the United Air Cleaners company, 9705 Cottage Grove avenue, manufacturers of radios, radio equipment, and air cooling systems for automobiles. The blaze was confined to the machine shop which occupies one end of the building, a one-story brick structure, covering half of a block.

CHICAGO PRAISED BY BRITISH WRITER FOR BEING 'CITY OF VISION'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 1.—Writing in the Sunday Express, Edgar Wallace, England's fastest moving journalist who writes most of the British crime plays, detective stories, and much other light fiction, says the most vivid impression he brought back from his recent American trip is the "potentiality of Chicago."

"Here is a city so vividly American," Mr. Wallace says, "yet so indifferent to the externals that it might be English; a city which in my mind is not stupid and, to the thinker, is not a synonym for crime. Apart from those offenses which are directly traceable to prohibition, it is as lawabiding a place as there is in the world; a city with vision that is not content with dreaming, but must carry the dream into realization. It is alive, awake, and amazingly vital. You will find a thrill in this city which none other has for you."

Mr. Wallace also was impressed by the traffic control both in Chicago and New York; the courtesy, physique, and efficiency of the police of the two cities; the excellent job done by American journalists; the amount of drinking among young people; and the ludicrous spectacle of misproportioned representation which fails to give such states as Illinois and New York an equitable voice in the nation's affairs.

Pershing Joins His Son in Nebraska for Holidays

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Gen. J. J. Pershing and his sister, Miss May Pershing, arrived here today from Cheyenne, Wyo., where they attended the funeral of the late Senator F. E. Warren. The general intends to spend Christmas here with his son, Warren.

SOCIETY PEOPLE IDENTIFY 4 IN JEWEL ROBBERY

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Nine men paraded before a small gathering of Buffalo society people today and when it was over four had been identified as members of the gang of five who held up and robbed eighteen guests of jewelry valued at $250,000 at the home of John L. Carson Jr. here recently.

The men identified are "Dapper Red" Duke, Teddy Rogackis, Eddie Praybi, and Billy Seiner.

The "showup" took place in the auditorium of the Williamsville High school.

"Red" Duke was identified by four persons and the other three identified by at least two. Teddy Rogacki was pointed out by Mrs. Gibson Gardner as the bandit who kicked her under the table when she attempted to pull a mask from his face.

District Attorney Guy B. Moore announced after the showup that he would arraign the four men in court Monday morning on John Doe indictments recently returned by the grand jury.

2 Arrested as Dangerous Persons at Labor Meeting

New Orleans, La., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Police today raided a meeting of laborers and arrested Victor Aronson, secretary of the Marine Workers league, and two seamen, Walter Kreworth and Fritz Strauss, league members. They were charged with being dangerous and suspicious characters and with having no visible means of support. The meeting was at headquarters of the league and the International Labor Defense. Stephen Allson, secretary of the I. L. D., said an injunction would be asked tomorrow forbidding police to "terrorize laborers."

GROCER ROBBED OF $126.

Louis Spector was closing his grocery at 2750 North Kimball avenue last midnight when four armed men entered, robbed him of $126, and escaped, he told the Shakespeare police.

HOOVER STRIVES TO SAVE PEACE TREATY IN CHINA

U.S. Foreign Policy Hinges on Fate of Pact.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—The first test of the efficacy of the Kellogg-Briand pact to prevent war or to stop a war is at hand. It has failed to prevent the war between Russia and China over control of the Chinese Eastern railway, which is raging in Manchuria, and it now remains to be seen whether the pact can stop this war.

The test of the pact has produced a crisis for the world peace movement and for the administration of President Hoover, who has founded his foreign policies largely on the assumption of the efficacy of the Kellogg treaty to banish war.

If the pact should come out of this test measurably vindicated by a cessation of the war in Manchuria, Mr. Hoover will gain prestige and will go forward with renewed confidence along the course of international policy he has charted. If, however, failure should mark his efforts to make the pact effective, the prestige both of the treaty and of the administration will suffer, with implications of far reaching import affecting Mr. Hoover's disarmament and other international policies.

Cables Fly to Other Powers.

These are among the reasons that have spurred Mr. Hoover and Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson to a sudden burst of energy to save the Kellogg pact from the scrap heap in the case of the war in Manchuria. That they have resolved upon a course of action is not doubted in view of all the cabling back and forth in the last few days between the state department and the chancelleries of the other great powers and of the frequent conferences of Mr. Stimson and the ambassadors of Great Britain, France, Italy Germany and Japan.

The rumblings of these interchanges indicate that the international mountain is laboring. Whether it will bring forth anything more than a mouse is the subject of animated speculation in the capitals of the powers tonight. The cabling back and forth of proposals, suggestions, counsels, and counter-suggestions continued today with unabated activity, giving rise to the surmise that the United States, either independently or in coöperation with other powers, is about to take a definite step, if it has not done so already toward inducing Russia and China to cease hostilities and settle their differences by pacific means.

General Agreement Unlikely.

The precise character of the action contemplated has not been divulged. There is reason to doubt, however, that it is a concerted action of the leading powers. There is too much difference of opinion between the United States and the European powers on the proper means of enforcing the Kellogg pact to allow agreement on concerted action. The European powers are wedded to the theory that the pact can be made effective only by the use of force against the nation violating the treaty. The United States, however, has not been disposed, up to date at least, to join other nations in the use of force, preferring to rely on the power of moral suasion.

Unless Mr. Hoover has made some concession to the European viewpoint, his action now is not likely to represent any great departure from his initial move when hostilities broke out between Russia and China last summer. At that time Secretary Stimson in a formal note to Russia and China reminded those nations that they are signatories to the Kellogg pact and as such are solemnly committed not to resort to war, but to settle their dispute by pacific means.

Stick to Theory Despite Jolt.

Mr. Hoover and Mr. Stimson have been proceeding on the theory that the force of public opinion will operate to deter nations from violating the Kellogg pact. Their theory was jolted when Russia and China began fighting with the ink scarcely dry on signatures to the treaty, but they were not completely disillusioned. What was needed, they opined, was to mobilize the public opinion of the world in support of the pact. That would inspire prospective violators with wholesome respect for the pact thought Mr. Hoover and Mr. Stimson.

How to mobilize world opinion against infraction of the anti-war pledge has been the subject of much study by the President and his minister of foreign affairs. Apparently they came to the conclusion that there is need of amplifying the Kellogg pact with the provision of some sort of machinery for making the treaty effective.

Inquiry Proposal Expected.

In his Armistice day address, in connection with his expressed confidence that in the western hemisphere at least "public opinion will suffice to check violence," the President said:

"What we urgently need in this direction is a further development of methods for reference of unsettled controversies to joint inquiry by the parties assisted by friendly nations, in order that action may be stayed and that the aggressor may be subjected to the searchlight of public opinion."

In some quarters it is surmised that the President will now propose to Russia and China the same sort of inquiry into the controversy between them that he suggested in his Armistice day address.

Japan Is Lukewarm.

To what extent the other powers have approved of further action by the United States in regard to the conflict in Manchuria has not been disclosed so far. It is apparent, however, that Japan is lukewarm to the proposals made by Mr. Hoover and Mr. Stimson.

There is a good deal of speculation on the reasons for the attitude of Japan, particularly in view of the trend of Japanese policy toward weakening the hold of the central government of China on the province of Manchuria, which is a special sphere of Japanese activity and influence. Presumably Japan regards with satisfaction the present break between Manchuria and China over the policy in dealing with Russia. The Manchurian government has yielded to the Russian demand for the reinstatement of the Russian officials of the railroad while China is holding out against any such concession.

Treaty's Doom Feared.

The view is widely held that the present situation is a critical one for the future of the Kellogg pact. If it fails to justify itself in this crisis it will be doomed, it is feared, to go the way of other peace panaceas.

To comprehend the crisis that this presents to the Hoover administration it is only necessary to recall the extent to which the President has based his international policies on the assumption of the efficacy of the pact. Not since Woodrow Wilson has an American President dealt so idealistically with the problems of international relations.

In the joint statement issued by the President and Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain, the Kellogg pact was made the cornerstone of the future relations of the two English speaking powers. The two statesmen declared that as a result of the signing of the peace pact it is possible to say in a "new and reinforced sense" that war between Britain and America is unthinkable. Their conversations were devoted to approaching problems of Anglo-American relations from the "new angle" produced by the war renunciation pledge.

Navy Parley May Be Affected.

In his Armistice day speech, the President revealed his high hopes that most of the vexed problems of international relations will be solved by devotion to the ideal expressed in the Kellogg pact. Even the age old controversy over the freedom of the seas in time of war, he pointed out, will become purely an "academic discussion" if "the world succeeds in establishing peaceful methods of settlement of controversies."

The Hoover administration has approached the negotiations on the reduction of naval armament from the viewpoint that the Kellogg pact has made war an extremely remote contingency. It is proceeding on the theory that it is not necessary for the United States to maintain a navy large enough to protect either the Philippines or American commerce in distant seas.

If the prestige of the Kellogg pact should become impaired, the result, it is not doubted, would have an effect on the London naval reduction conference. Nations unwilling to reduce armament would find a new argument to support their contentions. Particularly if invocation of the Kellogg pact should fail to stop the war in Manchuria would Japan insist upon the increased allowance of big cruisers and submarines for which she is contending.

Russian Planes Bomb U. S. Red Cross Train; Many Slain

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HARBIN, Manchuria, Dec. 1.—The soviet air bombing of undefended Chinese towns occupied by Chinese and White Russians reached a culmination yesterday when 20 Red planes dropped more than 100 explosives upon the town of Pokutu.

One bomb struck a train bearing the American Red Cross committee, which was dispatched over the western branch of the Chinese Eastern railway for the purpose of extending relief to thousands of White Russian refugees fleeing toward Harbin in order to escape the Red troops. The chairman of the Red Cross committee, the Rev. Charles Leonard of Statesville, N. C., a member of the Southern Baptist mission, was aboard the train, which was seriously damaged. Many were killed and injured, but Dr. Leonard escaped.

Bombs Hit Hospital.

Other bombs struck a Chinese Eastern railway hospital filled with patients. The explosion started a fire. Other bombs demolished the railway clubhouse, causing fires throughout the city. Destruction of the railway station cut off communication to Harbin for several hours, but it is now restored.

The refugees stated that scenes of indescribable terror and confusion were caused by the presence of several trains bearing refugees, who were fleeing toward Harbin from other towns further west. With the police in a panic, mobs of famished men and women started looting the shops, but order was soon restored by Chinese troops.

The foreign consular body here at a special meeting requested Chinese officials to make a definite statement pertaining to the safety of the foreign population in the event of the Reds bombing Harbin, but the Chinese again assured the consuls of the safety of foreign lives and property.

Mobs Flee to Harbin.

Crowds of refugees continue to flock into Harbin, utilizing motor cars, droshkies, and all the known means of conveyance, while hundreds are arriving afoot. The local official Chinese paper, Kungpao, published a declaration, signed by the local Chinese military office, assuring Harbin's safety and also warning against carrying concealed arms and of sheltering suspected persons.

The foreign commissioner, Tsai Yung-shen, and Li Shao-kun, director of the Chinese Eastern railway, departed today for Khabarovsk, Siberia, to meet M. Melinikoff, former soviet consul general at Harbin, hoping to arrange armistice terms.

Manchurian Goes to Parley.

GRODEKOVA, Siberia, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Tsai Yun-shen, official representative of Gov. Chang Hsueh-liang of Manchuria, passed through here today enroute to Nikolsk-Ussurisky where he will negotiate with the soviet representative on the Chinese Eastern railway dispute.

On Nov. 27, Maxim Litvinoff, acting commissar of foreign affairs, announced that the Mukden provincial government had met the demands of the soviet union for steps preliminary to negotiations for settlement of the railway dispute.

These were for the restoration of A. I. Emshanov as manager and M. Ehmont as assistant manager of the railway. He appointed M. Simanovsky foreign office agent at Khabarovsk to represent the government in discussing the time and place for a conference to review the whole dispute.

DOUBLE SLAYER GIVEN LIFE TERM BY MARION JURY

Marion, Ill., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Roscoe Kimmell, 36 year old farmer, was found guilty of murder and given a sentence of life imprisonment by a jury in Circuit court here at midnight last night for the double slaying of his neighbors, Oscar Howard and wife, on Aug. 23, after a quarrel over a partnership fence.

Disregarding Kimmell's plea that he killed the Howards and wounded their 14 year old son Lloyd from ambush to prevent them slaying his own wife and small son, the jury found Kimmell guilty on the first ballot. Five hours later his punishment was fixed on the twelfth ballot.

Although Kimmell claimed all three of the Howards aimed a gun at his wife before he fired, the Howard boy was shot once in the back and once in the side. The shot in the back, Kimmell stoutly maintained, was due to an accidental discharge of his gun. A new trial will be asked.

PARLEY ON RIGHTS OF YANKS IN CHINA TO OPEN FEB. 12

SHANGHAI, Dec. 1.—(AP)—A Kuomin News agency dispatch from Nanking today said:

"By an agreement reached between the Chinese minister at Washington and the state department, negotiations for abolition of American extraterritoriality privileges in China will be opened in Washington on Feb. 12.

"It is understood the foreign ministry is also preparing to open similar negotiations with British, French, Dutch and Brazilian governments."

Unconfirmed reports of such negotiations were circulated at Nanking yesterday. Abandonment of extraterritoriality privileges by foreign nationals would subject foreigners to Chinese courts instead of especially constituted alien judiciaries.

LOAN COMPANY OFFICIAL ROBBED.

Four masked men held up Herman Mitchell, 40 years old, yesterday in the office of the West Loan and Mortgage company, 3952 Roosevelt road, of which he is secretary, and escaped with $500 in cash and $900 in checks.

REM also helps third in family

After Mary May of 501 Coffey St., Indianapolis had the flu, a bad cough still bothered her. But both her father and her brother had themselves had experience in getting rid of a cough, and knew what to do. They had both used REM and, as Mr. May says, "We are all great believers in it." So father bought a new bottle of REM at Withers' Pharmacy on Oliver Ave. near Warren, and a third member of the May family soon learned how quickly REM brings its soothing relief. Another thing she also learned was that REM isn't unpleasant to take. It hasn't that nasty taste that makes children dread "medicine time." Mothers and fathers can appreciate that!

WANT TO LOOK YOUNG?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eye with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

CHICAGO NEEDS MORE BUILDINGS, SURVEY REVEALS

Normal 10% Vacancy Now Reduced to 4.7%.

BY AL CHASE.

Chicago is underbuilt, according to a survey just completed by Postmaster Arthur C. Lueder and made public last night through the Chicago Real Estate board. Instead of the normal 10 per cent vacancies in rentable space, the government survey finds that the city has only a 4.7 per cent residential and store area not rented.

And, according to Albert W Swayne, president of the Real Estate board, a normal and healthy construction program is scheduled to start shortly.

"A 4.7 per cent vacancy figure is considered a low one by real estate, building, and financial authorities," said Mr. Swayne. "This occupancy factor, with Chicago's increase in population, has brought the Chicago rental market back to a point of stability."

"The government survey shows that unless building starts soon a shortage will result and rents will go up. This would work a hardship on the small renter. We should create and maintain a normal condition."

Close to Building Shortage.

Real estate men point out that the 4.7 per cent vacancy factor brings Chicago close to an actual building shortage when the normal increase in population is considered. This is shown roughly by taking 100,000 as the annual increase in population, which is below the average. Such an increase is 3 1-3 per cent of the city's estimated 3,000,000 population. Therefore in less than a year and a half the increase in population alone would absorb all the building vacancies.

The data collected by the 2,500 postmen for Mr. Lueder show that there are 50,718 vacancies in stores, flats and houses, or 4.7 per cent of all the 1,073,838 mail addresses in the areas covered. The loop was not included in the survey.

There are 119,367 single family dwellings in Chicago. Of these only 2,703, a total of 2.29 per cent, are vacant.

There are 770,812 apartments throughout the city. The survey shows 39,376, or only 5.1 per cent, are vacant at present.

Chicago has 183,000 delivery addresses (outside the loop) other than houses or apartment buildings, most of which are stores. In these there are only 3,639 vacancies, or 4.7 per cent.

Totals	8,639	39,376	2,703	4.7

Of the forty-eight postal station districts canvassed, Uptown had the largest number of vacant flats, 2,089. Next was Rogers Park, with 2,030. The south shore area came third with 1,865 vacant apartments reported by the Windsor Park postal station.

Chicago Ave. Tops Vacancy List.

The highest percentage of vacancy figures, including stores, flats, and dwellings, was found in the Chicago avenue district. It was 11.2 per cent. Although this district encompasses a part of the gold coast, it also includes a wide area west of this section in which there are many old structures, small factories, and loft buildings, which accounts for the high vacancy figure.

The figures on housing conditions were obtained from Postmaster Lueder by the Chicago Real Estate board in order to find out if free concessions in the form of rent were justified, Mr. Swayne said. This is the first time such a government survey has been made public, although, according to Mr. Lueder, the survey has been an annual affair for years.

Mr. Swayne stressed the point that this was an impartial survey made by distinterested parties and might not have been favorable to the real estate interests. The letter carriers were provided with cards on which they checked vacancies in all buildings receiving mail except hotels, apartment hotels, and rooming houses where clerks receive mail for redistribution. These were counted as one delivery.

SURPRISES BURGLARS IN HOME

[Connelley Photo.]

When Mrs. Hubert Gotzes, the former Werra von Putkammer, returned to her apartment at 536 Brompton place last night with her 4 year old son she heard burglars moving about inside.

The intruders—there were three—fled out the back door as she entered. They had broken a window pane in the kitchen door, reached inside to unlock it, and had ransacked a bedroom before being interrupted.

Town Hall police were called and an investigation revealed four fox furs missing. Mr. Gotzes, proprietor of a concern dealing in religious supplies at 1536 North Clark street, had purchased the furs for his wife in New York and valued them at $2,000.

Burglars ransacked the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Rose, 6848 South Shore drive, last evening while the couple was on a visit. They escaped with six dozen sets of silverware and two emerald bar pins. Mrs. Rose discovered the burglary upon her return home at 11 p. m.

7 MINERS KILLED AND 15 RESCUED IN DRIFT BLAST

Explosion Is Localized by Safety Devices.

West Frankfort, Ill., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Seven coal miners were killed and fifteen others escaped injury in an explosion in a drift at Old Ben mine No. 8, early today.

The death list announced by officials of the mine follows: James Tabor, Thomas McDermott, Veto Gerdino, Jewell Baker, and his brother, Dewey Baker, Earl Beardon, and Henry Isaacs. All resided at West Frankfort except Isaacs, who is said to have lived at Johnson City. McDermott was an examiner for the Illinois department of mines. He was making his nightly inspection when the blast occurred.

Fifteen men were saved my safety devices which automatically released shale dust to localize the explosion in the one drift, about one and one-quarter miles back from the bottom of the shaft. They were brought to the surface uninjured soon after the explosion.

Little damage was done to the mine. A. Danny Lewis of Springfield, director of mines, arrived late today to begin an investigation. It is believed the blast was caused by coal dust gas.

Caraway Is Challenged by Foes of Intolerance.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Warnings that its impartiality will be questioned until the Anti-Saloon league, the Methodist board of temperance, prohibition, and public morals, the federal council of churches, and kindred church-dry lobbies have been subjected to the same inquisition undergone by tariff propagandists were addressed to the senate's lobby investigating committee today.

An open letter to Senator T. H. Caraway [Dem., Ark.], appearing in the Challenge, a new monthly opposing intolerance generally and Bishop James Cannon Jr. in particular, asserts that to allow the Anti-Saloon league to escape the committee's searchlight will "cast the shadow of insincerity over every other good you have done."

Will Get Letters Today.

Similarly, Representative George Holden Tinkham [Rep., Mass.] directed the attention of Caraway, the committee chairman, to the lobbying activities of the Methodist board and the federal council of churches as a threat against the principle of separation of church and state which the investigators cannot afford to ignore.

Both challenges will be laid before the committee when it meets Tuesday to decide when it will resume its hearings and fix a date for the appearance of officials of the American Legion, who will submit the evidence which led that organization in convention at Louisville in October to denounce ten pacifists or Red propaganda organizations and demand an investigation of their activities by the senate committee.

Mr. Tinkham, in his letter to Caraway, points out that the Methodist board, under the leadership of Dr. Clarence True Wilson, makes no secrets of its attempts to "influence and direct legislative and executive branches of the government and to influence and interfere with judicial appointments and the administration of justice." The Methodist board, Mr. Tinkham recalled, boasted that "fortunately we have the location of all locations just opposite the senate wing of the capitol" for its $500,000 headquarters.

Issues Propaganda Sheet.

"It employs," Mr. Tinkham continued in his letter, "paid professional servants and agents, one of whom is Clarence True Wilson, its secretary, to communicate with members of congress, to go before committees of congress, and to solicit departments of the government. It sends each week to members of the senate and the house a propaganda sheet which advocates or opposes legislation and attacks in abusive language officials who are not in accord with its views."

"No other organization of any kind," the Massachusetts congressman asserted, "can compare with this organization in its constant and systematic legislative activity."

"It is obvious," he argued, "that this organization, with its constant success in posing its views upon the legislative and executive departments of the government, its repeated efforts to dictate judicial appointments and its constant coercion of the judiciary, is wholly perverting the purposes of government and is completely destroying the confidence of the American people in the integrity of their government and in the administration of justice."

Federal Church Council.

In like manner, Mr. Tinkhan charged, the Federal Council of church, if there by any other, and thus national bankers and business interests, seeks by paid propagandists and lobbyists to influence both the foreign and domestic policies of the country.

In its open letter, The Challenge commends the lobby committee for the exposure of the employment of a personal tariff adviser by Senator Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.] to sit in with the senate's finance committee during its framing of the tariff revision bill. It digresses long enough to discuss the "refreshing candor" of Joseph Grundy, Pennsylvania lobbyist, who frankly told the investigators he would limit the voice of "backward" western and southern states in national affairs in proportion to their contributions to the national treasury.

Grundy Not Laughable Figure.

"Far from being a laughable figure," the Challenge observed, "Mr. Grundy may, if he pleases, justly himself by no less a personage than Alexander Hamilton . . . who throughout the constitutional convention stoutly fought for his belief that the destiny of the United States should rest in the hands of men with property, or with the ability to create property."

"But," continued the Challenge's letter, "we want more than our sugar and steel kept out of the hands of those who would exploit us. We need to be saved from those who would exploit us for other than material ends. . . . At a time of national hysteria the Anti-Saloon league gained a hold over legislation and legislators. It gained this power on pretense of a great moral crusade. The success of that crusade is, to say the least, still open to doubt; but the pretense and the power remain, and the league is minded to keep them both.

". . . The point is that here in this body of pretended moral zealots is another lobby which merits exposure the more because its aims are as secret as the finances which keep those aims in motion. Mr. Joseph Grundy may be called as narrow as a crack, but beside the leaders of the Anti-Saloon league lobby his candor calls for a crown in heaven."

Awes Timid Investigators.

The letter reviewed other futile attempts to disclose the inner workings and financing of the league which has successfully met past demands for public scrutiny of its books by "donning the mask of its pretended moral character" and thus frightening timid legislators or investigators.

"As haters of special privilege, or of any others who would exert an unwholesome private power over congress, you cannot permit" the Challenge warned Caraway and his fellow investigators, "on any pretended moral grounds, a special privilege to these. Not to examine the Anti-Saloon league would be to cast the shadow of insincerity over every other good which you have done."

Well and Darkly Financed.

"When, senator," the letter concludes, "are you and your committee to summon before you F. Scott McBride, Clarence True Wilson, and others who manipulate an organization whose ways are dark, whose aims are darker still, but whose record blazes with costly blunders.

"Even the privately subscribed funds these persons have spent on their doubtful crusade are not wholly the concern of the individuals who contributed, and lost, this money. The fact that this lobby, no matter what it is up to, is so well and so darkly financed, alone renders it an object of suspicion.

"The people of the entire country demand, and with right, to know the source of its private funds, their amount, and how the money is spent. When, Sir, do you intend to act?"

Ousting of Bishop Cannon Urged by Church Writers

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Straws indicating a definite trend in the Methodist Church South toward the unfrocking of its dry leader, Bishop James Cannon Jr., are gathered in the current issue of the Challenge, a monthly periodical dedicated to "the destruction of the political power of the Methodist church and its allies."

Outstanding leaders in the church are quoted as predicting that the general conference in Dallas, Tex., next May will be compelled to take some action to purge the church of the disrepute into which it has been brought by Cannon's political activities and his Wall street speculations.

It is known that prominent Methodist laymen in Virginia have undertaken the preparation of formal charges against Cannon for submission to a commission of bishops, which, if it finds the charges well grounded, must recommend an investigation, the first step in unfrocking the bishop, by the Dallas conference.

Presiding Elder Quoted.

Among the leaders quoted in the Challenge is the 80 year old Rev. Basom Anthony, presiding elder of the South Georgia conference of the church, which on Nov. 9, by a vote of 157 to 26, adopted a resolution opposing life tenure for bishops of the church. Adoption of the resolution in the form of a memorial to the Dallas conference was recommended by Dr. Anthony, who pointed out that "a misfit is occasionally elected to a bishopric."

"If he is not a straight out, old fashioned gambler," declared Dr. Anthony, who without mentioning Cannon's name reviewed the latter's dealings as a favored client of the New York bucket shop, "I wouldn't know one if I met him in the road labeled with box car letters."

Delegate to Fight On.

Fred C. Abbott of Norfolk, Va., who as a delegate to the annual Virginia conference in Richmond last September saw his resolution calling upon the general conference to curb the political activities of Methodist clergy tabled on technical grounds, is quoted as saying the fight will be carried to the Dallas conference.

Another prominent layman, Charles B. Parkhill of Tampa, Fla., in a special article written recently for the Alabama Christian Advocate, deplored the "entanglement" of the church in politics by Cannon and his ilk and continues:

"The spiritual life of the church is at stake. Confusion, discord and dissension are found in our church from Chesapeake bay to the Rio Grande."

"I feel very deeply about this," the paper quotes Bishop Collins Denny of Virginia as saying. "I don't think it is within the sphere of the church to do such things. I fear it means the ultimate division of the Methodist church, for many will refuse to be dragged as a church into politics."

At Parting of Ways.

"The church," according to an excerpt from the Alabama Christian Advocate, "has come to the parting of the ways. Either it must continue to the teachings of Jesus Christ and pursue the course pointed out by our great leaders whose names have been mentioned, or the church must consent to its bishops and preachers entering into the realm of politics to direct and control the affairs of state.

"When the general conference assembles next May in the city of Dallas it must settle this question. May God guide and direct his people in this critical hour."

year as recommended by the administration will come up for consideration on the floor of the house on Thursday. The ways and means committee is to hold a hearing on it Wednesday. Its approval by the house either on Thursday or Friday is assured.

The first of the annual appropriation bills will be ready for presentation in the house by the time the tax measure is out of the way.

Another bill which will be brought up in the house before the holidays provides for ratification of the Mellon-Berenger agreement for funding the French debt. The ways and means committee will commence hearings on this bill as soon as the tax cut resolution has been sent to the senate.

The case affecting the right of William S. Vare of Pennsylvania to a seat in the senate comes up in the senate on Tuesday under an agreement entered into last spring.

Status of Tariff Bill.

If the Vare case should be postponed for a few days consideration of the tariff bill will be resumed. Otherwise the tariff bill will go over until the Vare case is out of the way. Some senators still think there is a chance of passage of the tariff bill before the Christmas holidays, but the general belief seems to be that final action will not be taken before January, which will mean that the bill will be in conference until spring.

It is expected that the house tax cut resolution will be given the right of way in the senate as soon as it is approved by the finance committee. Its consideration may not require more than a day or two.

Suspend Police Phones to Make Exchange Automatic

DROP OF BRITISH BEER SALES LAID TO HOME BREW

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 1.—England's home brewing problem is becoming acute. As a result of heavy taxes on alcoholic drinks, the British have taken to buying malt and hops and brewing their own beer. It is against the law unless a license is obtained, but authorities are unable to prevent private persons from making liquor for home consumption.

Official figures show that the consumption of beer has dropped in the past 16 years by 68,000,000 gallons. It is the opinion of the authorities that the decrease of the amount of beer bought from licensed dealers represents an increase in home brewing.

A pint of stout or ale costs 16 cents, the greater part of which goes to the government. Unhampered by tax, a private citizen is able to produce the same beverage at a cost of 1½ cents a pint.

PRINCESS JAILED IN MOSCOW FOR BIBLE TEACHING

LONDON, Dec. 2 [Monday].—(AP)—A dispatch to the London Daily Mail from Riga, Latvia, today said that Princess Sophie Lieven, sister-in-law of Sir Kynaston Studd, who was lord mayor of London last year, had been imprisoned in Lubianka jail in Moscow by political police for her Christian missionary activities in Russia. The chief charge against her was said to be that she read the Bible to children of soviet workers.

The family here has no word of the arrest, but said that owing to difficulties in communication they have not had regular direct correspondence with Princess Sophie.

BARKING OF DOG BALKS TORTURE ROBBERY EFFORT

The barking of a small dog last night frightened away two bandits who had taken $300 from Mrs. M. B. Miller, cashier of the Central Park hotel, 321 North Central avenue, before they could learn where the rest of the hotel's money was hidden. The men followed Mrs. Miller from the hotel lobby to her room on an upper floor of the hotel, and as she entered the door threatened her and her husband with revolvers.

The robbers tied Miller to a chair and took the $300 from Mrs. Miller. She refused to reveal the hiding place of additional hotel funds and the two men started to torture her to force her to reveal it, when the dog started rushing at them, snapping at their legs and yelping. Apparently afraid that his noise would attract other persons in the hotel, the robbers fled.

CALLS ON CHIEFS OF INDUSTRY TO STARVE OUT WAR

Can't Fight Without Raw Materials, Hurley Says.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Prevention of war by a "gentlemen's agreement" among the world's industrial captains to deny to belligerent nations the strategic materials required in modern warfare, was suggested yesterday by Edward N. Hurley, wartime chairman of the United States shipping board. The proposal took the form of a letter to M. Georges Theunes of Brussels, president of the international chamber of commerce, asking that the Hurley plan be placed on the agenda of the next international meeting of the chamber.

Mr. Hurley names thirty-one leaders in the world's industries who, he declares, are in a position to veto wars.

The Power of Business.

The world's business chiefs, he argues, are in fact today an international economic republic." He urges them to take concerted action to control the supply of iron ore, coal, rubber, manganese, nickel, aluminum, petroleum, news print pulp, tungsten, chromium and mercury in such a way that they cannot be hoarded in sufficient quantities by any nation as a preparation for war.

"The real weak spot in the armor of Mars lies in raw materials," says the Hurley letter. It adds that any modern nation could be paralyzed for warfare by refusal of business organizations in other lands to sell it raw supplies.

"The most practical method of perpetuating world peace and world prosperity," declares Mr. Hurley, "is the inauguration of a control of industrial materials for war by the leaders of world business.

"No One to Stop Plan."

"There are two or three dozen men in the world today who could meet and form a gentlemen's agreement to control the essential raw materials of the world in the interest of business stability and peace, and there is no force in the world today which could effectively forbid their exercising that control.

"There might be shrieks and protests from reactionary groups in all nations; but there is no political or juridical machinery anywhere which could be effectively invoked to prevent such a humanitarian undertaking. The thing could be done without political influence, in republic or monarchy. No approval from any government is needed."

Names Industrial Generals.

Mr. Hurley gives the names of thirty-one leaders, who, he says, through their control of industries and materials, might by acting in concert, choke war to death. These leaders are:

John D. Ryan, chairman of the Anaconda Copper Mining company.

E. Ernaqus of Brussels, copper magnate.

Harvey Firestone of the Firestone Rubber company.

H. Eric Miller, managing director of Harrison's and Crossfield, British rubber producers.

Willis L. King, president of the Jones and Laughlin Steel corporation.

Sir Hugh Bell, Sir Arthur J. Dorman and Sir Robert A. Hadfield, British steel leaders.

Dr. Albert Vogler and Dr. Fritz Thyssen of the German steel industry.

Jacques Von Hoegarden, Belgian steel magnate.

Eugene Schneider, Francois de Wendel and Alexander Dreux, leaders of the French steel industry.

Lord Melchett and Sir William Alexander Barts of Great Britain's chemical industries.

M. Donat-Agache of France.

Gerard Swope, president of the General Electric company.

In his letter to M. Theunis, Mr. Hurley declares that the nations will not be wise if they trust too much in disarmament or in international control of credit.

Attacks the Demagogues.

"Battlements of moral purpose," he writes, "have often been washed away by floods of passion easily drawn from the wells of primitive instinct by chauvinistic demagogues. That wars cannot be fought without money is a sophistry which withers under scrutiny."

"Capitalistic greed" is popularly ascribed as the cause of wars, he points out, because of the illusion of vast profits created by inflation of the currency, which actually is destroying prior investments.

"The politicians who precipitate war for party saving motives are able to direct the anger of the multitude against the so called profiteers," the letter continues. "It seems to me that the business leaders of the world would tire of this rôle of scapegoat for the demagogue. If they ever do they can take effective steps to make a war a very difficult if not impossible enterprise."

Raw Materials the Key.

Mr. Hurley adds that no peace preserving machinery can be complete without control of raw materials.

"As all steel men know," he writes, "at one critical period in the world war the United States had only a three weeks' supply of manganese ore. If the four ships carrying supplies of this ore from Brazil had been delayed by German submarine activity, every steel plant in America would have had to shut down.

"Manufacture of high speed steels and our electric illumination are dependent upon an annual supply of only a few thousand tons of tungsten. The commissary of modern armies is dependent upon an ample supply of tin. Not a rifle or machine gun in the world could be fired without mercury.

"The end of the war was brought to pass by slow starvation of the industries of the central powers and the consequent discontent and rebellious attitude of their civil populations.

"The German army never was defeated in the field, and under the conditions of former ages it would have required many years to have forced a surrender. Thus the end of the last war points out to us the best method of preventing the beginning of another war. World business cannot starve Mars unless the leaders of world business acquire a unanimous or overwhelming will to peace, and not until they organize on common sense lines to get what they want."

Fire in Hospital Perils 69 Crippled Children

RECOVER $150,000 IN STOLEN GOODS; QUIZ 3; HUNT 1

Court action for the seizure of the stocks of two Milwaukee avenue business establishments, in the belief that the stores have been used as a means of disposing of stolen property, will be sought today by Police Lieut. William Cusack. One of the establishments is "Ralph's Bargain Store" at 1452 Milwaukee avenue, and the other is a warehouse at 1474 Milwaukee avenue. Ralph Nakutin, alleged owner of the places, is being sought.

Lieut. Cusack investigated on information that "suspicious bargains" were being offered at the two places. According to the lieutenant, stolen merchandise valued at nearly $150,000 has been recovered. Nakutin's father, Adam, 89 years old, and his brother, Hyman, 2125 Alice place, and a clerk, Louis Enenberg, were in custody for questioning last night.

ARCTIC STORMS DELAY SEARCH FOR LOST FLYERS

NOME, Alaska, Dec. 1.—(AP)—With the arrival at Teller, Alaska, of Pilot Joe Crosson, two planes today were available to conduct an aerial search for Pilot Carl Ben Eielson and Mechanic Earl Borland, missing since Nov. 9. Pilot Frank Dorbandt has been at Teller for several days ready to fly to the rescue of the missing aviators, but has been prevented from doing so by unfavorable weather conditions.

Both men were lost on a second flight to the fur trading ship Nanuk, icebound at North Cape, Siberia, approximately 500 miles from Teller. They were reported within 50 miles of the Nanuk on Nov. 9. Pilot Eielson and Mechanic Borland were engaged in transporting passengers and furs from the Nanuk to Nome.

They were supplied with food for thirty days or more and carried shelter to protect them from the elements if forced to land. Little fear is felt for their safety unless their rescue is unduly delayed.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

U. S. APPORTIONS $73,125,000 TO BUILD HIGHWAYS

Millions for Flood Relief May Be Spent.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1.—Responding to President Hoover's suggestion that public building programs be speeded up and expanded to promote business and prevent unemployment, Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde today apportioned among the forty-eight states and Hawaii $73,125,000 authorized by congress as federal aid for road construction in the fiscal year 1931.

Secretary Hyde stated that the state highway departments will be authorized to proceed immediately with preparations for the expenditure of the newly apportioned funds during the next construction season.

Announcement of the federal aid allotments was made coincident with a proposal by Representative Frank R. Reid [Rep., Ill.], chairman of the house flood control committee, that the government promote President Hoover's prosperity plans by hastening its expenditure of funds for flood relief work. There is no reason why a large part of the $25 million dollars authorized for flood relief should not be spent next year, Representative Reid said.

Conference Thursday.

The two responses today indicated unabated attention in the capital upon the President's efforts to stabilize business conditions, which will come to a head again Thursday at a conference of industrial leaders called by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Out of this conference will develop, it is expected, a plan for a continuing organization which will act as a contact agency between government and business.

The statement of the secretary of agriculture today explained that for work during the winter, where weather conditions will permit, and in the spring and early summer throughout the country, there is available a balance of $28,000,000 of federal aid road funds previously apportioned. This makes a total of $101,125,000 with which the government is prepared to match an equal amount of state money for expenditure on federal aid roads during the calendar year 1930.

The federal fund is apportioned among all states and Hawaii in proportion to their areas, populations, and mileages of post roads.

Illinois Ranks Fourth.

Illinois, which topped the list of beneficiaries from the federal aid fund last year, will rank fourth during the next fiscal year with an allotment of $3,100,781. States allotted more were Texas, $4,545,830; New York, $3,605,965; and Pennsylvania, $3,314,707.

Indiana will receive $1,909,505; Iowa, $2,005,944; Kansas, $2,048,585; Michigan, $2,290,177; Minnesota, $2,102,936; Missouri, $2,383,383; Nebraska, $1,586,526; North Dakota, $1,203,060; South Dakota, $1,232,962; and Wisconsin, $1,849,169.

Secretary Hyde's announcement was supplemented by an appeal from Thomas P. Henry, president of the American Automobile association, today for increased federal aid appropriations by congress next year. An additional $50,000,000 in federal aid appropriations, to be matched with a similar amount by the states, together with the speeding up of construction generally as pledged to President Hoover by state executives, will mean an increase of at least 200 millions in road expenditures next year, Mr. Henry estimated.

Employment for Many.

"It is estimated that every $4,000 spent in the construction and maintenance of streets and highways is equivalent to the wages and materials used by one worker," he said. "On this basis the anticipated $2,500,000,000 program in 1930 would mean the employment of 625,000 men."

Representative Reid declared that "an excellent opportunity is offered by the flood control project now under construction on the Mississippi river for the federal government to take some really effective steps to stabilize business conditions, offset unemployment, and avoid threatened depression."

Among the states which are requesting flood control legislation, which, Representative Reid announced, "will be taken up as speedily as practicable," are Georgia, Texas, Alabama, Michigan, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, North Carolina, Kansas, Illinois, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Nebraska, and the New England states.

HOMES WAITING FOR 20 BABIES; NONE AVAILABLE

Syracuse, N. Y., Dec. 1.—[U. P.]—The law of supply and demand isn't working out so well in the Syracuse baby market. Mrs. Florence Grannis, county commissioner, is in need of twenty choice infants, blue eyed, blonde girls preferred.

Mrs. Grannis has been placing dependent children in foster homes for many years. Recently the number of available babies has been falling off, she says, while the number of applicants for babies is on the increase. She now has orders for twenty babies and isn't able to fill a single order.

GUNMAN WOUNDS ALBANIAN EXILE, FOE OF KING ZOG

ATHENS, Dec. 1.—(AP)—An unidentified assailant, believed actuated by political enmity, shot and wounded Kochi Tasni, former minister of justice in Albania, last night as he was walking in Zappeion park here with Ali Kleisoura, formerly a deputy in the Albanian parliament.

The gunman fired four shots, two of which struck Tasni, and then escaped. Both Tasni and Kleisoura were opponents of King Zog I., and have lived in Greece since he was crowned "king of the Albanians."

The internal feuds which raged in Albania from the time the country gained its independence from Turkey in 1913 until a degree of order was restored after proclamation of the republic in 1925 have bred intense hatreds and much disorder. King Zog himself, then Ahmed Bey Zogu, was forced to flee to Belgrade, Jugo-Slavia, when his enemies rose against him in 1923. Zog was first president of the republic, and Sept. 1, 1923, proclaimed himself king.

EXPECT JUDGES TO TAKE WHACK AT COUNTY JOBS

Change in Attitude Is Forecast in Crisis.

The Circuit court judges' committee on employment, which has control over 1,940 county jobs, will make its report today or tomorrow. Indications yesterday were that the judges will spring a surprise by ordering a cut in the pay rolls of several offices.

Judge Michael Feinberg, chairman of the committee, said that—in addition to the decision affecting the number of jobs in the county fee offices—the judges will issue a statement explaining their stand on the financial situation in which the county is involved.

Silent on Criticism.

During the last two weeks, while the county board has been considering the 1930 budget and attempting to take care of a $4,700,000 deficit, several attacks have been made upon the judicial committee. Commissioners and heads of county offices have declared that the judges are hampering their efforts to achieve economy and efficiency.

President Cermak of the board on several occasions declared that if the judges do not reduce the number of jobs in the offices over which they have control the county board will defy their recommendations. To all this the judges have been silent while debating the number of jobs they will allow each office.

Control Half of Jobs.

The judges exercise control over half of the county's 4,000 jobs. Last year the commissioners cut 120 jobs of their half of the pay roll. The judges reduced none. But for 1930, it was learned yesterday, the judges contemplate several slashes.

J. L. Jacobs, county economy adviser, has recommended to the judges that they cut 237 jobs off the lists. He asserted that 1,703 persons could efficiently do the work done by 1,940 persons last year and, that under an efficient merit system of employment another 300 positions could be done away with. The judges will follow Mr. Jacobs' recommendations to some extent, according to indications.

Says Clerks Face Cut.

County employés were reported grumbling yesterday at the decision of the commissioners to put the county on a ten months' salary basis for the coming year. The board's idea was to give each department head an appropriation large enough to pay his force of employés for ten months and to permit him to distribute the money as he sees fit. He will be required to render an accounting to the board.

"All very well," remarked one office worker. "But salaries won't be reduced for the engineers, janitors, oilers, plumbers, painters, and others who are organized into labor unions. Their business agents have already notified the board that no salary reductions will be permitted. This means that the low salaried clerks, who are unorganized, will be the ones to bear the brunt of the pay reductions."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 1.—Mrs. Winifred Scott of Edinburgh gave birth to a child in a third class compartment of the famous English train, the Flying Scotsman, last night while the train was making 60 miles per hour toward London. The trouble now is how to register the birth, as the law requires that births be registered in the parish where they occur. Nobody noticed just where the train was when the incident occurred.

Panama State Workers to Get Back Cut in Salaries

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

COLON, Dec. 1.—The Panama government on Dec. 15 is to reimburse its employés whose salaries were cut in July owing to a financial crisis. Employés, excepting police, whose salaries run from $50 to $100 were reduced 10 per cent and higher salaries were cut 15 per cent. The president and cabinet members were included. This reimbursement means a Christmas melon of $80,000.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

GOOD FELLOWS GUARDED FROM BEGGAR CLASS

Duplication of Giving Is Also Avoided.

BY THOMAS WREN.

The whole Good Fellow plan is just as anonymous as Santa Claus.

That's the idea the original Good Fellow had in mind when he sent to THE TRIBUNE the letter which was first published in this newspaper on Dec. 10, 1909. It may be explained at the outset of this year's Christmas campaign for the poor children that all Good Fellow activities are intended directly to benefit the little boys and girls who live in the tenement districts.

THE TRIBUNE pays all expenses essential for the operation of the Good Fellow bureau. It insists on only one thing and that is the elimination of red tape in the distribution of Christmas happiness for needy youngsters. Questions of doubt are decided in favor of the poor children.

A Charity Clearing House.

Each year at Christmas time all the Chicago charities combine and maintain a clearing house where the names of poor people seeking aid are investigated. This is done to prevent repetition.

The system assures all poor families of an adequate supply of Christmas cheer. The charities receive the names of unfortunate families from their workers, the health authorities, Red Cross nurses and often from policemen of the district.

In turn a quota of these applications for assistance is given to THE TRIBUNE'S Good Fellow bureau for distribution among the Good Fellows. All data about the poor family, the cause of poverty and the names of the children and their ages, are handed to the Good Fellow for his guidance in purchasing toys, candy and a basket of foodstuffs. Delivery is made generally the day before Christmas.

Protected from Beggars.

The names of Good Fellows as well as those of poor families are guarded. With the Good Fellows it's a case of protecting them against professional beggars.

Last year a test of this was made. Mrs. Mary Do——— of North State street took the names of several poor families. Publication of her name brought appeals for aid from thirty-five persons.

Main Good Fellow headquarters are in THE TRIBUNE'S Advertising and Public Service office at 1 South Dearborn street. Branch offices have been established at this newspaper's Public Service offices at 1101 East 63d street and 4152 West Madison street. Call Superior 0100 or fill out a Good Fellow coupon.

Take Water from Lake to Save Home of P.H. Leonard

Quick work by firemen late Saturday night saved the country home of P. H. Leonard at Crystal Lake. The firemen, directed by Chief George Krause, chopped a hole through the ice of the lake, 1,000 feet distant from the house, and pumped water with which the flames were quenched. The property loss was estimated at nearly $12,000. Mr. Leonard, whose Chicago home is at the Belmont hotel, 3150 Sheridan road, was asleep alone on the second floor of the house when he was awakened by the flames. He was rescued through a window.

266 U. S. SHIPS SOLD IN A YEAR FOR $29,000,000

Brisk Business Reported by Board Chairman.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Two hundred and sixty-one ships were sold by the United States shipping board to private concerns during the past fiscal year, reducing by more than one-third the remainder of the fleet of 3,400 vessels left to the board as its legacy of the war.

Sales of ships during the year ending June 30 were "exceptionally brisk," according to the shipping board's annual report. Those disposed of, including 11 passenger, 168 cargo, and 3 refrigerator ships, 9 tankers, and 75 miscellaneous vessels, brought the government approximately $29,000,000. At the close of the year there were 552 ships remaining in the board's fleet, of which 233 were in active operation and 319 in lay up.

Passenger Lines Sold.

The outstanding sale of the year—in fact, of all the years since the board first began to dispose of the government fleet—was that of its sole remaining passenger services, the United States lines and the American Merchant line, both operating in the north Atlantic. The lines were sold, under a guaranty of operation for ten years, to P. W. Chapman & Co., who formed a company bearing the corporate name of United States lines to operate the 11 ships involved in the transaction. The purchase price was $16,082,000.

The annual report, which was sent to congress by Chairman T. V. O'Connor, cited the fiscal year as one "of gratifying progress for the American merchant marine."

Among the recommendations for legislation accompanying the report was one of tax exemption for American vessels operating in foreign trade, including a provision whereby deductions would be allowed from taxable incomes for operating profits to the extent that such profits are devoted to new ship construction in American yards. Another recommendation was for some form of government aid for American cargo ships not benefited by mail contracts.

People More Interested.

"Our people are manifesting increased interest in matters relating to the sea and American capital is becoming more available for maritime investments," the report declared.

The greatest handicap in the shipping board's activities this year, the report pointed out, has been the confusion arising out of the question whether mail revenues provided in recent appropriation acts would actually go to the companies purchasing lines offered for sale by the shipping board.

President Hoover has appointed an interdepartmental committee to try to solve the problem and until it is solved, the report stated, "the board will be handicapped in its efforts to dispose of its remaining services and ships."

TRYING TO GET IT FROM WASHINGTON.

Jay A. Schiller, special assistant corporation counsel, and Attorney Samuel P. Gurman, also representing the city of Chicago, departed from Washington unexpectedly Friday and brought an interesting visit abruptly to an end. They had filed a brief with J. A. Miller, assistant general counsel of the bureau of internal revenue, making a case for the return to the city of taxes paid by Arthur S. Marigold, Frank H. Mesce, Ernest H. Lyons, and Austin J. Lynch.

These were the experts whose fees were challenged by THE TRIBUNE in the litigation which brought a decree from Judge Friend finding that Thompson, Faherty, and other city officials had conspired unlawfully to divert $1,593,367 from the city bond funds and ordering the return of the money with interest.

The four experts through whose hands the money had passed had paid their income taxes on the amounts credited to them, the sum being $648,444. This amount the city is endeavoring to recover on the ground that "the spoils of conspirators, embezzlers, and misappropriators are not incomb," and that "conspirators, embezzlers, and misappropriators can neither obtain nor convey a good title to their spoils."

The Chicago attorneys were to have argued this point of morals with the bureau officials Friday, but something, which they did not explain, interfered. They are both energetic in their assignment and were going after that money to get it, even if the treasury department does not regard refunds in general with a favorable eye. The authority for the attempt comes from the city council and not from the administrative branch of city government. Nevertheless, Mr. Schiller is described as a special assistant corporation counsel and Mr. Ettelson, with cause, might feel that he was sanctioning a legal description of his associates in the city hall as burglars.

Mr. Schiller and Mr. Gurman tore into the case with a vigor of plain terms which may have raised the temperature in the city hall fifty degrees, a possible saving on the coal bill. What, however, has the city hall to do with saving on the coal bill or anything else? Mr. Ettelson may have decided that it was personally unpleasant to him to have the city officially declaring to the federal government that Chicago "has been infested with a group of faithless and unworthy public officers" when he recognizes that these same officers are the principal officials of the town and one of them none other than the person who gave him his own job.

At this writing it is not clear that the council will consent to have the work of recovery interfered with. The city could use $600,000 these days, and to have any show of getting it back from Washington two things must be done. The transactions by which the money was taken from the city must be denounced as nefarious and illegal and the federal government must be persuaded that it is wrong to keep its slice out of money so taken from the Chicago taxpayers.

The denouncing has been well done, but the persuasion remains to be undertaken, owing to the circumstances which withdrew the two attorneys from Washington just as they had made an admirable start. There was a chance that the federal government would not care to retain profit from what is described to it as a conspiracy to loot a public fund.

Mr. Schiller and Mr. Gurman recognized that the government accepts income from the profits of dealers in contraband intoxicants. These dealers are characterized by the law as felons, but they can go to the revenue collector with their taxes and if they make an honest schedule they are not turned over to the prohibition unit of the same department. The government remains a little blind to the source of income in such instances, but the Chicago attorneys insist, or were about to insist, that there is a difference.

The federal government, they think, will not want to retain money if it can be shown to have reached the treasury through an embezzlement of public funds. The effort to recover all the money cannot be completely successful unless the federal authorities will return what was paid over to the internal revenue bureau. The relief to the Chicago taxpayers will not be full and complete if the federal government retains what it derived from the transactions.

It will be important to see what the city council does in following the matter up. The situation may have its embarrassments for Mr. Ettelson and for other executive officers in the city hall, but it also has its fascinations. There is considerable money at stake. The taxpayers are interested in getting the best break they can. The city government is describing its own officials with great candor to the federal government, but who will contend that it is an overstatement?

WHY WE HAVE A NAVY

Maj. Gen. Amos Fries has listed twenty-five commodities which are essential to the prosecution of war, but which this country does not produce. Patrick Hurley, assistant secretary of war, says that it would take at least $250,000,000 to set up anything like an adequate reserve of these materials, and to do the job thoroughly might require an outlay of as much as four billion dollars.

Whatever the sum required may be, it may be taken as fairly certain that it will not be provided. When war comes we shall be dependent upon overseas trade for such essentials as tin and rubber, exactly as we are dependent for these and many other commodities in time of peace. The United States is not self-sufficient, as many Americans have come to believe, and hand-to-mouth buying, by reducing our stocks, has made our dependence in time of emergency greater than it formerly was.

Maj. Gen. Fries is thinking primarily of our predicament if war comes. We could not fight effectively without manganese for our steel, nitrates for explosives, tin for preserving food, rubber for tires, gas masks and a thousand other purposes. He might have added that we are scarcely less dependent upon these and other commodities from abroad in time of peace. Without them our standard of living cannot be maintained at its present level. If as combatant or neutral our overseas trade is cut off, we are certain to suffer the consequences of economic dislocation and industrial depression.

No great effort is being made to maintain stocks of essential imports sufficiently large to carry us through a protracted period of war or neutrality. We depend solely upon the navy to keep the sea lanes open. The fact is worth keeping in mind as the naval limitation conference approaches.

POLICE, INC.

The department of crime detection at North western university has been financed by private capital and will be conducted as private research. Whatever services Col. Goddard, the scientific detective, and his colleagues perform will be in the interest of public safety and for the acceleration of justice. These are services which the state exclusively has performed unchallenged, heretofore, by private enterprise. Political management of police is incompetent, but it has occurred to few that private administration or even private assistance is the remedy.

Mr. Massee, one of the sponsors of the experiment, was insistent that Col. Goddard should work independently of politics. He realized that the public is helpless to organize and operate an undertaking such as he has conceived. The department would degenerate under political jurisdiction into a refuge for jobholders and it would be an unproductive expense for the taxpayers. Affiliated with Northwestern university, however, the theory that intelligence, scientific processes, and imagination would be useful in capturing criminals will be tested under the most favorable conditions. Conscientious and capable men will not suffer the restrictions and interference of politics. They will follow the true, perhaps practical, and disinterested methods of the laboratory.

It is not the purpose of Col. Goddard and his sponsors to usurp the police power. They will offer to investigate with the test tube what the police now investigate with the night stick. Our guess is that the test tube will be useful. If so, it is not impossible that some day our police may be walking the beat for the Rockefeller Foundation.

DRY INSURANCE.

Indiana Anti-Saloon leaguers plan a life insurance company whose protection will be available only to the beneficiaries of total abstainers. The promoters may be a bit vague in the extensions of their idea, but it is to be gathered that the intent would be to invalidate a policy if the policy holder reneged on his pledge to abstain from intoxicating beverages. Sound insurance policies are incontestable after the first year and even an ardent dry might think them a better investment.

Political drys may not look with much approval on temperance insurance, their adherence to the cause being one of pragmatism and not of principle. The political dry who serves in a legislative body, state or national, would not be bothered by the abstinence qualification. He is accustomed to treating an oath lightly and his word contemptuously, but as a man of practical affairs he probably would prefer something sounder in insurance than the Volstead law.

The Indiana idea would seem to be that intemperance as to alcoholic beverages is keeping insurance premiums at a high rate which could be much reduced in a bone dry company. That, if it were true, would indicate that prohibition has been an aggravation of evils of the liquor traffic. If deaths attributable to alcoholism are reflected in insurance premiums the Volstead act must be worse than a failure. Conceding that it is a failure it may be doubted that it has had any such effect.

Gluttony imposes a much more disastrous strain on the human system than does the moderate use of alcoholic beverages, as the drys might discover by scrutinizing their own mortuary list.

THE BATTLE WITH THE BUGS.

[Detroit News.]

Now comes from Monroe an encouraging report that entomologists hope they are on the right track in the war against the corn borer. There is little that is new in their campaign. They have found a kind of corn which the borer does not like; they are crossing it with commercial brands, and a certain proportion of the resultant product has been found to be ungrateful to the borer. They hope eventually to obtain corn which resembles in shape and taste the corn to which we are accustomed, but which will possess that unknown property which protects it against the insects.

The same method was effective half a century ago in France, where the grapevines were attacked by phylloxera. Wine producers faced ruin; vines in vast districts were destroyed, and the land planted to other crops. At last a grapevine was discovered—a Lake Erie island grapevine, at that—which was immune to the phylloxera. American vines were sent to France and grafted on the French roots, and the insect pests were routed.

Mr. Marston and his associates are following a course which ought to prove correct. If they succeed, man's science will have scored another victory of enormous value in the never ending battle with his insect enemies.

A TREATMENT FOR MALARIA

DR. W. E. DEEKS gives the following as his method of curing malaria. The sick person is given a purgative. He prefers calomel, thinking it has some special, almost specific, action in malaria. He gives one dose of two or three grains, followed by a laxative. He gives 30 grains of quinine a day for three days, or even a day longer if the infection seems vicious. Next, he gives one dose, two tablets, of plasmochin compound. Quinine kills the malarial parasite in its fever producing stage and this breaks the chills, while plasmochin compound kills it in its gamete stage and thus prevents mosquitoes from becoming infected.

The active treatment ends at this point, for the malarial attack is at an end. The subject is given one hundred pink pills with instructions to take six a day. This pink pill contains about two grains of quinine and some iron and other tonics. The plan is to give a small dose of quinine, not enough to cause much ringing in the ears, and to keep it up for about three weeks. And that is all the treatment that the malaria worker for the United Fruit company gets on its Central and South American plantations.

Assuming there are no complications, so simple is the treatment that labor bosses and farm superintendents keep the drugs on hand and give them out as they are needed. Under certain circumstances the worker is sent to a company hospital or dispensary. If there are complications he is sent there promptly. If he recovers slowly and, above all, if he has a large ague-cake, he goes to a dispensary, for a blood examination at least. If malarial parasites in the gamete stage are found in his blood he is given one dose, two tablets, of plasmochin compound. If it seems advisable this is repeated once a week for a few doses.

CAUSE OF COLD FINGER.

J. W. K. writes: Every few days one of my fingers suddenly becomes cold and numb. The rest of the hand and fingers are normally warm. What could be the cause of this?

REPLY.

You have a disturbance of the muscles and nerves of the blood vessels of that finger. There are a bunch of the disorders of the vasomotor apparatus, ranging from frostbite and chilblain to Raynaud's disease. Yours is one of this group. Physicians have begun to learn something about these afflictions, but what they still have to learn will fill a book some day.

B SEEMS TO BE RIGHT.

A Constant Reader writes: A says nobody can contract a cold from another person. B says it is possible. Who is right?

REPLY.

I think B is right, though there are other important factors in spreading colds.

CRAMPS IN THE FEET.

B. A. F. writes: Can you give me a remedy for cramps in feet and legs of old people at night?

REPLY.

A simple method of prevention, nearly always successful, is to cover the feet and legs warmly at night. Put another blanket on the bed so that it will cover the feet and legs to the knee. Wearing woolen stockings or footwear in bed is sometimes necessary.

SPEAK TO OFFICE MANAGER.

H. L. writes: In an office where I am employed with typists, etc., there are a number of men who are in the habit of spitting and blowing the nose on the floor. This is spread about by the feet. I would like you to write a short article on this habit, stating if it is injurious to the health of the others in the office; whether it is illegal and, if so, what steps should be taken to enforce the regulations, if any.

REPLY.

Spitting on the floor is against the law. The law includes blowing the contents of the nose on the floor. These are offenses against office rules.

Speak to the chief clerk or other person in authority, asking that the office rule be enforced. Next in the line of authority is the health department.

The reason for both the law and the rule is the fact that these filthy practices spread consumption, pneumonia, common colds and possibly other diseases.

PETITIONS FOR NATURALIZATION.

Berwyn, Nov. 22.—[Friend of the People.]—Both my husband and brother-in-law applied for naturalization papers in June and paid the fee of $4. They were told they would be called for final hearing in 90 days. Almost six months have passed and they have heard nothing. F. K.

The law provides that a petition for naturalization may be called for hearing not less than 90 days after the date on which it was filed, but very few petitions are called for hearing in exactly 90 days because the courts are not always able to hear petitions immediately after the 90 days have expired. Cases filed in June, 1929, in the United States District court will probably be notified to appear for final hearing some time during the month of December.

FRED J. SCHLOTTFELDT,
District Director of Naturalization.

MAY ATTACH HOUSEHOLD GOODS.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My husband owes rent to a former owner of our building. On account of his weakened condition from continued illness he is unable to work and cannot meet the debt, but is willing to pay as soon as he is able. We have received a second letter from the lawyer that drastic action will be taken for nonpayment. 1. Can the household goods be attached? 2. If so, how can we protect ourselves? I. A. G.

1. Yes, he can. The exemption to the head of the family is $400 worth.
2. No defense appears from your letter.

SETTLEMENT OF ESTATE.

Chicago, Feb. 27.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—According to the laws of Pennsylvania, what is the length of time allowed an administrator in which to settle an estate, even though some of the heirs cannot be located? T. A. M.

The statute does not definitely specify a specific period of delay for this cause. The court in determining whether the excuse is adequate would consider all the surrounding circumstances.

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

MONDAY, DECEMBER 2. Hernan Cortes died on this day. Stop, no tears! He died some time back; in fact, in 1547. And if it hadn't been for Hernan we wouldn't have had to fight a war with Mexico to get Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, and California. The Indians would have still owned those places if Hernan hadn't licked 'em. And if we could buy all of Manhattan Island for fourteen dollars' worth of beads, we ought to have been able to buy Texas and the rest of that country down from the Indians for about nine dollars and seventy-five cents in looking glasses and blue glass trinkets. And, besides, maybe the Indians would have held out California on us, or not told us about it, and then we wouldn't have had the talkies, because there wouldn't have been any Hollywood. There's a lot more to this, but figure it out yourself.

MEMORY.

I wish I might have gathered in a vase
The offering that your eyes once held for me—
Those flimsy blossoms such slight frosts erase,
That bear no roots to flourish annually.

I wish I might have strung upon a chain
Those glimmering words of some miraculous gold,
Than that they lay, long tarnished and in vain,
Kicked in the dust off a forgotten road.

You see my face too pale, my lips too red
And smeared—too prone to chatter.
I speak to you as some one long since dead
Whose judgment does not matter.

JUDY SHEA.

For a Quipper Must Quip, Though His Stocks All Slip.

"The column writers," laments G. Sibley in the Chi. Jour. of Com., "have treated the stock declines as humorous events." Ah, Brother Sibley, many a column writer wrote funny paragraphs about the frenzied Wall street market while great hot tears trickled down his pale face. And as he read his own comical items, Brother Sibley, the wretched column writer, knowing full well that his own stock holdings had been shot into little ragged bits, staggered into the city editor's room and borrowed seven cents from the night scrubwoman that he might pay his street car fare to his wretched home. Ah, yes, Brother Sibley, underneath the funny paragrapher's waggish quips may have lurked many an uncovered margin. Who knows! Who knows!

Why, Lil' Kay! Come Right Here to Papa and Get Your Mouth Washed Out with Soap!

R. H. L.: Honestly, I'm a modest person. This isn't really my idea. At a party last night we were talking about the Linebook and what a piquant little collection of wit and satire and malice and the loveliest of poetry they are, and a lovely lady said that one of the nicest things of the year to her was Linebook Day because so-and-so always sent her a new Linebook to arrive in her morning's mail. So that's why I burned the midnight oil to send you this ad, which I hopes you likes. And if you don't, you can go to hell.

A Gay Reminder

The 1929 Linebook in your friends' morning mail Friday will remind them that you are one of those charming people who think of them in small things as well as big.

Of course you'll have to hurry, but that only adds to the fun of it. Send mailing instructions (and 12c for each copy) to Hugh Donaldson, Trib Pub. Serv. Dept., 1 South Dearborn street, Chicago.

LIL' KAY.

DICK BYRD flew right over the South Pole last Friday, he says. Yeah, he thinks he flew over the South Pole. But we're here to say that last Friday the South Pole was somewhere right around here in Chicago. Dick Byrd probably flew where the South Pole used to be, but the doggoned thing got shifted around some way, and we had if here sticking up somewhere along the Boul Mich. Darn it, we KNOW! Our ears aren't thawed out yet.

DECEMBER.

[Reprinted from the 1924 Linebook.]

Rumor came on the north wind yesterday that sneering death lurked near my favorite field, and I hurried from the town to cry a protest, but this thing was there before me, and the latest and bravest dandelion was dead. The maples beyond the marsh were as black against the sky as charcoal marks upon an Arab's tent; the sumac crumbled in my hands, withered like the tea leaves from old Japan; the ochre willows at the margin of the lake drooped heavily, and, in the wind, I thought I heard them crying like Rachel for her children; and the lake itself, so serene and friendly in September, now frowned and chilled me like a stranger; a flock of blackbirds, restless and without design, flew above it, no longer trustful of its reeds and rushes; and high on a naked limb of a spotted cottonwood sat the chief mourner—a gaunt buzzard, as black as the sinner's judgment day, and he lifted and lowered his wings as a widow adjusts her weeds when the preacher takes his text. Across the smitten fields came the north winds, and on them rode the gray Norns chanting a dirge, and I joined the processional of death. Now I understand what the Master meant when he said, "Pray that your flight be not in winter."

TIME TO HITCH UP AGAIN

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 2, 1864.

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—Our forces in and around Franklin were attacked by Gen. Hood in force on Nov. 30, and fighting continued with greater or less severity all day. It resulted in the repulse of the rebels, with their loss estimated at 4,000 to 5,000 killed, wounded and captured. The 23d corps, Gen. Cox, and the 4th corps, Gen. D. S. Stanley, bore the brunt of the battle and exhibited great valor. Gen. Schofield fought the battle on the plan that had been arranged beforehand between him and Gen. Thomas. Our loss will not exceed 600 in all.

WASHINGTON.—Gen. Schofield at Franklin reported to Gen. Thomas at Nashville as follows: "The enemy made a heavy and persistent attack, with about two corps, commencing about 4 o'clock in the afternoon of Wednesday, Nov. 30, and lasting until dark, and was repulsed at all points with heavy loss—probably 5,000 or 6,000 men. We captured about 1,000 men, including a brigadier general." Officers who witnessed the fight at Franklin describe it as one of the most sanguinary of the war. The determined bravery of the confederates exceeded anything before seen. Although slaughtered by hundreds they still advanced against our batteries. Within five hours they made eleven distinct assaults against our works. Their casualties include Brig. Gen. Adams, killed, and Gen. Scott, wounded. Gen. Forrest, in person, was on the field. It is rumored that Hood is moving east to Murfreesboro.

WASHINGTON. — The Chronicle says, speaking of Gen. Banks going back to New Orleans to resume his position as head of the department of the gulf: "All his civil policy has met the approval of President Lincoln and he returns to his post at the request of the executive."

DECEMBER 2, 1899.

LONDON.—A dispatch from Frere, dated Nov. 28, says that while attempting to blow up a 500-foot bridge over the river at Colenso the Boers were driven back by the British artillery and mounted infantry. No other news has come from the seat of war, the censorship being most rigorous. There were rumors on the stock exchange that Kimberley has been relieved.

MANILA.—Gen. Conon surrendered 800 officers and men, with rifles, several American and seventy Spanish prisoners at Bayombong to Lieut. Monroe, who had but fifty men of the 4th cavalry.

CHICAGO.—Edward Markham lectured on "The Man with the Hoe" before 1,200 citizens of Evanston in the First Methodist church.

CHICAGO.—The Calumet Electric railway cut its fares for rides from 63d street and Stony Island avenue to South Chicago from 5 to 2½ cents.

DECEMBER 2, 1919.

CHICAGO.—This city today faces a suspension of every activity not necessary to the well-being of its citizens as a result of the coal strike. This was announced by the regional coal committee after Fuel Administrator Garfield in Washington announced a nation-wide plan to restrict fuel consumption to such quantity only as "the urgent needs of the people make necessary." The local fuel committee issued no order, but announced action would be taken today which probably will suspend schools, churches, theaters, and many factories, in effect putting the city on a wartime basis.

DENVER, Colo.—Miss Priscilla Pardridge, daughter of A. J. Pardridge, Chicago real estate broker, is working behind a counter in a local department store here. She said she wanted to go on the stage and her parents opposed the idea. Then she came here on a visit and obtained the job in the store. She said: "I am making good."

LONDON.—Nancy Langhorne Astor of Virginia, a viscountess in the peerage of Great Britain and wife of an American born British peer, took her seat today in the house of commons, the first woman legally elected member of the mother of parliaments.

CHICAGO.—The engagement of Mrs. Robert S. Hotz, 3033 Sheridan road, to Frederick T. Hall, 2324 Prairie avenue, vice president of the Illinois Trust and Savings bank, was announced.

LIFE TENURE FOR JUDGES.

Lincoln, Ill., Nov. 29.—A few days ago you printed Arthur Evans' article summarizing the findings of the judicial advisory council on its return from a tour of Canada, Massachusetts and New York in search of ideas for improving the efficiency of Illinois courts.

After enumerating nine points of procedure which have made the courts of those jurisdictions incomparably more efficient than ours, the writer places "on the other side of the balance" the fact that Canadian judges are appointed for life and clothed with "powers which would not be tolerated in Illinois."

Whether the above is the opinion of the council or of Mr. Evans is not clear from the report, but it appears to the writer to reflect a complete failure to evaluate the fundamentals of the matter. For unless Illinois is sufficiently in earnest not only to tolerate but to welcome a strong and untrammeled judiciary clothed with adequate powers to cope effectively with criminals as well as legal shysters, it is wasting its time in seeking panaceas in the form of amendments to the code of procedure.

The certain way out of the present morass is to get our judges out of politics by appointing them for life and clothing them with powers sufficient to insure results. Only by so doing can our courts be made comparable in efficiency with those of Canada and Massachusetts and the present lawless conditions brought permanently to an end. Surely none except those expecting to derive advantage from a continuance of the existing régime will be found unwilling to "tolerate" the adoption of the only effective remedy. D. H. HARTS.

INVESTING IN LAKE TRANSPORTATION.

Chicago, Nov. 27.—In comparing transportation on the lakes with transportation in the English channel, you are either not familiar with steamship transportation conditions on the lakes or are deliberately endeavoring to injure an industry that is striving to perform a service to the community.

The steamship companies operating on the English channel have a monopoly on practically all business moving across the channel, the only competition being the airplane and the swimmers. The fare from Southampton to Cherbourg is $20 for a three hour ride. A three hour ride on Lake Michigan would cost about $1.50, and an overnight ride, including berth, would cost about $4.

The two steamships operating between Detroit and Buffalo, constructed in 1924 at a cost of ten million dollars, are without doubt the most modern steamships of their kind in service anywhere in the world. These ships were possible to construct only because there is a natural cutoff in the length of the run as compared with the retail mileage and there is a saving in time and money over the rail rates between these two ports. On account of this saving it is possible for the steamship company to secure enough passengers to support the operation of these ships. These magnificent ships, or ships half their size and half their capacity, could not be operated out of Chicago under any conditions and show a profit. The only port of any size near Chicago is the port of Milwaukee, and on account of rail, electric line, bus and privately owned automobile competition it would be impossible to secure enough revenue to support steamship service of this kind.

If you would conduct a fair investigation of transportation on the lakes you would find that steamship company owners are no different than owners of any industry and are willing to invest their money in the construction of new ships whenever they feel that an adequate return can be made on their investment. You will also learn that with one or two exceptions there has been money taken out of the steamship business on the lakes in the way of dividends for the last several years, the reason being not because of inferior equipment but because steamships cannot be constructed to compete in time on parallel lines with automobiles and trains making fifty to sixty miles an hour.

M. F. RYAN.

DEFINING A FRATERNITY.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.—There appeared in the Voice of the People a letter, "Spurious Greeks," by Warren Piper, wherein he condemned Gamma Eta Gamma as not being a college fraternity, and deploring a violation of the prohibition laws at one of its chapter houses at the University of Illinois.

Contrary to the belief of Mr. Piper, Gamma Eta Gamma is a college fraternity in every sense of the word, and it has all of the heraldry and time honored traditions, including the charm and mystery of secrecy, a ritual, oaths of fidelity, a grip, a motto, a badge for external display, a background of high idealism, a strong tie of friendship and comradeship, and an urge for sharing its values through nation-wide expansion.

Mr. Piper is quite right when he says Gamma Eta Gamma is not a member of the Interfraternity conference, but he should know that Gamma Eta Gamma helped to organize the conference of law fraternities, and, through the latter organization, the Professional Interfraternity conference.

Gamma Eta Gamma has never countenanced the possession or use in any way of intoxicating liquors in its chapter houses throughout its entire existence of over a quarter of a century, and, further, it has always prohibited the same. The regrettable incident of a prohibition violation at its chapter house at the University of Illinois has been dealt with promptly by the institution of expulsion proceedings against the offenders.

JOSEPH A. CANTRIL,
High Chancellor, Gamma Eta Gamma.

THE NEW MENACE.

Chicago, Nov. 29.—Who has an older school book than this? Published in 1675 at Amsterdam, Holland, carried to school by a boy named John, living in one of our oldest cities in 1725, and again by a boy named Bulger in 1925.

One can imagine these boys going to school protected by the father or the hired man with the old blunderbuss on their shoulders to guard against the attacks of wild beasts and wilder savages. Today we have much the same condition, with this difference, that instead of wild beasts and savages we have to guard our children against the speed maniac. Who was the safer, the former or latter? HAMILTON MACLEAN.

VIR FORTISSIMUS.

Chicago, Nov. 26.—The editorial "Vir Fortissimus" deserves not only the highest praise but the deepest consideration. Every word in every line expresses the right kind of Americanism. Just as every act of the great Frenchman, Clemenceau, proved his real service to his country.

FORMER BYRD AID BELIEVED DEAD IS SPEEDING TO N. Y.

Found in Omaha Working Under Another Name.

New York, Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Richard G. Brophy is speeding from Chicago to New York tonight to explain the strange story of his four months' disappearance.

Brophy had joined the Byrd expedition to the south pole. He was second in command of the expedition. He also was the business manager of the venture.

Facts About Disappearance.

It is hoped that when he arrives here Brophy will clear up the strange story. These are the facts as known now:

Brophy first joined the Byrd expedition as business manager April, 1928, and left with it in October that year. On reaching New Zealand he was made second in command. He set out from New Zealand in command of the Eleanor Bolling, supply ship of the expedition, and turned back after being stopped by the formation of the ice pack 300 miles out. He returned with the crew to Dunedin, N. Z., in April, 1929, where he broke down and resigned. While in Dunedin, Brophy was arrested on a charge of being a public nuisance and was haled before a magistrate who ordered him examined by an alienist. The magistrate then gave him the choice of going to a sanitarium or returning to the United States. Brophy chose to return.

Submits to Mental Test.

When he came here he voluntarily submitted to a mental test by Dr. Thomas S. Gregory of Bellevue, who said he was sane but needed a rest. On the advice of Capt. Railey, Byrd's representative in New York, he went to Canada, where he stayed six weeks. On his return to New York, he registered at a hotel and on Aug. 15 he left the following note in his room:

"I am going to Coney Island. I am going to walk into the waves until they cover me and then I will be no more."

Message from Byrd.

Later clothing containing cards bearing his name and messages from Commander Richard E. Byrd were found in a locker room at a Coney Island bathhouse.

The clothing had been checked there on Aug. 25. The police learned that Brophy had written his wife two weeks previously threatening to drown himself.

One of the messages from Commander Byrd, dated April 2, in Brophy's clothes at Coney Island read:

"Much obliged for your message. There was some delay in reaching me. Remember that no matter what hard luck you may have had we can work things out if you will continue to have faith in me. Best of good wishes. Your friend, BYRD."

Recognized in Omaha.

That was the last heard of Brophy until Friday night, when the news of Byrd's epochal flight across the south pole was received in the office of the News-Bee in Omaha, Neb. The news editor looked over a group of photographs of Byrd's crew. In one of them he recognized the man standing beside Commander Byrd and Mayor Jimmy Walker. He was a copy reader on the desk known as "Manning Mitchell."

The editor looked at the picture again, then at "Mitchell," busy at the copy desk. To him there could be no doubt "Mitchell" was Brophy. All the time "Mitchell" was unaware that he had been identified as Brophy.

Only Wanted to Rest.

Confronted with the evidence, Brophy admitted his identity. With tears in his eyes he told a story of how he had been besieged with trouble after leaving the Byrd expedition, and had sought solace in masking his identity.

"I only wanted to rest," he is quoted. "My nerves were shattered. I was tired, unable to find relief from the pressure that seemed to hem me in.

"So I foolishly considered suicide. I say foolishly, because realization came to me while I was in the water at Coney Island that problems of this life are not to be solved by such an act.

"I shall explain to my good and dear friend, Commander Byrd. I'm going back to New York and get my tangled affairs straightened out. I must begin where I left off on that day I went for a swim at Coney Island."

Mrs. Brophy is in New York, having been discharged from a private sanitarium in White Plains where she had been sent at the expense of the Byrd expedition after her husband's disappearance.

Mrs. Brophy visited Capt. Railey at the New York offices of the Byrd expedition on Saturday to ask if there was word from her husband. She told Capt. Railey she was destitute and was going to look for work to support herself and her boy, Richard Gale Brophy Jr., who now is with her parents in Canada.

When informed that Brophy had been found, Capt. Railey at once tried to locate Mrs. Brophy. He also sent a radio of the news to Commander Byrd and notified the police of the missing persons bureau.

RICHARD G. BROPHY.

BROPHY PASSES CHICAGO

Richard Gale Brophy, formerly second in command of Commander Richard E. Byrd's antarctic expedition, passed through Chicago from Omaha late yesterday, accompanied by "a girl in a green dress."

He arrived on a Chicago and North Western train and was said to be on his way back to New York, but he successfully walked out of the station, evading all would-be interviewers.

It was the conductor of the train who said he was sure Mr. Brophy had been on board. The conductor said the "girl in the green dress" was with him.

GIRL, 2, DIES OF SCALDS.

Rose Mary Saott, 2 years old, died last night at St. Mary's hospital of scalds suffered on Saturday when she fell into a bucket of hot water at her home, 2560 Hillock street, while her mother, Mrs. Julia Saott, was scrubbing the kitchen floor.

LEGION WANTS HOSPITAL BILL TO BECOME LAW

Effingham, Ill., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Aid for disabled veterans of the world war, and widows and orphans of soldiers, by passing the hospital bill now before congress, was urged by the twenty-third district of the American Legion in its annual winter meeting here today. Over 900 disabled veterans are in the state hospitals because the federal government has made no provision, according to the leaders at the convention at which twenty-six Legion posts of southern district of Illinois were represented.

It was agreed that the Legion should organize by counties and take a census of every veteran with the purpose of finding if any of the disabled had been overlooked, also a plan for publication of a southern Illinois Legion paper which will be known as Egyptian Legionnaires. Plans were made for a membership drive.

PLAN TO DOLE OUT ELECTRICITY IN NORTHWEST

Seattle, Wash., Dec. 1.—(AP)—With no relief in sight for the unprecedented drought, which has prevailed in the Pacific northwest this fall, plans went forward today for the rationing of electric energy, possibly under a power administrator appointed by Gov. Roland H. Hartley. Appointment of a power supervisor was proposed at a meeting in Tacoma Friday and another conference on the matter is scheduled here tomorrow in Mayor Frank Edwards' office.

It also has been proposed that Seattle and Tacoma and the Puget Sound Power and Light company, a public utility which serves much of western Washington with electric energy, pool the output of their plants as a means of tiding over the emergency.

Use of electricity has been greatly curtailed in Seattle, Tacoma and in Vancouver, B. C., where the situation is acute.

2 DEAD; FUMES OF REFRIGERATOR IMPERIL 5 MORE

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 1.—[U. P.]—Fumes from an automatic refrigerator killed two persons today and made five others so ill that it is feared they may die.

Four generations of a family were poisoned. William Wickmann, 33, and his sister-in-law, Mrs. May Bernhard, 44, were killed. Those who were made seriously ill are Wickmann's wife, 32; their son, William Jr., 1; Wickmann's sister, Elizabeth, 23; his mother, Mrs. Anna Wickmann, 61, and his grandmother, Mrs. Julia Hoff, 83, who is mother of the elder Mrs. Wickmann.

Mrs. Mary Culliton, 45, a neighbor, was overcome by the fumes, but was revived at the hospital.

At first the family physician diagnosed the illness as a stomach ailment. When it was learned refrigerator fumes were responsible the victims were taken to the hospital.

JADE is not expensive

Many pieces in our collection are priced at $25 and up

Jade is not costly although many people think it to be. The young lady above is wearing a hand-carved Jade ring with gold mounting, which is $25. Her button earrings are also carved and they too are $25. Her necklace is a string of deftly shaped Jade beads. The price is $25. These pieces are only a few selected from our very comprehensive collection. There are brooches, rings, pendants, chokers, necklaces and earrings from $25 up. Certainly—a piece of hand-carved Jade would make an ideal Christmas gift.

9 DEAD, 22 HURT IN WRECK OF AN EXCURSION TRAIN

Seven Coaches Pile Up as Rail Breaks.

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Nine persons were killed and 25 seriously injured, two perhaps fatally, in the wreck of the Norfolk-New York excursion train of the Pennsylvania railroad at Olney, eastern shore of Virginia, last midnight. Pennsylvania officials said the wreck was caused by a broken rail.

It was not known whether the rail that caused the wreck had been tampered with or was broken as a result of cold weather. Officials believed the rail had broken before the train reached it, although the engine and two coaches passed over it without mishap.

Seven coaches left the rails and tore up the track for a great distance. The first two coaches to leave the rails were smashed by those following. Steel cars prevented a larger casualty list.

There were 488 passengers on the train, the majority from Norfolk and Portsmouth, taking advantage of week-end excursion rates to New York.

Some of the injured were brought to Norfolk today and others were expected tonight. Those too seriously hurt to be moved were in hospitals at Olney and other points adjacent to the wreck. Passengers who were uninjured were taken to New York.

The dead and injured were removed from the wreck with all possible speed. Doctors from throughout the section were called to the scene, while many of the injured were carried to the hospital in Nassawadox, Va. Those only slightly hurt and the remaining passengers continued north on another train.

VICTORIOUS JUDGES TAKE OATHS TODAY, CELEBRATE TONIGHT

This is inauguration day and celebration day for the victors in the judicial election last month.

Three newly chosen for the Superior bench will be installed this morning. Peter M. Schwaba will be sworn in at 10 a. m. in his courtroom, 811 County building. Similar ceremonies will be held for Martin J. Isaacs half an hour later in room 1129. And at 11 o'clock E. L. Frankhauser will take the oath in room 1125.

Then tonight comes the big jubilation dinner at the Hotel La Salle, arranged by the nonpartisan committee that handled the campaign for the winners, a committee of 120 headed by Harry Eugene Kelly and Boetius Sullivan. In addition to the seventeen sitting judges reelected and the three new men sworn in earlier in the day the guests of honor will include Circuit Judges Daniel F. Trude and Philip J. Finnegan, elected to vacancies and already inducted into office.

Floyd E. Thompson, former Supreme court justice, will preside, and Judges Marcus A. Kavanagh and Joseph H. Fitch will respond.

Engineer Slashes His Wrist in Effort to Die

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 1.—[Special.] Joseph Nelson, a stationary engineer of 341 Barclay street, attempted to end his life today by slashing an artery of his right wrist. He is at the Emergency hospital in a critical condition. According to police his act followed a quarrel with his wife.

Faces Hearing This Week for Fisher Bank Robbery

Urbana, Ill., Dec. 1.—(AP)—William S. Ragan, former Chicago factory superintendent, who is charged with attempting to rob the Fisher State bank Nov. 8, will be given a preliminary hearing early this week, Sheriff Elmer Shoaf said today.

WAR DESPOILED GERMANS POINT TO U. S. EXAMPLE

Britain Refuses to Relax Grip on Seizures.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 1.—The example of the United States in releasing German property held since the war is being used in an attempt on the part of Germans whose property was expropriated in Great Britain to win the return of their properties. Although the British government has handed to the German government an official intimation of its refusal to release the surplus proceeds of the liquidation of private property seized under the Versailles treaty, the Germans concerned refuse to regard this decision as final.

Britain makes three points in her declaration to Germany. She insists first that she is not legally bound to release the surplus profits of liquidation. Secondly, she adds that Britain has done all that can be expected of her in releasing property worth about $25,000,000. She also has agreed to stop future liquidations, though those already started will be pressed. Thirdly, Britain insists that other countries have not been more generous than she has been, the United States in particular having been recouped by reparations payments.

U. S. Releases Greater.

The Society of Germans Expropriated in England does not agree that America has been less generous than Britain. Up to 1925 the United States had already released property worth $41,000,000. In 1928 the settlement of the war claims act of 1926 was accepted providing for the release of all of the remaining property or proceeds of its liquidation with interest.

This means that about $400,000,000 worth of property will be returned immediately to its German owners. The rest—30 per cent of the ordinary property, plus interest and 50 per cent of the value of the steamships, patents, and radio stations plus interest—will be released during the next few years. These amounts are being temporarily retained as security for the payment of claims against Germany by American citizens, amounting to about $190,000,000. As these claims are met out of reparations payments a proportional amount of the balances due Germany will be released.

Realize $275,000,000.

Great Britain, on the other hand, has realized more than $275,000,000 from the sale of German private property, and is also receiving much larger sums from Germany as reparations than the United States. Yet Great Britain is not repaying her citizens for their claims against Germany out of the reparations payments, as the United States is doing, but has taken about $200,000,000 from the proceeds of the German private property for this purpose.

These claims are now completely satisfied, but Great Britain still refuses to release the surplus profits of the liquidations, amounting to between $65,000,000 and $75,000,000.

The German interests are pointing to the pronouncements of American statesmen who refer to the return of confiscated German property as establishing a new security for foreign investments. They are asking the nation if Britain desires to disassociate itself from this policy and permit America to stand alone in guaranteeing security to capital.

Six Killed in Mexico by Bomb Thrown in Store

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 1.—(AP)—A dispatch to El Universal from Tlaxcala City today said Severiana Flores, a merchant, and his five sons were killed by a bomb which an unidentified man tossed into his store at Tepeyanco, in the state of Tlaxcala. Several other persons were injured.

THE HOME
MAKES OUT ITS GIFT-LIST

The Household Sections have planned a wonderful Christmas for the home this year —lots of "useful things"—for every home has its thrifty side—and plenty that is frivolous, too. The delightful thing about almost all the articles featured in the collections here is that they combine the decorative and the practical with amazing effectiveness—and combine them at prices that are surprisingly moderate.

3 TAX OFFICIALS HESITATE TO RUN FOR RE-ELECTION

Ringer, Krutchkoff and Weber in Doubt.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Three Cook county tax officials whose terms of office are drawing to a close are hesitating about seeking renomination and reelection. They are William H. Weber of the board of review and Assessors Charles Ringer and Charles Krutchkoff.

In other words, it is probable that the greatest possible change in tax officialdom possible at a single election not involving vacancies may be brought about largely as a result of the combined effect of the county's tax dilemma and the conditions that have overtaken the old regular Republican county organization. Since there are three members of the review board and five assessors, it would be a three-eighths change of management.

Such a voluntary shift has not been seen in all the history of the two boards.

No Official Statements.

None of the three officials has yet authorized a statement that he will not enter the April primary, but both Reviewer Weber and Assessor Ringer yesterday conceded that they may not be candidates.

The third man, Assessor Krutchkoff, is considered in a slightly different light. He could not be found during the day, but it is known among his associates that his position is not that of withdrawing, since he has his eye on the county treasurership. But his friends say that if this doesn't come his way in the organization councils he probably will not run again for his present position.

The greatest factor in the whole situation centers on the question as to whether property owners are to receive—as the result of the reassessment—two annual tax bills at the same time just before the primary. In this connection there already is a belief that the bills will not be sent out until after the April primaries.

Politicians Eye Taxpayers.

But regardless of this time element, the politicians recognize that among the taxpayers there is a well defined feeling against several public officials, especially those directing the tax machinery. Despite reductions resulting from the equalization of valuations, the ins are blamed for the management of affairs for several years past and for such spending orgies as that of the sanitary district.

Involved in the situation also is the attempt to reorganize the majority of the county Republican central committee which is now in process. This involves the resignation of Homer K. Galpin as chairman and the election of B. W. Snow in his stead. Extreme confidence is expressed that this plan will be successful and will be followed by the nomination of a ticket free from "the old names" that might arouse the disapproval of the voters.

HOTEL IS CLOSED AT JACKSONVILLE AFTER TWO ROUNDS IN COURT

Jacksonville, Ill., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Closed and vacated signs were posted last midnight on the new Dunlap hotel in this city, the $400,000 hotel building built by popular subscription four years ago. The hotel has been operated by the Dunlap Hotel company, controlled by E. O. and E. S. Perry of Springfield, proprietors of the Leland hotel of that city.

Shortly after it opened differences arose over the terms of the lease and after two lawsuits judgment was entered in favor of the building corporation in the amount of $115,700 and execution ordered. The closing of the hotel is the result.

Funeral Rites Held for Victims of Double Tragedy

Funeral services for James B. Pauley, coal merchant, and his wife, Mrs. Elinor Ludlow Pauley, were held yesterday afternoon in the Jordan company chapel, 200 East Erie street. Pauley shot his wife and himself to death in their apartment in the Hotel Ambassador East on Thanksgiving day. Interment will be in Springfield, O.

Hunt Former Insurance Man in $60,000 Forgery

New York, Dec. 1.—[Special.]—As federal and private detectives continued their hunt today for C. P. Solem Westergaard, former employé of the Chatham-Phenix National Bank and Trust company, wanted for defrauding the bank out of $60,000 by means of forged transfer orders, word was received here that most of the stolen money had been located in a bank in Washington, D. C.

PURDUE'S TEAM TAKES FIRST IN STOCK JUDGING

Ohio State Second at International Show.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Purdue university, producer of the Big Ten football champions, yesterday produced another championship team when five animal husbandry students walked away with high honors in the intercollegiate stock judging competition at the International live stock exposition.

Only five points separated the first three teams in this annual contest among the picked college boys of 19 state colleges and two Canadian provinces, indicating the keen competition among the entire 143 amateur judges. Purdue scored 4,385 points; Ohio State university, 4,383, and Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical college, 4,380. The Oklahoma team won last year's contest.

Texas Team Is Fourth.

Lads from Texas took fourth honors with a score of 4,310, fifth place went to the University of Wyoming, sixth place to Kansas Agricultural college, and seventh to Iowa State college. Next in rank were the University of Nebraska and Ontario Agricultural college, while the University of Illinois and Pennsylvania State college tied for tenth place.

Members of the winning Purdue team are John H. Douglas, Noah S. Hadley, Russell B. Huff, Harry B. Kirk, and James L. Lowman. They were awarded a handsome trophy offered by Sir Thomas Lipton, and the privilege of keeping the John A. Spoor trophy until another school wrests it away. The Pullman company also gave the boys $5,000 in scholarships. Paul Swaffer, Oklahoma team member, secured the highest individual score of 927 points.

Champions in several grain classes, out of the 5,000 samples of hay and grain entered this year at the international, were announced yesterday. Canada drew first honors when W. G. Gibson, Ladner, B. C., captured the green pea title. William Darnbrough, Laura, Saskatchewan, won the reserve championship. Clarence Johnson and John C. Wilk of St. Louis, Mich., won championship and reserve ribbons in the field bean class. D. M. McIlroy of Elevenpoint, Ark., won the cowpea championship.

Indiana High in Corn.

Indiana threatens to dislodge both Illinois and Iowa as corn states, judging from the preliminary corn awards. L. M. Vogler, Hope, Ind., and Edward N. Lux, Waldren, both previous prize winners, are leading contenders, show officials intimated. Vogler's showings in the last ten years have won him the sobriquet of "white corn king."

With trains arriving in Chicago constantly, the crowd at the stock show and boys' and girls' club congress was estimated at 30,000 yesterday, the largest Sunday attendance ever reported. Free parking space, policed, has been provided near the International amphitheater, B. H. Heide, manager, announced last night.

Judging of beef cattle will start this morning with Walter Biggar, internationally known judge from Dalbeattie, Scotland, on hand to name the grand champions for the fifth year. Grain judging, which started Saturday, will continue all week due to the record number and quality of entries, it was announced last night.

Dogs to Herd Sheep.

During the parade of prize winning horses and cattle this evening some novelties will be introduced in the nightly horse show by holding the first of a series of sheep dog trials. Veteran dogs from Bennington, Vt., will herd sheep, corral them, and drive them through and over handicaps with the shepherd standing at one end of the arena calling or whistling instructions.

The parade of over one thousand farm boys and girls, winners from among 750,000 4-H club members in the United States, will also be held at 9:15 tonight. A polo game between teams of the Chicago Riding club and the 122d Field Artillery will be an added attraction.

Additional awards reported in the grain and hay show include C. D. Gallentine, Jerome, Idaho, red clover seed champion; C. H. Miller, Bend, Ore., same on alsike clover; E. E. Thoen, Kindred, N. D., same on sweet clover; L. P. Yates, Fishtail, Mont., same on timothy seed; D. M. McIroy, Elevenpoint, Ark., on cow peas; George Kauffmann, Iliff, Colo., on black and white cow peas.

Prof. Andrew Boss, veteran agricultural teacher of the University of Minnesota, was guest of honor at a dinner in the Saddle and Sirloin club last night, to witness the unveiling of an oil portrait of himself in the "hall of fame" of the live stock world.

IOWA 4-H BOY WINS STEER FEEDING EVENT AT LIVE STOCK SHOW

With the announcement last night that more than one thousand 4-H boys and girls club winners had arrived for the eighth club congress in connection with the International Live Stock show, G. L. Noble, secretary, listed winners in several competitions judged yesterday.

Waldo Mommsen, 18 years old, Miles, Ia., won the steer feeding championship with his 20 months old Aberdeen Angus steer, Mike. Edward Moore, Eaton, Ind., was awarded first prize for the best pen of lambs exhibited in the junior feeding events. Second, third, and fourth places in the events were won by lads from Evansville, Wis., Harold Robinson, Philip Robinson, and Lee George.

State exhibits from Indiana, Michigan, and Louisiana placed in the order named in the first annual egg show held by the boys and girls clubs. The best dozen eggs were shown by Glen Trenoin, Corydon, Ind. The state cotton exhibit was won by Georgia.

An Iowa girl, Blanch Rose of Decorah, won the room improvement contest.

Oregon won first over 13 states in the children's garment contest on an entry made by Barbara Dunn and Mary Ruth Koon. Jeanette Gamble of Coffeyville won first for Kansas in the contest for a complete Four H club girl's costume. In the canned meats contest Ruth Stickwell, Fillmore county, Neb., was first and Glendora Freiss, Britton, S. D., was second. First place in the canned vegetable contest went to Freida Egger of Danville, Ky.

ANIMAL INDUSTRY DEPARTMENT IS URGED FOR STATE

Demands for legislation to create a state department of animal industry will be formulated at a meeting of the Illinois Veterinary Medical association in the Hotel La Salle today and tomorrow. This was the statement yesterday of Dr. Harry W. Caldwell of Wheaton, president of the association, and Dr. Earl Byerrum, member of the organization's legislative committee.

"We have no department of animal industry in Illinois as we ought to have," Dr. Byerrum said. "All that work is now directed by a layman under the supervision of the state department of agriculture, which has charge of all livestock and disease control. We expect to go to the next legislature with the matter."

Charles W. Hadley, chairman of the Illinois commerce commission, will be one of the principal speakers at the meeting. Others on the program are Dr. Caldwell, and Drs. J. B. LeCroix of Evanston, E. E. Gieske of Wheeling, Frank Thorpe of the department of animal pathology at the University of Illinois, L. A. Merillat and E. A. Cahill of Chicago, W. H. Welch, state veterinarian: Adolph Eichorn of Pearl River, N. Y.; T. H. Ferguson of Geneva, Wis., and H. H. Brown, state veterinarian of Indiana.

WORKMAN DIES OF INJURIES.

FAIR MEN OF U. S. AND CANADA MEET IN CITY TUESDAY

Chicago is the Mecca for outdoor show men this week. They come to attend the annual convention of the International Association of Fairs and Expositions, which convenes at the Hotel Bismarck on Tuesday morning. The executive board of the association met yesterday to prepare its annual report for presentation when the session is called to order by President William R. Hirsch of Shreveport, La. Ralph L. Hemphill of Oklahoma City, secretary of the association, presented the board with several reports of interest to fairs of the United States and Canada.

WM. R. HIRSCH.

One of the reports deals with better construction of fair properties and buildings, looking to lower insurance rates. Insurance has been a considerable item in fair expense in former years. Another bears upon closer cooperation with railroads to have carriers save time in transporting live stock and exhibits from one fair to another.

PRESTON'S TRIAL AS GIRL SLAYER TO START TODAY

John Preston, 32 years old, Chicago house painter and "model husband," will go on trial today before Circuit Judge William J. Fulton in Wheaton for the murder of Miss Agnes Johnson, 26 year old stenographer, whom he is alleged to have choked to death on a lonely Du Page county road near West Chicago the night of Oct. 13.

State's Attorney Win G. Knoch announced he would qualify the jury for infliction of the death penalty. Preston's counsel, Edward Elliott of Lombard, said the confessed killer would plead irresponsibility, claiming his mind was so befogged by poisoned liquor that he had no realization of the crime until he sobered next day in the Wheaton jail.

ADVERTISE IN THE TRIBUNE

Today's weather warns you—

Be Safe

—but don't be noisy

THERE'S no clank of metal against fenders—no crunch of links on hard pavements—when you ride on Goodyear Tire Chains of tough and gripping RUBBER.

You put them on tight instead of loose. The tighter they are, the better they grip the road.

You leave them on all winter! Enjoy their continuous safety. Be sure the car your wife drives has gripping safety right on the tires.

No need to change them with every change of weather—they wear about eight times as long as ordinary chains and protect instead of harming tires.

Go now to any tire dealer and get Goodyear Rubber Tire Chains. Have them put on and forget them. Forget, too, the hazards of mud, slush, drifts and sleet—for these broad and studded crossbands of stout rubber give new safety to winter driving.

Made for all kinds of automobile tires, also for pneumatic truck and bus tires.

Out of the melting pot . . . your telephone!

FROM every corner of the earth raw materials come to the Hawthorne Works of Western Electric—that vast melting pot in which are produced telephones, switchboards, cable and the thousands of other items required by the Bell System.

For nearly 50 years this tremendous task has been handled by Chicagoans—good, solid citizens whose skill and teamwork have met every call for more and still more telephones.

During the last year the number of employees at Hawthorne has been increased by almost fifty per cent—a clear indication of this company's faith in the continued growth and greatness of Chicago.

'MISS MEXICO' FREE; TRIED FOR SLAYING HUSBAND

Mobs Cheer Verdict in Sensational Case.

BY JOHN CORNYN.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 1.—A few minutes before 2 a. m. today, the jury voted to acquit Maria Teresa de Landa Vidal of the murder of her husband, Gen. Moses Vidal, who married her bigamously, amidst scenes of rejoicing seldom seen in a Mexican court.

The defense attorney, José Mairia Lozano, had held the courtroom's attention for five hours. While the trial proceeded, wires from interior points in Mexico besought Lozano to use all his oratorical gifts to save "Miss Mexico." Others sent their blessings. Attorney Lozano announced in his address to the jury that wires had reached him by the hundreds, some coming from as far as Central America.

Thousands Cheer Verdict.

As the jury rendered the verdict, those in the courtroom acclaimed Lozano for several minutes. Thousands, who had been waiting in the streets through the long hours to hear the result of the trial, took up the acclaim.

During the last few hours of the trial, the proceedings were broadcast by radio. "Miss Mexico," winner of a beauty contest at Galveston, Tex., admitted that she had shot Gen. Vidal when he read to her in a newspaper that his first wife was suing him for bigamy. The first wife, whom Gen. Vidal never divorced, told the court that she had lived happily with her husband until he met "Miss Mexico," whun he disappeared.

This morning, the newspapers which have been criticizing the judge and the prosecution for unfairness to "Miss Mexico," continued their unrestrained and bitter attacks.

Lawyer Big Hero.

Attorney Lozano, a noted orator back in the days of Diaz 20 years ago, is the real hero of one of the most bitterly fought trials in the history of Mexican courts. He announced today that the union of Mexico City newspapers had hired him as defense attorney, so decidedly was the press in favor of an acquittal for "Miss Mexico."

Before the verdict was rendered this morning "Miss Mexico" told interviewers that if the court freed her she would become a nun. She did not want to marry again, she said, because Gen. Vidal was the only man she had ever loved.

SINCLAIR PLACE ON PETROLEUM BOARD ASSURED

Say Jail Term Will Not Affect Result.

Neither jail sentences nor scandals will prevent the reelection of H. L. Doheny and Harry Sinclair to the board of directors of the American Petroleum Institute if the two men want to be reelected. That was the consensus last night around the Stevens hotel, where leading oil men of the country were gathering for the tenth annual meeting of the institute.

Although the convention does not open until Tuesday, many important committee meetings were held yesterday and a number more will be held today. Those who talked of the cases of Sinclair and Doheny said the same facts applied to Col. Robert W. Stewart, except that Col. Stewart's board term has not expired.

Cites Former Election.

"While nobody can foresee what the 525 members of the board of councilors—who both nominate and elect the board of directors of 62 members—will do," said one official, "there is a good precedent upon which, I feel, one may rely.

"These same men were up for reelection two years ago when the oil scandals were being discussed everywhere and the trials were approaching. They were reelected then, and I feel sure they can be reelected now, provided they want to."

Numbers of the oil men stated they understood Mr. Sinclair will be a candidate for reelection, but that Mr. Doheny will not.

"So far as Mr. Doheny's decision not to seek reelection is concerned," said another official, "you must remember that Mr. Doheny is more than 70 years old, and that he has sold most of his large interests.

Recall Stewart Reports.

Sir Henri W. A. Deterding, head of the Royal Dutch-Shell companies of Europe, is to be principal speaker.

Whether Sir Henri and Col. Stewart are to have a meeting at which they will talk business, while the former is in Chicago, was a matter of conjecture. Many of the oil men said they recalled reports from London some months ago concerning an engagement between Sir Henri and Col. Stewart, who has been footloose, as it were, since he was ousted from the chairmanship of the board of the Standard of Indiana. But none could be found who ever heard anything definite concerning that reported meeting.

It is stated that the principal general subject of the sessions will be conservation, and that Washington officials from the President down will be watching for the outcome.

U. S. SUIT TO CANCEL DOHENY OIL LEASES GOES TO TRIAL TODAY

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Trial of the government's suit against the Pan-American Petroleum company to cancel three oil leases in Kern county, California, will be started in federal court here tomorrow. Government accountants say $15,000,000 is involved.

The leases total 660 acres. The government suit states that on May 31, 1921, Albert B. Fall, secretary of the interior, got President Harding to sign an order directing that control of certain naval petroleum reserve lands be transferred from the secretary of the navy to the interior department. The prosecutors claim the order was improper and illegal.

Fall and Edward L. Doheny, head of the Pan-American company, then are alleged to have conspired to defraud the government by bringing about execution of certain leases in favor of the Pan-American company for their own personal gain.

In November, 1921, the suit recites, Fall received $100,000 from Doheny and is alleged to have awarded him the leases illegally.

New York, Dec. 1.—[U. P.]—Edward Howlay, 28, lost his life today because he chased a $3 hat onto the subway tracks. When Howlay's hat blew off he jumped from the platform to retrieve it just as a Ninth avenue train came around a curve. He died on the way to a hospital.

READING LINE TO PUT $10,000,000 INTO EQUIPMENT

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Immediate expenditure of $10,000,000 for new equipment will be made by the Reading railroad, Agnew T. Dice, president of the company, announced tonight.

Backing the business and industrial program of President Hoover, Mr. Dice said the equipment orders were the first of a series of large expenditures to be made by the Reading system.

According to the announcement bids will be received this week and orders placed for 2,000 steel box cars at an approximate cost of $4,700,000; 100 motor driven all steel passenger coaches at a cost of $4,800,000, and orders for steel cabooses and gasoline-electric cars, bringing the total to $10,000,000 or more.

PHILLIPS NAMED CLERK ILLINOIS PARDONS BOARD

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Robert B. Phillips, 2124 South Fifth street, Springfield, has been appointed clerk of the Illinois board of pardons and paroles, succeeding Miss Nell Keeler, whose resignation was announced Saturday. Mr. Phillips formerly was assistant chief clerk in the corporation department of the secretary of state's office.

Harry B. Marsh, secretary of the board, announced these appointments to the staff: Charles Rowland, Streator, record clerk; Irene Garvey, file clerk, to succeed Mrs. Marguerita Foster, who was appointed to a position in the office of the institution auditor; Miss Edna Hyndman, Litchfield, stenographer.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL SYSTEM — COURTESY EFFICIENT SERVICE ALWAYS

Better Service Costs Less

The numerous rate reductions made in recent years have taken a large slice off the bill for railway freight service paid by the American people. The 1928 bill was $152,000,000 less than the same amount of transportation would have cost at the average rate of 1923-24, $416,000,000 less than it would have cost at the average rate of 1922 and $840,000,000 less than it would have cost at the average rate of 1921.

But that does not tell the whole story. While the price of railway freight service has been going down, its quality has been going up, and the better service has saved additional money for shippers and receivers of freight.

These additional savings have come chiefly from the improved speed and dependability of railway freight service. Faster service has reduced interest charges on the value of goods in transit, and more dependable service has enabled dealers to reduce the size of their reserve stocks and thus to make savings in the cost of carrying inventories. Better service also has helped to make the flow of business more responsive to changing styles and conditions, and that has meant savings. Further savings have come from the safer handling of freight; shippers have had fewer claims for loss and damage.

The savings from lower rates, large as they are, considerably understate the total savings in the costs of business generally for which the railroads have been responsible.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

L. A. DOWNS,
President, Illinois Central System.

WAR WORN FEET SOUND LAST TAPS FOR DEAD 'TIGER'

40,000 French Vets File Under Arch of Triumph.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 1.—For the first time since the victory parade in 1919 the marching feet of French veterans sounded this morning under the main arch of the Arc de Triomphe, where lies the unknown soldier. The warriors of France marched through and did honor to the memory of the late Georges Clemenceau, whose indomitable will made their victory possible.

Forty thousand of them, many scarred and maimed, tramped down the long, splendid Avenue des Champs Elysées and into the stone maw of the great monument that Napoleon I. ordered built to commemorate his many victories. It was the third time since the Franco-Prussian war that marching feet have echoed under the great vaults.

Dead Leader Had Wept.

After the German hosts passed through the arch in 1871 it was kept closed by France. The victory parade wiped out that humiliation. Georges Clemenceau had wept as he watched it. Then in 1926 the American Legion marched through the arch, but only through its side arches.

The "Tiger" insisted before his death that he should have no state funeral. This wish was respected. But no official obsequies could have been as impressive as the silent ceremony this morning, almost a week after his body was laid in that simple grave in his native province.

The veterans marched through a ravine of horizon blue uniforms and the gleaming steel of fixed bayonets. The troops of the Paris garrison presented arms as the association of "Busted Mugs," their faces mangled by war, armless and legless, passed by in pitiful little carts. Half a million citizens watched in reverent silence.

Strew Flowers from Verdun.

President Gaston Doumergue led the parade to the Arc de Triomphe, where the flags of thousands of regiments dipped in honor to the unknown soldier and to the "Tiger." Flowers from the battlefield of Verdun were dropped over the bronze slab from which flickers the eternal flame. Meanwhile a picked delegation which had been sent to the Vendee village laid some of the same flowers on the nameless grave on the hillside of Le Colombier farm.

Marching at the head of the veterans was a tiny delegation from St. Vincent sur-Jard, on the Vendée coast, with M. Brabant, the "Tiger's" chauffeur carrying the flag. Behind them came a group of doctors with a banner reading, "From the doctors of the front to Dr. Georges Clemenceau," recalling the "Tiger's" early practice of medicine.

Old Enemy Attends.

Premier André Tardieu and his cabinet stood, with silk hats in their hands, as veterans from all corners of France did honor to the one French statesman whom they claim as their own. Even Aristide Briand, who hated the "Tiger" as much as the "Tiger" hated him, and thus far has refused to play a hypocritical rôle by attending any commemorative ceremonies, was there in the capacity of minister of foreign affairs.

While Georges Clemenceau was thus being honored a near battle was staged at Champigny-sur-Marne, in the suburbs of Paris. There in 1870 the Prussians and French fought. There today French Socialists wanted to put on a demonstration of Franco-Prussian amity in the presence of a number of Socialist deputies from Berlin. The communists had announced that they would break up the meeting.

Just as the ceremonies were about to begin, the loudspeakers all around, which nobody had noticed, began to function.

"By the orders of André Tardieu, prime minister and minister of the interior, and M. Chiappe, prefect of police, today's meeting is called off," a voice said. And the police fell to heartily, to see that it was called off, much to the dismay of every one. A couple of heads were broken, but there were no other casualties.

RESUME TRIAL OF M'MANUS ON MURDER CHARGE

New York, Dec. 1.—[Special.]—The trial of George A. McManus for the murder of Arnold Rothstein will be resumed tomorrow morning before General Sessions Judge Charles C. Nott Jr. and a jury in the Criminal courts building. Mrs. Marian A. Putnam of Asheville, N. C., will take the stand for further cross-examination.

It is expected that when Mrs. Putnam's ordeal is over the state will begin introducing testimony to fix the Rothstein shooting in the Park Central hotel where, on the night of Nov. 4, 1928, he was wounded, dying two days later in Polyclinic hospital. The witnesses will be employés of Lindy's restaurant, where the slain gambler received a telephone message, ostensibly from McManus, summoning him to the hotel.

Mrs. Putnam is expected to face cross-examination tomorrow even more severe than she encountered Friday, when James D. C. Murray, attorney for the defendant, made the gray haired witness admit she had been at the hotel with her fiancé.

MEXICO MOVES TO PAY UP HER FOREIGN DEBTS

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Provisional President Portes Gil in a statement today said Mexico would continue a strict policy of retrenchment in an effort to balance its budget, but added this would be impossible until the problem of public debt had been settled.

He said definite steps have been taken to solve the debt problem on the basis of Mexico's capacity to pay. A payment plan is being arranged covering all questions connected with the debt.

Negotiations have been opened with international bankers for settlement of the international debt with the view of settling all pending foreign claims in a block.

WOMAN DIES ON STREET.

Returning from the theater with her husband, Mrs. Rose Hartstein, 55 years old, 2040 North spaulding avenue, collapsed on the street near her home last night and died while she was being taken to St. Elizabeth's hospital. Her death was attributed to heart disease.

KILLING SOLVES 50 HOLDUPS; 3 GIRLS IN GANG

More than 50 holdups and burglaries were announced by police last night as solved following questioning of three girls and four youths seized following the shooting to death on Saturday during an attempted holdup of Irving Trachtman, alias John Patrick, 17 years old, 3133 Carlisle place. Trachtman was killed by Felix J. Cleasey, 37 years old, 1407 North Avers avenue, a watchman and one armed war veteran, when Trachtman and his gang tried to rob a bakery at 3343 North avenue.

The girls in custody are Lillian Adolph, 1223 North Springfield avenue; Elsie Krause, 22 years old, 2140 Fletcher street; and Estelle Leonard, 23 years old, 2838 Fullerton avenue, who were found by police in suites maintained by the Trachtman gang at the Coolidge hotel, 2956 Jackson boulevard. At the hotel also were seized three of the youths, Frank Miller, 18 years old, 3227 Grenshaw avenue; John Lipper 18 years old, 1523 South Sawyer, and Louis Brown.

than Bad-Weather Footwear has ever been before

SHUGLOVS are an entirely new conception of bad-weather footwear. Not a sign remains of old-time bulk and ugliness.

Shuglovs are truly smart! They are carefully designed to retain the slender, graceful line from toe to ankle. They are as soft and flexible as an imported glove . . . as carefully tailored as an English riding habit.

Yet, with all this careful attention to style, Shuglovs give complete protection to delicate shoes and stockings. And they are pleasantly warm, though they look so light and gay.

Smart shops everywhere have Shuglovs, in colors to match every ensemble. The original Miller creation bears the name "Shuglov by Miller" on the sole. Look for it—accept no other. The Miller Rubber Co. of N. Y. Akron, Ohio.

WATER AND OIL MUST BE SAVED, WILBUR REPORTS

West's Future Depends on Conservation, He Says.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Conservation of water and petroleum in the western states will be the two chief objectives of the department of the interior under the Hoover administration, Secretary Ray Lyman Wilbur declared in his annual report, made public today.

Unlike many of the reports now being transmitted by department heads, that of Mr. Wilbur discussed in detail the policies he has formulated for the future, emphasizing as "a major responsibility" the future of the public domain with its attendant problems of water conservation and the conservation of mineral resources.

Watershed Thinking Necessary.

"Water conservation may properly rank first because of its importance in the every day lives of people in the states affected," he declares. "From Nebraska west, water—and water alone—is the key to our future. We need the mountains and hills and a great protective back country or we cannot have sufficient water for our valleys. Homestead thinking must be replaced with watershed thinking. There must be a great western strategy for the protection of our watersheds and the plant life in them.

"The public domain has been abused, overgrazed, and not respected in many sections of the country. Unless we care for the lands now in possession of the United States, in forests and public domain, the west will repeat the degradation of Korea and parts of China with man made barrenness, floods, erosion, and decay."

Land Commission Praised.

Pointing out that "it is difficult to understand and properly control such problems from Washington, Secretary Wilbur lauded the act of President Hoover in naming a commission headed by former Secretary James R. Garfield to study the public lands question.

"The reclamation policy, Mr. Wilbur continued, is to carry government participation only to the building of dams and water storage works and there upon transfer the works to the states for the development of distribution systems without obligation for repayment except of revenues from electrical power and in some cases from sale of water.

Oil Is State's Responsibility.

"Petroleum is our fastest dwindling irreplaceable asset," the secretary asserted in outlining the oil situation.

Primarily, the responsibility for curtailing waste lies with the industry and the various states, he said, the attitude of the federal government being not to interfere with the states and to safeguard the potential supply of oil on its own lands until the day of wasteful overproduction is gone by.

Taking up the work of the Indian bureau the secretary of the interior declared it has before it one definite and unique goal—that of working itself out of a job. This can be done, in his opinion, by making the Indian self-supporting.

"The white man," he averred, "wanting wholesome food, a comfortable place to live, opportunities for education and advancement, has a single way of getting them. He works for them. The Indian has often failed to satisfy those same needs, because he has not learned the way to competence and happiness through work. Industrial training for young Indians and adequate mechanism for inducting them into the industrial life of the nation is essential. The problem has not been solved before because of the lack of determination in the attack upo it."

No Education Department Needed.

Touching upon the office of education—known in the past as a bureau—Mr. Wilbur expressed his emphatic disapproval of the move for a federal department of education:

"Local government in education is, in my opinion, the keystone of proper training for citizenship by universal public education," he asserted. "There is a distinct menace in centralization in the national government of any large educational scheme. A department of education similar to other departments of the government is not required. An adequate position for education within a department and with sufficient financial support is all that is needed. That is the aim of the newly recognized office of education and that will be its position in this department."

GUNMEN SHOOT UNION OFFICIAL; DEATH EXPECTED

Michael Menning, 40 years old, an official of the Indiana Harbor Teamsters' union, was shot and wounded probably fatally yesterday by three men in an automobile who forced his car to the curb near his home at 1314 141st street, Indiana Harbor.

All three of the men opened fire as Menning's car came to stop, raking his machine with bullets from the front end to the rear. One bullet struck Menning in the back of the head and ranged downward, and attendants at the St. Catherine hospital, where he was taken, said the wound probably would cause his death.

The police attributed the shooting to labor union difficulties in Indiana Harbor. Menning is the father of six children.

HERE'S THE "ANTI-KNOCK" TYPEWRITER

You men who buy anti-knock gasolines, you know what "hammer-blow" explosions do to the piston, cylinders and bearings of an automobile engine.

Think how much more havoc is wrought on the delicate mechanism of a typewriter when your stenographer "pounds the keys."

There are just two kinds of typewriters.

The kind that goes slap! slap! slap! Each key whanging the paper with a resounding whack. (That's a hammer-blow typewriter!) And the other kind ..... the pressure-printing typewriter, each key kissing the paper with a smooth, swift and utterly noiseless contact. (That's a REMINGTON NOISELESS.)

In its standard 4-row keyboard, the REMINGTON NOISELESS is similar to other typewriters. But there the similarity ends!

It is utterly different in its lighter touch, its faster action, its finer and greater output, its real and abiding noiselessness.

For a thorough demonstration without cost or obligation simply write or phone REMINGTON RAND BUSINESS SERVICE INC., Typewriter Division, 214 W. Monroe St., Chicago, Ill., Phone Central 8750.

'MR. A.,' RULER OF KASHMIR, MAY SELL TO ENGLAND

Sir Hari Singh Dickering, London Reports.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 1.—Sir Hari Singh, maharajah of Kashmir and Jammu, better known to the public as the mysterious "Mr. A." whose adventures filled many columns of newspaper space, is appearing in a more sober light today as the possible seller of the ancient valley of Kashmir to England.

Sir Hari, it is stated, might be willing to dispose of the kingdom, realising that the present investigation into the manner of the government of India may mean the stripping of the princes of much of their power.

Therefore, according to gossip in the bazaars of India, he feels he had better dispose of the territory now, while he is able to do so advantageously, rather than remain only a nominal ruler, when the inevitable changes occur. Sir Hari seldom visits Kashmir, prefering to remain in the older kingdom, Jammu.

Britain Once Sold "Eden."

There are several reasons to believe that the British would not be averse to the territory, known as "Eden of Asia." The wisdom of the sale of Kashmir by the Brtsh government in 1846 has always been questioned. Great Britain took Kashmir froom the Sikh state and Punjab during the war of the 1840s and sold it to Sir Hari's ancestor, Maharajah Gulab Singh of Jammu, for $2,500,000 in consideration of the latter's aid during that war. The kindgom pays a tribute each year of six fine Kashmir shawls, which go Kashmir by the British government in to Queen Mary.

The area of Kashmir is 80,900 square miles and has a population of 3,000,000. It is a strategic position in which to quarter troops for the control of India. The climate is temperate and presents no difficulties.

HOW HE BECAME "MR. A."

Sir Hari's visit to London in 1919 when he was only 24 years old, led to his notoriety as "Mr. A." He lunched with the king and queen at Buckingham palace, met the prince of Wales and while attending the victory ball on Armistice night, he met Mrs. Charles Ernest Robinson, wife of an English bookmaker.

She was "discovered" in a Paris hotel room with Sir Hari by Montague Noel Newton, a former lover, who threatened to apprise Robinson. Sir Hari signed two checks for $750,000 each, but stopped payment on one at the Midland bank here.

Robinson and others sued the bank to collect. Sir Hari was referred to during the trial as "Mr. A." the court not wishing to embarrass Sir Hari's uncle who was then the maharajah of Kashmir, by having the young prince's name connected with the scandal. "Mr. A's" true identity was learned, however, and the trial became a sensation of three continents.

CHICAGO HEIGHTS KILLING LAID TO GANG QUARREL

Gang vengeance was seen yesterday as the motive for the assassination of Edward Baron, 21 years old, 195 East 26th street, Chicago Heights, whose body, with three bullet holes through the head, was found by a railroad track in the suburb early yesterday. Baron was only recently released on parole from the Pontiac reformatory, and had been sought for several weeks in connection with robberies of gas filling stations in and near Chicago Heights.

No clue to the identities of the killers was found, although residents told of hearing an automobile pass near where the body was found during the night. It is believed that the killers took the youth for a ride and dumped his body out at the first convenient spot.

One filling station attendant identified the body as that of a holdup man who procured $35 from him a week ago. A quarrel broke out among members of the Baron gang, and this led to the murder, police believe. The slain youth was accredited with carrying always at least two revolvers, but no weapon was found upon the body.

Gangster Wounded and Captured in Robbery Act

George Ambrosia, 22 years old, 1837 Edgemont avenue, a member of the "Forty-two" gang, was shot and captured yesterday by three detectives from the Desplaines street station, who surprised him and a companion while they were robbing a man on Union avenue near Madison street. Ambrosia's companion escaped. Detective Walter Pidgeon, Frank McLaren, and Edward O'Donnell heard the victim call for help and opened fire on the pair as they started to run. Ambrosia was taken to the Bridewell hospital with a bullet wound in his right shoulder.

Wife of Artist Hanged with Apron After Spat

Hammonton, N. J., Dec. 1.—(Special.)—Gladys Henderson, wife of Russell Henderson, artist, was found dead this afternoon in the cellar of their home, her apron knotted about her neck.

Her body was discovered by her husband, he told police, after they had quarreled. He had returned to the house, he said, after an hour and a half's absence and his wife had scolded him because he had promised to be back in fifteen minutes.

She then went to the cellar. After some fifteen minutes, he said, he became alarmed at her absence and sought her. He told state police he found her suspended from one of the water pipes, her feet dragging on the cellar floor.

TWO KILLED IN BLIND PIG.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 1.—[U.P.]—A quarrel in a blind pig tonight led to the death of two men. George Erikkern, 57 years old who police said, owned the resort, and Lew Davis, 60 years old, bartender, shot and killed each other in a battle which followed the quarrel.

RECOVER BODY OF 91 YEAR OLD MAN BURIED ALIVE

WILMINGTON, Kent, England, Dec. 1.—(AP)—The body of William Sales, 91 years old, who was buried alive when the well on his homestead caved in on him Friday, was recovered today.

Mr. Sales had expressed the wish that he might die on the homestead where he and his wife had lived many decades. Mrs. Sales, aged 82, stood for hours by the well while the rescue party retained hope of finding her husband alive. Shaking with sobs, she told how they had lived in their little ivy-clad cottage since they were married. A son, aged 62, was in the rescue party.

Mr. Sales fell into the well when a stone slab at the top gave way under his step. A ton or more of earth fell on top of him.

A Further Reduction in LONG DISTANCE TELEPHONE RATES

EFFECTIVE JANUARY 1, 1930

The Illinois Bell Telephone Company announces a reduction in various rates for Long Distance telephone service, effective January 1, 1930. This is the fourth reduction in long distance rates within little more than three years.

The present reduction affects principally station-to-station day rates on calls to points 60 to 300 miles distant.

This will make calls to out of town points more economical than ever. On the present volume of calls, it will mean a saving of more than $5,000,000 a year to telephone users of the United States. It is in keeping with the fundamental policy of the Bell System, which is to provide the best possible telephone service at a cost as low as is consistent with financial safety.

Announcements giving more detailed information will appear shortly

Referee—Tom Thorp [Columbia]. Umpire—John Hennessey [Brown]. Head linesman—Bob Scarlett [New Hampshire].

New York, Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Tony Plansky, former Georgetown university all around athletic star, drop kicked a field goal from the 32 yard line in the last few seconds of play today, thus breaking a tie and giving the New York Giants, National Professional Football league, a 24 to 21 triumph over the Chicago Cardinals in as thrilling a game as was on the Polo grounds this year. The victory was the ninth in eleven games for the Giants, who have lost only one contest and tied one.

GENE ROSE.

Plansky made the 5,000 spectators forget their numbed feet and fingers in the last period. He stole the spotlight from Ernie Nevers, Cardinals' ace, and Benny Friedman, the Giants' captain. In the final period he scored the touchdown enabling the Giants to tie the score. On virtually every play of the 38 yard march the Giants made for the final touchdown Plansky was in the limelight.

Friedman's Kick Good.

From the Cardinals' 32 yard line he broke away around his left wing for a dash that ended on the one yard mark. On the next two plays he was repulsed, but on the third he tore through right guard for the touchdown. Friedman's perfect placekick tied the count at 21 to 21.

It seemed likely that the game would end that way, when, with less than five minutes to play, Gene Rose of the Chicago team intercepted a Giant pass on the Cardinals' 16 yard mark.

Then the Chicago eleven advanced 16 yards on two plays. Next thing Rose fumbled and Joe Westophol recovered for the Giants on the Cardinals' 32 yard strip. Friedman was tossed for a 13 yard loss. A pass, Friedman to Leonard Sedbrooke, put the ball on the 24 yard mark.

Benny Thrown for Loss.

With one minute to play, another pass, Friedman to Sedbrooke, netted 15 yards. Friedman tried to toss another aerial and was thrown for an 11 yard loss by three Cardinal players. Then, Plansky dropped back and booted his field goal between the uprights from the left side of the field as the referee's whistle sounded.

Early in the fourth quarter, it appeared the Cardinals would win. They were leading, 21 to 14, as the result of a touchdown scored by Nevers from the one yard line, where he carried the ball after intercepting a forward pass thrown by Friedman from behind his own goal line.

PACKERS TRIUMPH, 25-6.

Providence, R. I., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—The Green Bay Packers trounced the Providence Steamrollers here today, 25 to 6, before 6,500 spectators.

The National pro league champions bopped off early in the first quarter when Lewellen started around end, then cut back through tackle and, aided by perfect interference, galloped 25 yards for a touchdown. Dunn missed the goal.

His second score came in the third period when Dunn flipped a pass to Rohrl, who proceeded to gallop 20 yards for a touchdown. Again Dunn failed to add the extra point.

The fourth frame was hardly under way when a pass, Dunn to Lindberg, a sub for Molenda, made it a first down on Providence's 29 yard line. Then Lindberg and Blood crashed their way through for a couple of first downs, Lindberg finally going over. Dunn added the extra point. Green Bay ended its scoring on a lateral pass to Johnny Rohrl, who galloped 70 yards for a touchdown.

YellowJackets, Bears Slide to Nowhere

The Chicago Bears and the Frankford Yellow Jackets were snowbound in midfield at Wrigley field yesterday afternoon, 0 to 0, the same score, or lack of score, to which the Philadelphia team held the league leading Green Bay Packers several weeks ago. A howling blizzard enveloped the players during the entire game, and added to the churned up snow mantle on the field.

Offensive efforts by both teams were futile. Footing on the icy field was something to lose, and linemen clasped each other to fall down together. Backs were principally occupied with hanging on to the slippery ball. Attempted end runs came to inevitable conclusions with little or no gain when tackler and runner found themselves bearing down on each other, powerless to dodge or stop.

Bears Reach 24 Yard Line.

If horseshoe scoring counted, then the Bears were superior. They were closest to the enemy goal the most number of times. The first two quarters were even with the team defending the past goal alternately holding the advantage because of a strong wind which carried punts deep into enemy territory. Diehl, Yellow Jacket punter, was handicapped by this gale in the first quarter, and Driscoll in the second.

But in the third quarter, Diehl, with the wind at his back, got off a high punt from his 3 yard line. Sternaman caught it on his 42 yard line, and in a cloud of snow dust returned to the 24 yard line. Walquist laid down a barrage of passes but no one could get near them and the opportunity was lost.

In the fourth period the Bears twice approached scoring territory, but numbed fingers were unable to grasp the passes, and line plays were useless. Frankford was penalized once after Homan interfered with Johnson's attempt to receive a pass, and the Bears took the ball on the enemy 27 yard line. But after Holmer was stopped on the line, he tossed a pass to Garland Grange, who was unable to close his stiffened hands as the ball squirted between them.

Yellow Jackets Held.

Later after Tony Kostos had intercepted a pass for the Yellow Jackets on the 21 yard line, Diehl's punt was blocked, and recovered by Carlson for the Bears on the 38 yard line. A pass, Holmer to Driscoll, netted ten yards, but further attempts were stopped.

With a minute and forty seconds left to play, Holmer punted to the Frankford 8 yard line, apparently hoping some one would block the next attempted punt out. But the Yellow Jackets were wily, and on quarter back sneaks kept possession of the ball until the game ended.

ALERTNESS IS KEY TO IRISH WIN OVER ARMY

Rockne Teaches Men to Follow Ball.

Invite St. Mary's

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Dec. 1. (AP)—St. Mary's college has been invited to play against an eastern football team here Dec. 21, it was announced today by the San Francisco junior chamber of commerce, which extended the invitation. St. Mary's won all of its games this season.

While the proposed opponent for St. Mary's was not named by the chamber, its officers said a game between the Gaels and Notre Dame or Pittsburgh on Dec. 21 would be welcome to the fans. Tulane and Southern Methodist university also were mentioned as possible opponents.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Alertness, always a factor in any athletic contest, was responsible for Notre Dame's victory over the Army last Saturday in one of the most important intersectional football struggles of the year. It was the alertness of Jack Elder, Notre Dame back, who intercepted an Army forward pass and galloped 97 yards for the only touchdown of the bitterly fought contest. This touchdown and Caridco's goal kick enabled Notre Dame to win, 7 to 0, and complete its season undefeated and untied.

"Be alert." This has always been the command of Coach Knute Rockne during the many successful seasons he has been in charge of football at Notre Dame. As an official I have been in the South Benders' dressing room on several occasions to notify the coach to send his team on the field. Invariably, Rockne's parting shot to his players was "Be alert."

Irish Follow the Ball.

Ever since Rockne became head football coach at Notre Dame, his players have always been alert and they have had an uncanny knack of following the ball and being in the proper spot of the gridiron when a fumble took place or an opponent's forward pass was thrown.

While Notre Dame has been accused of receiving breaks, it has been the players who took advantage of them. They had athletic sense and they knew just what to do in case they retrieved the oval. In other words they thought ahead at all times. They knew just what to do in case any member recovered the ball. Unlike many other players, they carried on after fulfilling their assignment.

Notre Dame had a great season and is rightfully entitled to a share of the

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Recent events in the Chicago prize fight business have led to the suspicion that promoters have a sense of humor, something hitherto not attributed to the cult.

We don't want to do any of the local fistic impresarios an injustice, but we can't help thinking about the recent appearances of one Sig. Bruno Raggio and King Levinsky and the impending premier of C. Arthur Shires, a ball player by trade. That these men are even permitted to own boxing gloves and embroidered trunks is evidence that a spirit of levity has crept into a solemn trade.

Let us first reflect on the status of Sig. Raggio.

A Thrill Seeking Millionaire.

Prior to the last show at the Coliseum, messengers brought daily tidings to the effect that Signor Raggio, one of the contestants, was a millionaire, fresh from sunny Italy, where he controlled the manufacture of olive oil, cheese, black shirts or whatever it is that makes millionaires in Italy.

Millionaire Raggio, it was revealed, would reluctantly accept his fighting fee just as a matter of ethics so's not to spoil things for the other boys. But primarily he was in fisticuffs for the thrill.

It is related that a reporter for an Italian paper went for the millionaire narrative to the extent of one full column, greatly adding to the thrill of things as Raggio's fight grew nigh.

Writer Disputes Weight.

When the bout was called, a trim young heavyweight of 180 pounds pounced through the ropes. Then came our Italian Croesus. His seconds assisted him up the steps to the ring and two helpful members of the entourage loaned willing shoulders to push him through the ropes. At this point Raggio's weight was announced as 218 pounds.

Now we don't know so much about boxing but we are an expert on human weight, personally scaling 255. And if we were to get on a teeter board opposite Raggio, we'd expect to be tossed 20 feet in the air.

Bruno's adversary, as he stared, fascinated, at Bruno's bulging bread basket, scarcely could wait for the opening gong. And when the bell rang he rushed out and buried his right boxing glove in the rolls of fat. Bruno made a few pawing motions as his adversary pulled out one glove and buried the other in the same wrinkle.

Levinsky Forgets Dignity.

Then: Bang! And at least 270 pounds of beef hit the canvas. Six strong men carried Bruno to his corner while commission doctors at the ringside looked abashed. As the poor fellow started to come to five minutes later he murmured something about hoping he could get back his city job in Philadelphia.

King Levinsky is somewhat different from Bruno in that he's in good physical condition and does not claim to be a millionaire. For a few rounds King's awkward maneuvers are amusing, but after a while he becomes spoiled by the laughter and engages in such pursuits as gouging his opponent in the eye with his thumb and stamping on his opponent's feet. When his ring rival misses a swing King causes the dignity of his profession to suffer by making faces at his adversary.

Arthur Must Produce.

Which brings us up to our old pal, the Great Shires.

Promoter Mullen perhaps will find himself in a quandary about the Great Shires. He's too honest to ask a trained boxer to pull his shots, yet if Arthur gets himself all over resin, it will be the last of the young man as a gate attraction in the fight business.

In fairness to his public, Mr. Mullen should ask for a vote as to whether Mr. Shires is to be permitted to stay or be knocked flat on his new boxing trousers.

In all events, we come out flat, footed for the preservation of solemnity in the boxing profession.

BALL, OWNER OF BROWNS, TO FIGHT BASEBALL RADIO

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Phil Ball, president of the St. Louis Browns, announced yesterday his intention to request the American league to prohibit radio broadcasting of American league baseball games next season.

He plans to lay the matter before the American league meeting in New York the week of Dec. 9. The Browns permitted broadcasting of their home games last season and it is Ball's theory that this cut down attendance at the games.

CARDINALS WON'T MOVE.

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 1.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals will remain in St. Louis and they will not build their own park for at least another ten years.

These two facts became established yesterday when President Sam Breadon notified the Dodier Realty company of his intention to exercise his option to renew his lease on Sportsman's Park for an additional ten years, beginning Jan. 1, 1931, at a rental of $35,000 annually or an increase of $5,000 a year. The Dodier company is a holding company owned by Phil Ball, president of the St. Louis Browns, which owns Sportsman's Park.

Breadon said this action may be deemed a sufficient refutation to rumors going the rounds that the Cardinals might be transferred to another city.

Beckman, N. Y. Pro Star, Sold to Cleveland Five

EXTRA! FOOTBALL WRITER BREAKS DOWN, CONFESSES

Admits He Can't Understand the Game.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 1.—One more football season has passed and still your correspondent has not learned the scientific way of watching the work of the athletes on the field to note whether the defense is playing with a nine man line at a given time, or the offensive guard is able to check his man.

It is still a jumble of stout, wadded figures running in all directions, falling down and piling up, and I still envy those clear-eyed, discriminating critics who are able to tell me with scientific assurance when a football game is over that the losing quarter back was a blundering chump way back there in the first quarter when he kept on piling plays into the nine man line of the defendants instead of throwing passes to scatter them.

That M-Key Did It.

Last year the trouble was that my typewriter had a dead recoil spring on the M-key. Every time I made a point of watching the line play and ignoring the hocus pocus among the backs the M-key would become wedged and by the time I had unwedged the same the two lines would have crashed together in a stormy surf of unrelated arms and legs and one of the backs would have run the end for a gain of 17 yards and a first down at the 25 yard line, necessitating plaintive inquiries of "who the devil carried that ball and which way did he go?"

This season, however, I have been using a new typewriter and spying the plays with a field glass, but now, after watching eight games, I am still humble and respectful and envious of the experts who talk of the marvelous work of some guard or of some back assigned to the inconspicuous duties of running interference. It is a little easier when Yale is playing, for Yale plays simple forthright football, and if somebody makes a six yard gain you may be pretty sure it was Albie Booth, or if Albie happens not to be in the lineup at the moment, then Dec Snead.

Watches for Mr. Cannon.

Before the Notre Dame-Army game I made a memorandum to watch this Mr. Cannon of the Notre Dame team, as he was mentioned as the greatest guard of the season, but it seemed that there was a fifteen inch steel stanchion just in front of the press box which shut off the view of about thirty per cent of the football field, and whenever I would remember to watch Mr. Cannon the football game would get behind this stanchion. Then somebody sitting behind me would ex-

De Paul's Football Players Stop Off En Route to Coast

Coaches brought the team back to its home city to freshen up before starting for Los Angeles, Cal. The players, the coaches thought, were a bit travel worn. De Paul's first trip was to Detroit for a night game. The squad returned to Chicago, repacked and rode to Niagara, N. Y. After playing there the team spent a week visiting historic spots in the east and then went to Brooklyn to play St. Johns'.

The 2,000 mile jaunt to Los Angeles is being made to keep a gridiron engagement with a team of firemen. The firemen are said to be fine players. De Paul's student body plans to give the team an enthusiastic sendoff to key the players for the intersectional struggle.

School officials yesterday denied reports that the squad is to return via Panama. The educational chiefs vetoed the plan because of the loss of time from classrooms.

Big Ten Split Over Raising Ban on Iowa

Iowa's petition for a rehearing on the Big Ten's decision to sever athletic relations Jan. 1 was completed last night. Athletic directors, coaches, and faculty leaders of the nine schools to pass judgment are reported sharply divided over what their reaction to the petition should be.

One of them said last night:

"Iowa's readmittance threatens to split the conference into two factions—the old guard and the new."

The old guard is said to be comprised of Stagg of Chicago, Yost of Michigan, and Huff of Illinois. It is this trio from which the fight against Iowa is expected to come.

Old Guard Rules.

It is explained that for years the three members of the old guard have been dominant in Big Ten affairs. They have counseled wisely, played the game fairly, and usually been able to persuade younger athletic leaders that the "old guard is always right."

In Iowa's case Huff, Stagg, and Yost are said to hold that Iowa violated the conference code on eligibility and financial succor for athletes. Whether the code is right or wrong, the trio believes that Iowa has forfeited the right to stay in the western conference. The old guard apparently isn't satisfied with Iowa's contrition.

When the meetings open here Friday, at which the Iowa question and the framing of the basketball schedules must be accomplished, the result will hang upon the ability of the old guard to whip Northwestern, Indiana, Purdue, Ohio, Wisconsin, and Minnesota into line with their wishes.

Will the Old Guard Rule?

If the younger athletic leaders of the Big Ten choose to befriend Iowa and are able to hold their faculty members in line, the conference may find itself in rough waters.

Talk about dissension over Iowa is so widespread that reports from other states were received last night hinting the dissolution of the Big Ten and the formation of a Big Six. Little credence was attached to such rumors.

In the discussion of the Iowa case, an important issue scheduled to come before the conference has been overlooked. The faculty committee on athletics last spring suggested a rule prohibiting an athlete who had played on one collegiate team playing on another team following his transfer. It is believed the rule will be adopted and the migratory athlete problem solved.

BY HARLAND ROHM.

Unawed by the hard boiled reputation of Boston's Bruins, the Chicago Blackhawks swooped over the ice like eagles and made off with a 3 to 1 victory over the world's champions at the Coliseum last night. Banging two goals into the net in the first period, the Hawks hung grimly to that advantage until the third, when another Chicago goal was followed by one for the Bruins. The victory left the Hawks just a point short of a tie with the New York Rangers for second place.

Though the Hawks couldn't bump as hard as the Bruins because they weigh less, they made up that 'lack of beef by sticking to their job and body checking twice as much. An example was Mr. Eddie Shore, the Bruins' famed bone buster, who was bounced off the ice exactly nine times in the first twenty minutes.

Throng Cheers Gardiner.

It's rare that spectators pay a tribute to any man in such a seemingly unspectacular job as a goalkeeper, but the 7,500 fans last night cheered Chuck Gardiner for an brilliant a job of goal tending as even the most partisan fan would care to see.

Gardiner was one of the casualties of the game when he was knocked out by Lionel Hitchman, the lean and saturnine mate of Shore. Gardiner had stopped Weiland's shot after a pass from Hitchman, but the big defense man crashed through and his knee rammed Gardiner in the groin. The goalie was stretched out for several minutes, but eventually got back on his feet and resumed play. Lola Couture received a cut over the eye, but also came back after being patched up.

First Hawk Score Lucky.

Though the speed of the game ranged from average up, the most brilliant spots were in the first period. The Bruins' offense really had a slight edge on the Chicagoans, but the Hawks were back checking brilliantly, so, though they had only half as many shots, two of them counted.

The first was rather lucky, something like a football safety man fumbling a punt behind his goal line and an end falling on it for a touchdown. Ty Arbour shot from an angle just inside the Bruins' blue line after four minutes of play. Thompson pushed out his left hand to field the puck, but it twisted out of his glove into the net.

Less than a minute later the Hawks put the puck in the net by a fine bit of combination play, but the referees—the same pair who drew such disapprobation from the crowd a week ago—called it back for interference. Ripley had passed back from a corner to Arbour in front of the net and Ty slapped the puck past the goalie. But the officials insisted March had interfered with Thompson's sight of the shot.

Bruins Miss Chances.

Angered, the Hawks stepped out and got another goal within a couple of minutes. Tommy Cook sneaked through the Bruins' defense and whipped a pass to Earl Miller, who flipped it into the net.

The Boston huskies missed many chances in that period through the combination of checking by everybody in the black and white uniforms and some dazzling stops by Gardiner. Seldom did the Bruins get a set shot.

The first period pace seemed to tell a bit in the second, for both teams slowed up. If either team had an edge it was the Hawks, as Thompson had to stop nearly twice as many shots resulting from greatly improved team play and passing by the Hawks. Cook, Miller, Taylor, Dutkowski, and Wentworth all were mixed up in sallies that seemed destined to increase Chicago's lead, but without luck.

Incidentally, in the early part of the period, when the Bruins were pressing hard and Taylor drew a penalty for chopping Shore's legs out from under him, came a smart bit of master-mind-ing. The Bruins were driving desperately for goals, so the Hawks on the ice were Dutkowski, Wentworth, defense men; Arbour, the club's best back checker, and Gottselig, who's about the best at stick-handling. Even with six men to five the Bruins couldn't break through.

The third period saw a return to the action of the first, with Boston smashing madly down the ice in a series of vicious drives only to lose the puck by poke checking of the forwards or a piling up against the defense line. Then, with a third of the period gone, the Hawks scored again.

Frank Ingram, center, from Vancouver, B. C., making his first appearance before the Chicago fans, carried the puck over the Bruins' blue line with a mighty burst of speed. His shot was true and, though Thompson stopped it, it pulled him out of his goal mouth. Taylor, coming in from the left, scored the rebound.

That turned loose everything Boston had, and the Bruins pounded the Chicago goal with shots, one of which counted. Half the period was gone when Mickey Mackay, one time Blackhawk, started a sally that carried him into Hawk territory. Once safely inside he passed to Barry in front of the net. Gardiner didn't have a chance to save the shot.

Crowd Razzes Shore.

That ended the scoring, but it didn't end the fun, especially when the rough Shore drew his first penalty of the game and the crowd indulged its passion for booing him. Ripley interspersed a bit of humor when a heavy check at the mouth of the Bruins' net tore his stick from his hand, but left the puck between his feet. Bending over, he tried to pass it into the goal behind him like a football center. All he got for his effort was a two minute penalty for a technical infraction of a rule. Several other penalties were handed out in those last few minutes as the Bruins strove desperately to smash the Hawks' defense, but it held better than the champions' and the Hawks' barely missed adding another goal or two.

SUBSTITUTE WINS HOCKEY BATTLE FOR DETROIT, 4-3

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 1.—(AP)—A second string wingman scored his first National Hockey league goal this season here tonight and brought about the defeat of the New York Rangers by the Detroit Cougars, 4 to 3.

Bernie Brophy, Detroit sub wingman, entered the game in the middle of the final period with the score tied at 3-all, swept into New York territory, caught up a loose puck and sent it skimming crosswise on the ice. The puck took a freak bounce and hit the post of the net, bounding into the cage before John Ross Roach, Ranger goalie, was aware the shot had been made. Trailing by one goal, the Rangers then sent every man except the goalie into Cougar ice in a frantic attempt to score, but the Detroit team held the New Yorkers.

national honors. Rockne's eleven played one of the hardest schedules in football history and traveled many miles to defeat its opponents. Any team which can win from such elevens as Indiana, Navy, Wisconsin, Carnegie Tech, Georgia Tech, Drake Southern California, Northwestern, and Army is entitled to all the laurels which can be heaped upon it.

Pittsburgh Probable Selection.

According to Coach Rockne, no invitations to compete in post season games will be accepted. The Notre Dame football teacher has asserted the team has played a hard schedule and that the players will hang up their suits for another year. Notre Dame would risk a lot by engaging in such a struggle, and Rockne is perfectly right in declining offers to meet various elevens on the coast.

With Notre Dame out of the running for a post season game in California, indications are that Pittsburgh, the strongest eleven in the east, will be selected to meet a coast team in the Tournament of Roses game in Pasadena, Cal., on Jan. 1. Tulane, champion of the south, and Texas Christian, champion of the southwest conference, are other possibilities.

Carnegie Tech, which will meet Southern California at Los Angeles on Dec. 14, is making preparations for the long trip. Coach Walter P. Steffen, former University of Chicago star, will make the trip with his team.

Dick Hanley, coach at Northwestern, and Andy Kerr, eastern football teacher, will announce the makeup of the eastern team which will meet a western aggregation in a few days. This game will be played in San Francisco on Jan. 1 for the benefit of the Shriners' hospital fund. A number of middle western players who have completed their careers will be chosen, according to Hanley, who is now in the east confering with Kerr.

Three Cushion Billiard Play Will Open at Milwaukee

The first challenge match for the national amateur three cushion championship starts at the Plankinton Arcade in Milwaukee tonight between Perry Dickens and Max Shimon, both of Milwaukee. Dickens was named champion when Charles E. Jordan of Los Angeles, winner of the western section professional tournament, was disqualified by the amateur division of the National Billiard Association of America.

Stagg Principal Speaker at Waukesha Grid Banquet

Waukesha, Wis., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Coach Alonzo A. Stagg of the University of Chicago, will be the principal speaker at the annual gridiron banquet of the interclub council in honor of gridders of Carroll college and Waukesha High school Tuesday night.

Amateur Boxing

Dick Mastro and Joey Klein, local bantamweights, top the card of amateur bouts at the K. of C. gymnasium, 4715 West Madison street, tonight. Dick is a brother of Earl Mastro, well known local featherweight. Seven other fights complete the card.

The Belle Plaine A. C. will continue to promote regular weekly amateur boxing shows in accordance with the new ruling of the Illinois athletic commission. The next show will be held at the clubrooms, 3947 Lincoln avenue, Thursday evening.

claim: "Look at Cannon get through there. Look at him." I would look, but the only thing in my field of vision would be this stanchion with a sign on it reading, "Sec. 22. Aisle 88. No betting allowed."

Once or twice, when the play occurred in the unobscured portions of the field, I did make a point of looking at Mr. Cannon, but on those occasions it seemed to me that this young West Point sophomore, Hillsinger, was bouncing him hither and yon in a very disrespectful manner, so I would look away, not wishing to receive any false or misleading impression of the greatest guards of the season and intending to pick him out again when he might show to more convincing advantage. Returning to him later, I would see both Mr. Cannon and Mr. Hillsinger yawning and scratching themselves with nothing to do while the play transpired in some other quarter, perhaps twenty yards away.

Will Attend Coaching School.

It is my intention to attend one of the coaching schools next summer in the hope of learning the hidden significance of the less conspicuous actions on the football field. Except in the first quarter of the Notre Dame-Army game it was my impression that the Army line, which is just a common ordinary line, embracing several other sophomores and a junior by the name of Humber who has a mashed nose and looks like Chuck Wiggins, the pugilist, either held their own against Notre Dame or outplayed them somewhat.

Maybe Statistician Was There.

The man who got up the statistics on this game might consider attending this school, too, for he seems to have been misled himself, reporting that Notre Dame gained only 107 yards by rushing, excluding Jack Elder's 97 yard run for the touchdown after intercepting Cagle's pass, as against 153 yards gained by Cagle and Murrell, the only men who carried the ball for the Army all afternoon.

These statistics were as wrong as I was, and the only excuse that I can think of for the statistician was that he may have been sitting behind the same stanchion with his spyglass analyzing that sign, "Sec. 22. Aisle 88. No Betting Allowed."

About a year ago the young men of the West Point cadet corps became conscious that, although they are based on a suburb of New York City, they actually were strangers here and without a public in the city. The cadets are an independent and somewhat cocky aggregation, and once when I wrote that their motto might well be expressed as "Ourselves against the whole damn world," several of the boys and their officers said this just about summed it up.

Pining for Public Affection.

But in the privacy of their own cloisters at West Point the boys have been pining for public affection, and last year, after the Army-Notre Dame game, there appeared in their school paper, the Pointer, a wistful editorial, wondering why the New York public was Notre Dame's public, somewhat as follows:

"For years we have hiked from High Bridge to the baseball grounds and listened to the chant of 10 year old children along the way, 'Hey, Army! You're gonna get licked today!' For years we have sat in our places while all around us 80,000 people sat silent and sullen as Army made a touchdown on a sixty yard run. Infinitely outnumbered, the speck of black and gold and gray sits alone.

"West Point is in New York state, more intimately associated with the city of New York than any other city in the world. The home of the cadet corps is properly 'At Large,' but we want and expect some support from our greatest neighbor."

It was my impression that the corps and the New York public established a relationship of mutual love and appreciation this time.

Billy Light, Jackie Fields Battle Tonight

Jackie Fields, world's welterweight champion, and Billy Light of St. Paul will meet in the windup of Promoter James Mullen's boxing show at the White City arena tonight. They will box ten rounds to a decision and the weight will be 150 pounds.

Although Fields' title will not be at stake, Light can win lots of prestige if he wins the decision. Jackie refused to take the fight with his title at stake and asserted Light is one of the toughest fighters in the 147 pound division.

Schuman Meets Gill.

Fields has shown his wares in Chicago on several occasions and is regarded as one of the cleverest boxers in the game. He has a snappy left hand and he knows how to cross his right. He is fast on his feet and Light may have trouble to land scoring punches. Light can punch with his right hand and has a fairly clever left. Both completed training yesterday at local gymnasiums.

Solly Schuman and Irish Mickey Gill, local 120 pounders, will meet in the six round semi-windup. The two five rounders will bring together George Kerwin and Billy Manwoller, 140 pounders, and Roy Peters and Smiling Springer at 125 pounds.

Delmont Fights at Frontón.

The jai alai frontón, Lawrence avenue and Clark street, tonight will give its first professional boxing show with a bill headed by Harry Kahn of Milwaukee and Danny Delmont of Chicago. Kahn and Delmont will box eight rounds at 139 pounds.

The remainder of the card follows:

Jimmy Chase vs. Pete Servelli, 4 rounds, 114 pounds.
Nick Clementi vs. Johnny Gandee, 4 rounds, 114 pounds.
Bobby Thompson vs. Red Griffo, 4 rounds, 160 pounds.

Ultra-Violet Ray Treatment Under The Mercury Quartz Lamp, $1.50

This ULTRA-VIOLET RAY TREATMENT, however, is only a part of our COMPLETE SCIENTIFIC TREATMENT. For cases of "oily hair" it is sometimes used by itself.

For dry, tight scalps, brittle, falling hair, itching or baldness, the ULTRA-VIOLET RAY treatment is followed by vibratory and hand massages to loosen the scalp and increase the circulation; by the gentle application of high frequency current to electrify and tone the muscles and tissues; and whatever is required of ointments, or stimulating and nourishing medicants. These are applied to the scalp (not the hair) and gently warmed into it by rays from the Infra-Red Lamp.

THIS COMPLETE SCIENTIFIC TREATMENT attacks the disorders of the scalp from every angle, and leaves it all aglow with increased circulation, supple, free from dryness and tightness, and with a wonderful feeling of increased vitality. This complete treatment, INCLUDING ULTRA-VIOLET RAY, is $3.00

"The Purity of Certified Milk applied to CREMO"

"Cremo cigars are safe for your mouth . . . they are not tipped in spit,"

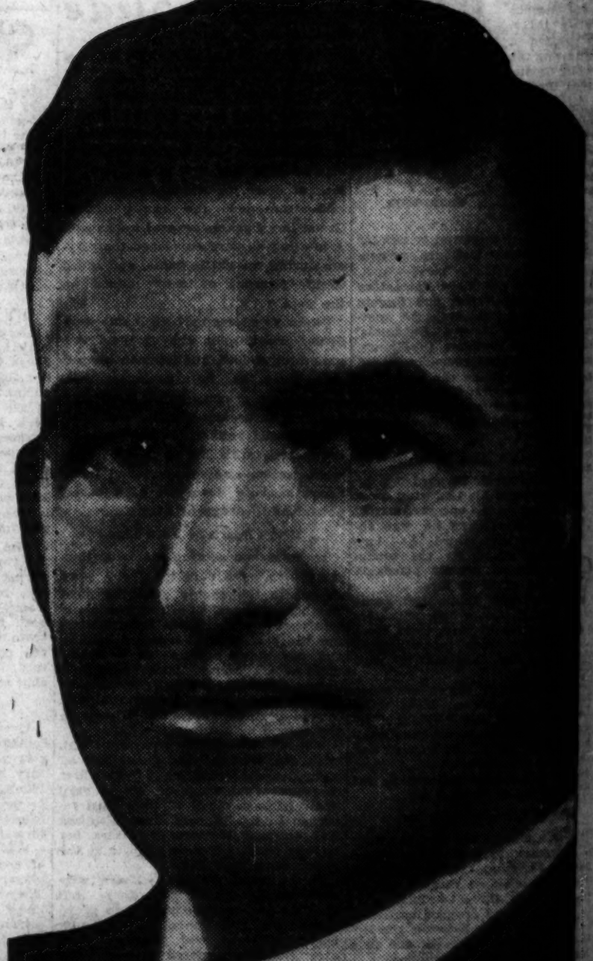
Alfred W. McCann

D. Litt., A.B., LL.D.,

Famous pure food expert, long active in crusades for pure foods and sanitary factories.



"There is double enjoyment in every cigar that you know is absolutely clean and safe. And Cremo is that kind of cigar . . . whose purity I can certify.

"Every tobacco leaf entering the Cremo factory is scientifically treated by U. S. Government approved methods. And every sanitary precaution known to science is taken to safeguard its purity along every step of the way.

"Cremo cigars are folded, wrapped and tipped by amazing inventions without the menace of spit . . . in factories that are models of cleanliness . . . air-flooded, sun-bathed, spotlessly clean!

"This Cremo purity is sealed . . . in separate sanitary foil wrappers. Thus the method of manufacture insures a cigar that aims to give you the same standard of purity as fonnd in certified milk."

Here's a suggestion deliberately made with confidence, which you smokers of imported cigars will appreciate: Try a Certified Cremo. You will recognize the superiority of Certified Cremo which starts with the choicest and tenderest leaves, ripe and mellow, and continues in goodness through a slow, expensive maturing and mellowing process . . . topped off with the finest imported wrapper! For 5 cents you get the delight of a high priced cigar for Certified Cremo contains no scrap—no floor sweepings—all long filler—all fresh, tender leaves. Over $7,000,000 was spent in perfecting the method of manufacture used by Certified Cremo that insures uniformly fine, clean cigars. Foil-wrapped . . . sanitary . . . crush-proof . . . the kind of cigar the late Vice-President Marshall must have had in mind when he said: "What this country needs most is a good 5-cent cigar."

How often have you been disgusted with the filthy, germ-breeding places where some cigars are made . . . dark, stuffy factories . . . warm, dingy shops and windows . . . where cigars are rolled by careless, dirty lips and fingers and spit on the ends! What a far cry this is from the modern method of manufacture used by Certified Cremo.

Certified Cremo

I certify Cremo sanitary and clean. Alfred W. McCann

Becker Tells Way to Trap Horned Owl

BY BOB BECKER.

Although the skunk and the weasel lead the procession of vermin which annually take a heavy toll of our game and song birds, there is one feathered destroyer that rural dwellers must keep in mind when they set traps. This is the great horned owl, widely distributed throughout the United States. The horned owl will tackle anything from a rabbit to a small bird. We have taken specimens in the west which smelled strongly of skunk scent, indicating that they did not stop short of pouncing on one of these animals.

There are great horned owls in Chicagoland, as sportsmen, farmers, and gamekeepers know. Last spring, while crow hunting near Yorkville, several were killed by our party.

Pole Traps Effective.

It is possible to catch these big fellows with traps set on poles. The same set also will snare an occasional hawk trying to pick off a chicken or a game bird. In Illinois the great horned owl, Cooper's hawk, goose hawk, and duck hawk are not protected. The Pennsylvania game commission also lists the marsh and the redshouldered hawks as birds not deserving protection.

To make a pole set for a great horned owl place a steel trap on top of a high post overlooking a poultry yard or on a tall pole, 15 to 25 feet high. On top of the pole nail a board about six inches square to hold the trap. Fasten your trap to this board with a light string so that it will stay put. The chain of the trap should be attached to the pole. Be sure and erect the pole so that it can be taken down easily for resetting the trap.

Trap Must Be Heavy.

By all means set the trap heavy enough so that a small protected bird will not touch it off. A good idea is to fasten a piece of thin copper wire around one end of the trap jaws near the hinge to insure the trap springing if an owl or hawk step on it, yet at the same time to keep it from clamping down on a small bird.

Annual P. G. A. Play Opens Today; Diegel Is Favored

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Over the well trapped fairways of the Hillcrest course tomorrow will troop the greatest figures of the professional ranks in the opening skirmish of a six day battle that will decide the 1929 championship of the Professional Golfers' association.

Led by Walter Hagen, the field that will seek both gold and glory in a golfing way is the most brilliant ever assembled in southern California for tournament play. Hagen, five times wearer of the crown he will start after again tomorrow, and present British open title holder, is the big gun of the pro golfing clan. He is expected to be the sternest challenge to the hopes of Leo Diegel of Agua Caliente, defending champion.

Horton Smith a Contender.

Closely trailing these two outstanding favorites are such contenders as Gene Sarazen, Horton Smith, Tommy Armour, Johnny Farrell, Abe Espinosa, William Mehlhorn, Harry Cooper—names that are bywords in the annals of the royal and ancient pastime.

Sarazen captured the national open and P. G. A. titles in 1929 and successfully defended his P. G. A. laurels a year later. Smith, the Joplin, Mo., youth who stood the golfing world on its figurative ear last winter, showed that he must be reckoned with by winning the $5,000 Berkeley open Saturday with 280 strokes for the 72 hole event.

Armour and Farrell, former national open champions, have been off their games for some time but either could put on a comeback without occasioning great surprise.

Purse Far West's Biggest.

Diegel, a slight pre-tourney favorite over the field, won the title last year after eliminating Hagen in the third round. Although not rated on a golfing par with Hagen, he is far more familiar with the Hillcrest course.

The financial incentive is $16,400 in prizes, the largest purse ever played for in the far west. A 36 hole qualifying round tomorrow will bring out 97 sectional qualifiers.

GAME BETWEEN BIG 10-SOUTHWEST STARS PLANNED

Dallas, Tex., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Preliminary negotiations for a benefit football game between stars of the Big Ten and Southwest conferences, to be played here New Year's day, have been completed, Joe Utay, in charge of the game for the shrine, announced here today following a conference with Jimmy Phelan, coach of the undefeated Purdue team.

The game, known as the Dixie classic, was played for the first time last year when stars of the Big Six conference defeated the Southwest aggregation. Receipts are turned over to the Texas Scottish Rite hospital for crippled children.

Application will be made to the Big Ten conference for permission for its stars to appear in the game.

SONNENBERG AND MALCEWICZ TO WRESTLE TONIGHT

Gus Sonnenberg, former Dartmouth football player, will defend his world's heavyweight wrestling title against Joe Malcewicz of Utica, N. Y. in the windup of Promoter Joe Coffey's mat show at the Coliseum tonight. They will wrestle to a finish, best two in three falls. It will be Sonnenberg's first appearance in Chicago in six months. It was only recently that the boxing commission lifted a four months' suspension on the champion.

Midget Fisher and Ralph Parcaut, well known middleweights, will swap holds in the one fall semi-windup. Johny Meyers, former middleweight champion, will meet George Kogut in one of the preliminaries and John Spellman and Joe De Vito, heavyweights, will grapple in the opener.

FLORIDA-OREGON CONTEST TO TOP SOUTHERN FINALS

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Next Saturday will mark the end of one of the most bitterly contested football campaigns the south has ever known. Most of the teams are through, but three conference, two Southern Intercollegiate Athletic association, and one intersectional game remain to be played.

None of the S. I. C. or S. I. A. A. games has any bearing on the title races, which apparently ended when Tulane routed Louisiana State in the S. I. C., and Chattanooga defeated Oglethorpe in the S. I. A. A.

Oregon Battles Florida.

Topping the week's program in the south is the Miami intersectional duel which brings the University of Oregon eleven across the country to battle Florida.

Inside the conference, Georgia and Georgia Tech wind up their respective seasons with their annual meeting at Athens. South Carolina journeys to Knoxville, Tenn., to engage Tennessee in another final, and North Carolina and Duke, old rivals, will fight it out for the state championship in the new Duke stadium at Durham.

In the S. I. A. A., Ogiethorpe and Presbyterian college play Friday at Atlanta. On Saturday Southwestern Louisiana tries conclusions with Louisiana at Ruston, La.

Maryland Teams Clash.

Maryland will ring down the curtain by tackling Western Maryland in the Baltimore stadium. Centenary and Loyola of New Orleans are booked in the Crescent City and Richmond fans will see William and Mary and Hampden-Sidney in action.

Only a handful of teams braved the cold weather Saturday. South Carolina trounced North Carolina State, 20-6, in the only conference game.

MICHIGAN OPENS ARMS TO HEROES OF GRIM ARCTIC

Bodies of 56 Who Died in Russia Are Home.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 1.—[U. P.]—Fifty-six men of Michigan who died in the wastes of the Russian arctic during the Archangel expedition of the world war came back today to Michigan. A special train bearing caskets encased in pine boxes and draped with the Stars and Stripes rolled into Union station from New York this afternoon.

It was fitting that the "Polar Bears" returned amid driving snow and a bitter wind that swept down from the north and wailed among the sky-scrapers.

Many of them died from the bitter cold on the snow wastes of Russia. The bodies were placed in hearses and carried to the city hall, escorted by their comrades of the expedition who had escaped the bullets and the cold.

Planes Wheel Overhead.

Before the hearses marched column after column of infantry, slowly to the beat of muffled drums amid the strains of a funeral march. Overhead six army biplanes wheeled and dived in squadron formation, almost hidden in the falling snow. Above the roll of drums and the sound of the marching troops rang the chimes of a requiem from the bell tower of a nearby church.

At the city hall, amid whirling flurries of snow, a prayer was offered. Gov. Fred W. Green officially accepted the bodies for the state of Michigan, a salute crashed from a line of rifles and taps rang out over the frozen streets.

Bodies Lie in State.

The cortège then proceeded to Whitechapel Memorial Park cemetery, where the 56 flag draped caskets will lie in state under military guard for seven days. They will then be placed in a cemetery vault until next Memorial day, when their comrades will bury them in a special plot of ground just outside the city.

With the Michigan men will sleep one soldier who is believed to be Private Max Kurowski of Cedar Rapids, Ia. His mother, Mrs. Veronica Kurowski, feels she could never be sure the body was that of her son and she would not wish, she says, to cause the separation of some unknown soldier from his comrades.

The Polar Bears were a division of American troops, mostly from Michigan, sent to help a handful of English hold for the allies the northern tip of Russia.

SALUTE FIRED AS SOLDIERS' BODIES REACH HOME

Bodies of two Chicago soldiers, taken from lonely graves in Russia, were returned to their families yesterday. The bodies were those of men killed in the Siberian campaign during the world war and recently resurrected after a ten year interval. The veterans were John T. Hanley, 6610 South Marshfield avenue, and Sylvester Paprzycki, 3214 Wall street.

Members of the Chicago Polar Bear association, composed of veterans of the 339th infantry, which served in Russia, were at the Union station when the caskets, draped in American flags, were taken off the train. A salute was fired over the caskets and taps blown. Services for Paprzycki will be held Tuesday night in the home of his mother at the above address and Hanley's body was buried in Mount Olivet cemetery after services at his former home.

Four other caskets, containing the bodies of victims of the Russian campaign, were also received here. They are to be sent to various points in the middle west.

SATURDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Heigh-Ho!

Elmer Gives High Praise to Symphony

Declares Concert Best of Day's Offerings.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

The Chicago Symphony orchestra concert, Frederick Stock conducting, through W-G-N and eight other midwest stations, 2 to 3 o'clock, was perhaps both the most artistic and the most enjoyable of the programs on the air yesterday. Tschaikowsky's popular "Nut Cracker" suite was the major work performed. With all its familiarity, this spirited suite holds one's attention at every rehearing, and especially when the Chicago Symphony orchestra players spread their skill upon it.

Mendelssohn's colorful "Fingal's Cave" overture and the comical Scherzo from Dubas' "L'Apprenti Sourcier" were two other numbers that helped to make up this fine concert.

Sir Harry Lauder was the guest entertainer on a nation wide hookup through KYW, the 7 o'clock program. Even in radio he seems to be chief among musical entertainers. With his wonderful natural voice and a magnetic personality, he can sing anything in his repertoire, whether plaintive, sad or gay or whimsical, and it's a masterpiece. At that it is doubtful if he does anything better than the "Roamin' in the Gloamin'."

Mme. Maria Kurenko, Russian soprano, and Everett Marshall, Metropolitan opera baritone, gave a joint program from New York through W-G-N, 8:15 to 9:15. Mr. Marshall was magnificent in the Prologue to "Pagliacci," but his heavy voice made his group of songs sound too ponderous.

I would consider that the New York program through KYW, 6:30 to 7, was of great interest to a limited audience. One of the soloists was Louis Persinger, violinist and one of the teachers of Yehudi Menuhin, the thirteen year old violinist.

NEIL MURLEY, DEMOCRAT WARD LEADER, IS DEAD

Neil Murley, Democratic ward committeeman for the Fortieth ward and a member of that party's county central committee since 1908, died yesterday at his residence, 3123 Eddy street, after a lingering illness of more than a year. He was born in Ishpeming, Mich., on July 12, 1872, and came to Chicago 35 years ago, beginning life here as a street car conductor. He has been an assistant forester for the forest preserve district since 1918. He is survived by a brother, Patrick J. Murley, and two sisters, Miss Julia Murley and Mrs. Mary C. Dillon, with the latter of whom he made his home. The funeral will be at 9:30 Wednesday morning from the residence to St. Veronica's Roman Catholic church and thence to Mount Carmel cemetery.

James H. Conroyd Rites to Be Held Tomorrow

The funeral of James H. Conroyd, 46 years old, an inspector of the interstate commerce commission, who died on Friday at Nashville, will take place tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Conroyd, 4844 North Ridgeway avenue. Services will be held at Our Lady of Mercy church. Mr. Conroyd was formerly a cashier for the Chicago and Alton railroad in Chicago but for the last 12 years had been traveling for the commerce commission in the east and south. Besides his parents he is survived by his widow, Ella, and three children, Mildred, James, and Kathleen; two sisters, Lenore Spalding and Marguerite Radcliffe, and five brothers, Leon, William, Earle, Charles, and Ralph Conroyd.

EDWIN M. GROSS, PASTOR, SUICIDE AT GRAND RAPIDS

Had Been in Ill Health; Known in Illinois.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—The Rev. Edwin M. Gross, 46, pastor of Immanuel Lutheran church here, was found dead in his home here this forenoon with a bullet wound in his head. Coroner Harmon C. Wolfe returned a verdict of suicide, saying Mr. Gross had been seriously ill for three weeks following a nervous breakdown eighteen months ago, and was not in his right mind at the time of his death.

Mr. Gross, the son of the Rev. Carl O. Gross, a Lutheran minister, was born in Buffalo, N. Y., April 3, 1883. He was graduated from Concordia college in Fort Wayne, Ind., in 1905, and later in the year was ordained in that city. He took post graduate work at Harvard and Tulane universities, preaching in the Negro missions of the south while attending the latter college.

He was pastor of Pleasant Plains, Ill., Lutheran church for three years, and later taught at Concordia Lutheran seminary and Springfield High school at Springfield, Ill. Mr. Gross succeeded the Rev. B. F. Poch as pastor of Immanuel Lutheran church in 1924, after teaching in the church's school here three years, and had served as head of the church since that time.

Mrs. Gross, a daughter, Edith Frances, and a son, Roland A., of Grand Rapids; two brothers, Martin of Fort Wayne and Charles of Springfield, Ill., and a sister, Miss Augusta Gross of Fort Wayne, survive.

J. M. Thomssen, Methodist Book Printer, Dies at 76

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—J. M. Thomssen, 76, for the past 55 years superintendent of the Methodist Book Concern, and a past president of the Ben Franklin Printing guild, died in a hospital here today following a brief illness. At the age of 74 he enrolled at the University of Cincinnati to complete his education.

LUCKING, ATTORNEY FOR HENRY FORD, IS DEAD OF APOPLEXY

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Alfred Lucking, 73, one of Detroit's leading attorneys and for years chief counsel for Henry Ford, died suddenly at his home today of a stroke of apoplexy suffered in his sleep.

Some of the lawsuits Mr. Lucking handled for Ford were THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE $1,000,000 libel suit in 1919; the Ford Motor company against the injunction sought by John and Horace Dodge to compel the declaring of a dividend to Ford stockholders, and to prevent the building of the present River Rouge plant, and the Truman H. Newberry hearing before the United States senate.

BOY IS CHARGED WITH MURDER OF BRIDEGROOM

Grants Pass, Ore., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Anthony Vargo, 17 years old, of Grants Pass, is in the county jail facing a murder charge for the slaying of Robert Ingalls, 21 year old bridegroom, at a wedding celebration Saturday night, and relatives are guarding the bride to keep her from ending her life because of grief.

Sheriff E. H. Lister says Ingalls was shot down before his bride and guests as he walked toward the door to greet Vargo. He died in the arms of his wife, while Vargo is said to have backed from the room with a revolver in his hand. He later surrendered to the sheriff.

Vargo allegedly had been drinking liquor at the party and become abusive. When Ingalls asked him to leave he went but returned and shot Ingalls, according to the sheriff.

Seeks to Divorce Wife for Wishing Him Dead

Hannibal, Mo., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Elford Thomas has filed suit for divorce on the grounds that his wife frequently has expressed the wish that he die or get killed so that she might collect his life insurance. They lived together 25 years and have been separated four.

How a raid on the ice box put Father wise to the goodness of "Selected"

"I didn't know what a treat I was missing until I came home late one night and helped myself to an ice box lunch. Oh boy! was that 'Selected' milk good?

"But so was the scolding I got in the morning. It was worth it though, for the milkman now leaves an extra quart and 'Dad' gets his 'Selected' with every meal."

Three cents per quart more is so little compared with the "Sweet Natural Taste" of this special drinking milk, produced on specially picked farms (105 of them) with modern barns, healthy herds and up-to-date cooling facilities. Every step from cow to kitchen is surrounded with special precautions. Special bottling plant; special hooded cap used in addition to the regular cap; special passenger-train delivery to Chicago.

Arrange to try "Selected." Loving, thoughtful parents willingly pay the few cents more to give their children milk they drink with far greater enjoyment... because results are so gratifying. Greater mental and physical development follow a regular milk diet of at least a quart a day as naturally as day follows night.

BALTIC STATES IMPORT GRAIN FROM AMERICA

Doubt Russia Will Regain Position.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Dec. 1. — Situated on the western frontier of Russia within a few miles of the soviet Ukraine, one of the world's greatest grain regions, Latvia and the other Baltic states have become steady purchasers of American grain. The optimism of Dictator Joseph Stallin, who just informed the Russian proletariat that within three years Russia would again become one of the great grain producing counties, is not shared by the Baltic grain merchants, who closely follow the productivity of the soviet villages. They believe that the Baltic will continue to import grain for many years to come.

This year Esthonia, Latvia and Lithuania celebrated their tenth year of independence. Formerly these countries, together with the other provinces of northern Russia, were known as grain importing districts. The small quantities of rye sown were not large enough to feed the population, and the staples crops in these regions were potatoes, flax, and cabbage. Dairy farming was just beginning, and some poultry was exported.

Russia's Business Suffers.

Russia, in prerevolution days, not only grew enough grain to satisfy her own requirements but had a large surplus for export to Europe. Every year saw hundreds of cargoes of grain shipped from Black sea ports and also from Libau and Windau on the Baltic. In Konenigsberg and Danzig are large mills which formerly converted this grain into the various grades of flour demanded by European communities, and the East Prussians, by mixing their inferior grade with the better quality wheat and rye from the fabulously rich black soil district of the Ukraine, made large profits. This business is now dead. The elevators on the Baltic which used to store Russian grain are now utilized by importers of American grain. All of northern Europe, including Germany, is eating American bread.

Of the three new Baltic states, Latvia is the largest importer of American grain. During the last three years Latvian imports have been as follows:

	1926.	1927.	1928.
Wheat, in tons	42,530	46,053	11,814
Oats, in tons	6,015	12,923	6,380
Barley, in tons	3,105	3,214	10,639

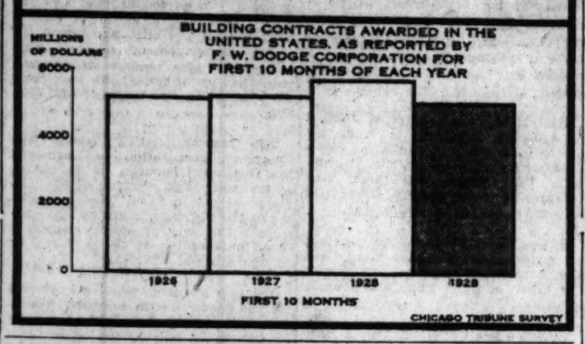
The decrease in imports last year is the result of a crop failure and the impoverishment of the peasantry, who were unable to buy bread and who had to subsist largely on potatoes during the winter. The population of the eastern part of Latvia lived under famine conditions and the situation in Esthonia and Lithuania was even worse.

Harvest Is Good.

Although the harvest has been exceptionally good this year grain imports may even be increased, for Latvia is rapidly becoming a dairying country and the peasants, who sowed large areas in wheat and rye during the first five years of the country's independence, are now increasing their live stock and growing more fodder. The ministers of agriculture of all three Baltic states are teaching the peasants that they can get more money out of an acre of land with a few cows grazing on it than they can by raising grain. Agricultural experts therefore expect that grain imports will increase in the future.

Whether or not America will continue to supply northern Europe with grain depends to a large extent upon Poland, which is now seeking to capture this market by paying her farmers a premium on all grain and flour exported. According to a report of the Union of Polish Agricultural Organizations the government will begin to pay premiums on Nov. 16 and they estimate that Poland will export 250,000 tons this year. The premiums average between 45c and 60c for each 200 pounds of grain and $1.20 for 200 pounds of flour.

BUILDING CONTRACTS IN THE FIRST 10 MONTHS WERE THE LOWEST IN FOUR YEARS



BUYING ON PART OF PUBLIC SHOULD HOLD STEADY, EVERITT SAYS

No marked recession in buying on the part of the consuming public is expected by George B. Everitt, president of Montgomery Ward & Co., the big mail order and chain store concern. He revealed that business last month was the largest for any November in the company's history and marked the nineteenth consecutive month to show an increase in volume.

"I believe the people of this country are intelligent enough to know that when they keep on buying it means that manufacturing can keep on producing and that a good employment situation naturally ensues," Mr. Everitt said. "We expect December also will prove a good business month, due largely to Christmas buying and for which we have made quite elaborate preparation in all of our stores.

"We expect to continue opening additional stores in our retail chain, as we feel that retail business will continue to be satisfactory. So far as our mail order business is concerned, we are reasonably optimistic to the outlook because our recent surveys indicate an extremely favorable agricultural conditions, which, of course, reflects itself in the farmer's buying power."

Sales last month totaled $29,851,363, an increase of $4,395,197, or 17.27 per cent, over November, 1926. Sales for the eleven months this year totaled $255,731,305, an increase of $55,325,287, or 27.61 per cent, over the corresponding period last year.

N. A. AMERICAN TO USE 100 MILLIONS ON CONSTRUCTION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 1. Estimates of next year's construction budgets for the North American system aggregate upwards of $100,000,000 for work authorized including new projects and amounts carried over from this year in connection with large construction programs spanning 2 or 3 calendar years, Frank L. Dame, president, announced today.

The progams of the subsidiaries are providing for 14 per cent more expenditures in 1930 for additions to plants and systems than during 1929, Mr. Dame said. Of the total, it is estimated that about $57,000,000 will be used during 1930, compared with $50,000,000 in 1929. The figures do not include expenditures for maintenance, which will approximate $11,000,000 for 1930.

"These estimates provide for largely increased activitities in the various groups of properties, especially in the construction of additions to distribution systems, supplementing the several major programs of new plant construction and additions actually completed during 1929," Mr. Dame stated.

Value of 50 Active Chicago Stocks Drops in Last Week

The fifty most active stocks traded in on the Chicago Stock exchange during the week ended Nov. 27 had a market value of $2,255,131,685 at the close of business Wednesday, as compared with $2,349,300,797 at the close of the previous week, according to a compilation by Lage & Co., members of the New York and Chicago stock exchanges. This represents a decrease of $94,169,112, or 4.17 per cent.

Sees Little Prospect for Advance in Crude Rubber

CHICAGO EDGES FOR POSITION AS NATION'S MART

N. Y. Retains Lead in Some Lines.

BY HOWARD CARSWELB.

As a central market Chicago is assuming world leadership in the distribution of dry goods and general merchandise, yet New York City remains the Mecca for several thousand buyers every year of women's dresses and specialized lines of ladies' ready to wear goods where style and fashion is the dominant factor.

Chicago wholesale houses explain the New York preference, especially shown by women buyers, as being due primarily to the east's past prestige as a fashion center and the generally popular "illusion" that somehow dresses and ladies' garments purchased there are more in vogue.

May Effect Savings.

Merchants of the central west spend considerable sums in their seasonal excursions to New York, although their buyers can usually obtain the same quality and style in the Chicago market at an appreciable saving in expenses and time.

In discussing the New York preference in this line of their business, one Chicago promotion manager, however, confidentially asserted that "the real truth of the matter is that buyers, mostly the women, like their glamorous trips to New York and its good times. Broadway is the real attraction.

"Where the western and middle western store owner does the buying he saves expenses by shopping in our Chicago market. The buyers from the larger city stores insist on dresses bought in New York on the presumption that they are more stylish. Any New York house of consequence maintains a Chicago display office. Chicago firms even manufacture women's goods and ship them to New York to be sold there for middle west consumption."

Another one concurred with the statement that these "buyers don't spend their own money, but their firm's, and enjoy the seasonal trips to New York." He admitted, however, New York's greater volume in the manufacture of women's wear and its plentiful supply of cheap and experienced labor.

Cites Expenses.

In railroad fare, current visiting expenses and lost salary time for a five day trip a western buyer will spend about $175 for a round trip and probably more than $200 after he leaves Chicago. The average one makes four seasonal trips to New York. Considering the additional freight charges by shipping the purchases west from New York rather than from Chicago, at least $1,000 and usually much more than that amount is expended by numerous western stores each year for the purchasing of coats, dresses and kindred lines. A great part of this figure might be saved by shopping in the closer and more compact Chicago market.

Figuring a nominal retail net profit, considerable goods must be sold before the expense of the buyer's New York trips is even absorbed, it is asserted.

BOND MARKET SWINGS INTO DECEMBER WITH PRICES POINTING UP

New York, Dec. 1.—(AP)—The bond market moves into the last month of the year with prices on an upward swing. Observers are predicting that only unforeseen contingencies can prevent this tendency from gaining momentum and that strong market will develop in 1930.

Several factors are expected to assist in the improvement which got under way early in October. The usual reinvestment demand appearing at the first of the year, it is anticipated, will take substantially more bonds than in early 1928, when much of the capital liberated by interest and dividend payments and by shifting of investment programs was placed in stocks.

Insurance companies have been substantial buyers of shares, but an extensive inquiry for bonds from these large investors is looked for. In addition, with money rates below the yields still available in fixed income securities of good grade, corporations as well as banks would naturally look to bonds, especially those of short maturities.

Trading was rather dull last week, with only three trading sessions, but the entire list manifested distinct firmness. Liquidation was noted here and there as holders took losses for purposes of the income tax return. However, this selling was small and brought only minor declines.

W. T. Grant Places New Stock on $1 Yearly Basis

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 1.—The new stock of the W. T. Grant company has been placed on a $1 annual basis, which more than doubles the dividends paid on the old stock, C. E. Freeman, president, announced here tonight. A quarterly disbursement of twenty-five cents a share has been declared, payable Jan. 1 to stockholders of record Dec. 12.

Claim American Inventors Are Hampered by Delays

BY SCRUTATOR.

That American inventive genius is subject to disadvantages that are disproportionate to its deserts, through delays in issuance of patents and unfavorable rulings on income derived from them, is the claim made by two Chicagoans who have written this column.

Recently the patent office reported that with its present force it will not be able to clear up its accumulations and get its work current for six years. The term "current" would mean a condition in which an application for a patent on a mechanical device would be passed on within a few months.

H. M. Friendly, 824 Eastwood avenue, states that the tribunals of the patent office, which decide issues between inventors, are in many cases as far behind with their work as the examiners. He adds that in certain cases in which evidence was handed in on Nov. 21, as scheduled, he was told that the briefs would not be considered, in the regular order of business, for four months. When hearings are postponed, the custom is to make the delay a whole year.

Loses Through Piracy.

As it is now, some patent applications are waiting after nine months, it is said. As amendments to the original application also have to await their turn, it is sometimes a matter of years before the patent is finally issued. This has resulted, according to several attorneys who specialize in patents, in great loss to inventors through piracy. A man may be the first to apply for protection on a device that has obvious worth commercially. Should some unscrupulous person wish to take advantage of the slowness of the patent office and start manufacture he might skim the cream of a national demand before the first inventor received his patent and was able to proceed against him in the courts.

All observers agree that the delays are not the fault of the office itself, but of congress. Because of a shortage of personnel, the 90,000 or more applications each year cannot be handled expeditiously. As the patent office's fees make it self-supporting and even return a surplus, there would seem to be little reason to withhold more help.

Claims Discrimination.

M. C. Nixon, 6200 Kenwood avenue, patent attorney and inventor on his own account, protests that the income tax regulations are discriminatory against inventors, and particularly against the independant as compared with the corporate inventor.

Although many patented devices are the result of years of work by the originators, the income tax regulations do not permit amounts received from the sale of the patents to be listed as earned income. Instead, the sale price has the same status as a speculative profit made in the security markets.

Also, as the law stands, an inventor who accepts pay for his device in the stock of a corporation must pay income taxes that treat the stock as direct income. Because of the difficulty of arriving at the value of such stocks before earning power is demonstrated, and the reluctance of inventors to pay taxes on their prospects, Mr. Nixon asserts that inventions are sometimes kept out of production.

Need Relief for Inventors.

The regulations also provide that a patent applied for cannot be considered a capital asset; that the owner must wait until he has his patent granted before he can start considering the ownership a capital asset and take advantage of the capital increase provision in the law, an important matter when the returns are large. Neither this type of case nor the one above have much effect with corporations which take out patents, as they set no price on them and take no income until they are in manufacture.

WALL ST. NEWS NOW FAILS TO MAKE PAGE 1

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 1.—Several incidents have borne witness to the passing of the acute stage in Wall street's forced readjustment. Wall street itself would probably cite, as the safest indications, last week's reasonable stability of stock market prices and the shrinkage in volume of business done on the stock exchange to barely one-third of the recent average and to the smallest daily transactions in November since 1927.

But perhaps the return to something like equilibrium is even more surely indicated, first by the disappearance of a stock market "scare-head" on the front page of newspapers, next by the stock exchange's own abandonment of "special holidays."

These incidents do not precisely mean return to what Wall street describes as "normal market"; much less do they mean that "resumption of a bull movement" of which one hears prediction from some types of observers whenever prices advance 10 or 15 points in a temporary upward reaction. No doubt we shall at some not very distant date be favored with a rise of considerable vigor when the uncovered "bear account" sees fit to buy back its stocks.

A movement of just that sort has,

Legal investments for savings banks and trust funds in New York State

Tulsa, the county seat of Tulsa County, is one of the two largest cities in the State of Oklahoma. It is in a rich, agricultural country and is the center of the great oil industry in this part of the Mid-Continent field. Other raw materials in the vicinity are natural gas, asphalt, lead, zinc, marble, granite, glass sand, clay, iron, cement rock and coal. Tulsa is also an important commercial, financial and manufacturing center, its principal manufacturers being cement blocks, cottonseed oil, furniture, glass, oil well supplies, boilers and tanks, bricks, nitroglycerine and clothing. Excellent transportation facilities are provided by the St. Louis and San Francisco, the Missouri, Kansas and Texas, the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe and the Midland Valley railroads.

The assessed valuation of Tulsa is $136,936,678, the net bonded debt is $5,862,831 and the estimated population is 180,000.

These bonds are, in the opinion of counsel, direct general obligations of the entire City payable from unlimited ad valorem taxes levied against all taxable property therein.

WORLD'S WHEAT MARKETS HAVE BULLISH TONE

December Liquidation Over, Is Belief.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

This is delivery day on December contracts and liberal tenders of wheat are to be made by elevator interests and carriers which will be well taken, as there are better profits in carrying the grain than are usually attainable.

Money is the cheapest in a year or more, around 5 per cent based on bank acceptances which are used by all large borrowers, and there is every inducement for a carrier to buy December and sell March and May. It is believed that the December liquidation is well over, and is not likely to be a factor in the market until possibly the end of the month.

A bullish situation is steadily developing in the world's wheat markets, and while prices may not advance rapidly for some time, the belief is becoming more general that the trend of values for all grains is upward. There are many, however, who think it is too early to bull wheat, but with the rapidly changing world's condition of a constructive character, holders of grains appear to have the best of it.

Prices have advanced almost 19c for December, and 15¼c on May from the recent low point three weeks ago, with net gains of 4⅜@4½c for the week.

At the close on Saturday December was $1.28⅜@1.28¾; March, $1.36@1.36¾; May, $1.39⅝@1.40; July, $1.40⅛@1.40⅝.

Argentine News Bullish.

Bullish crop news from Argentina makes prospects there poorer with estimates of the exportable surplus ranging from around 85,000,000 to 125,000,000 bu, with some cutting the inside figure down. 20,000,000 bu and others raising the outside figure to 140,000,000 bu at the extreme. Traders are frequently confused in regard to Argentina's surplus and production, using the low figures as representing the yield instead of the surplus. All reports, however, suggest that Argentina will do well to have half a crop as compared with last year. Latest reports from an Argentine house say that the crop is going back daily. Thrashing returns have been disappointing, with the grain badly shriveled due to black rust, stripe rust, drought, and frost, all taking toll on the prospective yield. It would be no surprise to see final returns give Argentina and Australia about 200,000,000 bu less exportable surplus than last year. These reports are stirring up foreign buyers who are said to be realizing that they have missed their opportunity of getting cheap wheat on the recent break, and they are coming into North American markets to an increasing extent, with export purchases the last week said to be largest of the season. Those who are bearish, however, are not inclined to accept these statements and await confirmation in export clearances.

Look to North America.

At all events, the deficit in production in the southern hemisphere wheat crop will have to be made up by purchases in North America so that the constructive side of the market on breaks is considered safest. Added to crop losses in the southern hemisphere there is uncertainty as to the safety of our own winter wheat crop owing to freezing weather over a large area of the middle west and southwest, and to draught and lack of subsoil and germination on the north Pacific coast.

Another factor that stands out is the turning point in the visible supply after an increase of practically five months; also a decrease of 318,000,000 bu in seasonal receipts at American and Canadian markets since the crop started to move. Prices for the week follow:

Mixed Sentiment in Corn.

Breaks in corn prices are winning the market a few friends and the impression prevails that there will be no pronounced decline should wheat values hold strong and advance. Good weather and higher prices, it is said, will bring out larger offerings from the country, and a liberal movement is to be expected. At Chicago recent heavy shipments of wheat have provided more storage room available for corn, but heavy receipts cannot be readily taken care of for any length of time.

Discounts on low grades of corn have widened as compared with December.

A little uneasiness exists amongst December shorts, but with hedging sales against cash purchases, the open interest which was 12,750,000 bu at the close, is being steadily reduced.

December closed Saturday at 88⅝@88⅜c, March 94½c, May 96⅛@96⅜c, and July 98½c. As compared with a week ago prices were ⅛c lower to 1½c higher. Prices follow:

December Oats Well Taken.

Cash interests are absorbing December oats on breaks, and selling May at 4¼@4½c premium. Liquidation is believed to be about over and the market is showing a better tone.

While trade is not heavy, the open in oats at the close of the week of 42,816,000 bu, compared with 34,224,000 bu in corn. This shows that speculators are carrying a good line of hedges in addition to the ordinary short interest. Movement from the country has increased and is well taken.

As compared with a week ago prices are ¼c lower to ⅛@⅞c higher, December being the weakest. December closed at 46⅜@46⅝c, March 50¼c, May, 51⅛@51c. Prices follow:

Rye Deliveries to Be Large.

Expectations are that practically all the stock of rye in store here will be delivered on December contracts during the next few days. There was around 750,000 bu sold during the week to go to store which is to be delivered. All is expected to go to the leading bull interests who are said to be willing to take it in. They are buying December and March on breaks and accommodating shorts by selling them all they need on bulges. The great mystery is "Who has the rye?" Whoever they are, traders say, seem to understand how to handle the market.

Prices are 3⅝@5⅜c higher than a week ago, with the close on December $1.05⅝, March, $1.06⅞, and May, $1.08½.

LARD STOCKS TO INCREASE

Estimates of provision traders are that lard stocks will decrease around 15,000,000 lbs, as indicated by the monthly stock report today. Deliveries of 2,000,000 lbs of cash lard on December contracts are looked for. It is said that they will go to the leading packing interests, who have been large buyers of December for several weeks. They are understood to have made heavy sales of lard abroad and have a place for all the cash product they can get.

Lard prices are considered reasonable, being ⅞@1c lb lower than a year ago, but they are not bringing in new speculative buying to any extent, and those who took hold a month or two ago are gradually liquidating. As compared with a week ago, December lard is 2½c higher, January 7½c lower, and May unchanged.

Speculative trading in bellies remains light yet January closed 22½c higher and May up 17½c, compared with a week ago. Prices follow:

Bendix Aviation.

O. E.: Bendix Aviation corporation profits were $3.26 per share for the first nine months of 1929, compared with $2.57 per share for the first six months. Net profit, after charges and taxes, for the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1929, amounted to $6,893,000. There were outstanding 2,115,000 no par shares.

Net profit for the six months ended June 30, 1929, was $5,165,976. As of June 30, 1929, profit and loss surplus amounted to $9,672,394.

The business of the corporation is carried on almost entirely through its subsidiaries and consists of the manufacture and sale of an extensive line of motor vehicle, tractor, aircraft, and marine craft parts and accessories. The company issued its own capital stock to acquire the capital stock or the assets of several corporations already operating in the accessory field.

The president of the corporation recently announced the acquisition of various patent rights abroad and reported the closing of several new contracts in Europe which have laid the foundation for new foreign business.

Booth Fisheries.

Miss M. D.: Booth Fisheries company first mortgage and collateral trust 6½ per cent sinking fund bonds, due April 1, 1936, are secured by a first closed mortgage subject only to $648,500 of underlying bonds on properties of subsidiary companies.

The mortgage also provides that no dividends shall be paid which will reduce net current assets of the company and subsidiaries below $3,000,000. No dividends have been reported on the first preferred stock since Oct. 1, 1920, and none on the common since April 1, 1919. As of April 27, 1929, net current assets were $3,125,599.

Net earnings for the fiscal year ended April 27, 1929, were $1,129,957 and interest on funded indebtedness amounted to $603,353. Net earnings were 1.19 times interest charges in the year ended April 30, 1928, and 1.56 times interest charges in the preceding year.

These bonds are somewhat speculative.

Radio.

A. V. B.—Radio Corporation of America reported gross income of $63,272,925 for the September quarter of 1929. This compares with $23,643,332 in the corresponding quarter of 1928, before control of Victor Talking Machine was acquired. Net profit was $3,729,389, against $5,221,145 in the September, 1928, quarter.

For the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1929, net profit was $13,725,876, equivalent to $1.47 per share on 6,580,400 no par common shares outstanding. Net profit in the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1928, was $9,745,924, or $7.54 per share on the 1,155,400 common shares then outstanding. A five for one common stock splitup was effective early in 1929.

Dividends are being paid on the preferred A and B shares, but none has been paid on the common.

Class A preferred is high grade.

The common is speculative at present.

I. C. C. PUSHES WORK ON RAIL CONSOLIDATION

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Work on the national railroad consolidation plan is being pushed by the interstate commerce commission but differences still exist among the members and no definite division of the various roads into major trunk lines has yet been adopted.

It is said that the commissioners themselves do not yet know whether the plan as finally drafted will consist of four, five, or six trunk lines in the east, or how many will be proposed for the entire country.

Chairman Lewis informed the senate several months ago that the commission was going steadily ahead under its mandate to publish a consolidation program to be followed in its general form by the railroads in their unifications. He hoped at that time to have the plan ready before the first of the year, and last month Commissioner Claude R. Porter said he expected the program to be published this year. Whether this will be accomplished is doubtful in view of the progress made thus far in agreeing upon the provisions.

Denies Petitions for New Foshay Receiver

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Federal Judge John B. Sanborn has denied stockholders petitions for appointment of a new receiver and attorneys for the Public Utilities Consolidated corporation, A. W. Foshay Holding company, and for permission to examine books and accounts of the firm. In denying permission to examine the company's books, Judge Sanborn said the stockholders would be given opportunity for such action on completion of the formal audits now being made. Such an examination now, he said, would only interfere with the progress of the audits.

COLD WEATHER WHETS DEMAND IN MANY LINES

See Prospect for Good Holiday Trade.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 1. — The development of cold weather has brought a brisk demand for seasonal goods, especially heavy clothing, coal and heating apparatus. The prospects for a good holiday trade are reported favorable and few changes in general plans have been made by merchandisers because of the recent financial disturbance.

General trade, however, is irregular although for most lines this is the normal development in the period between Thanksgiving and the new year. Inventories now are being taken in many lines, particularly the automotive industry, and plants are operating at a slow pace. Iron and steel show a little better tone, due to railroad buying.

From most of the federal reserve districts the report on business conditions received by telegraph indicate that the cold weather in many sections and the approach of the holidays have considerably stimulated trade. The Chicago report was to the effect that trade is better than was thought possible three weeks ago, wholesale trade is moderately up in St. Louis and Philadelphia trade is reported brisk.

New England Report.

The report from New England tells of unsatisfactory conditions in textiles, with slowing up general in business. Dry weather on the Pacific coast threatens the fruit and citrus crops.

Steel mills are planning increased ratios of operation after the first of the year mainly on new railroad material buying. Vast construction programs for 1930 have been announced during the last ten days as a result of conferences of President Hoover with industrial leaders in the most important lines.

From all present indications next year will be one of tremendous expansion of plant capacities and physical facilities, and manufacturing of materials which will be used in this work are commencing to feel the tonic effect of the inquiries now developing.

The motor trade is particularly slow at the moment, and manufacturers are undertaking an intensive survey of the prospects for sales next year. Production, doubtless, will synchronize closely with actual demand. Probably the most satisfactory feature of the reports from most lines is that inventories are at a minimum and any increased demand which may develop after the first of the year will entail a step-up in the ratio of industrial operations, all along the line. Such deflation as has taken place—or has been required, has been entirely in securities.

May Stimulate Business.

Last week's markets were slow ones, exhibiting considerable irregularity, but giving further evidence that a good job of stabilization has been done. Distressed selling appears entirely over, although the fact that brokers' loans were down a further $137,000,000 last week indicates that liquidation as the market could take it has been going on pretty steadily since the days of the break. Money is in supply at 4½ per cent on call, with only a small demand. The cheapness of new funds is expected to prove a stimulant to business over the next few weeks and probably well into the first of the year.

Wholesale and jobbing trades are reported slow, with a good many delayed and deferred shipments of goods reported from some principal centers. Foreign metal inquiry increased toward the end of the week and there were reports of good foreign buying of grains.

The increased dividends granted by many corporations during the last month have reflected an especially prosperous year, with three months active quarters and with the fourth proving nothing more than dull. Annual reports from 1929 soon to make their appearance will reflect, however, generally higher earnings for the entire year than in 1928. Estimates on the aggregate increase range from 18 to 25 per cent for industry as a whole.

Atlas Earnings Do Not Include Davega, City Radio

Indicated earnings of the Atlas Stores corporation of $2.38 a share as reported last week do not include income of City Radio Stores and Davega, Inc., which have been merged with Atlas Stores, the company reports.

Curb Market Prices Taper in Short Week

New York, Dec. 1.—(AP)—The New York curb exchange witnessed a downward readjustment of security values last week in three full five hour sessions of quiet trading. Sales on Tuesday and Wednesday fell below 1,000,000 shares, or less than one-third of the volume in the peak activity early in the month.

Some of the public utilities fell back rather sharply on the renewal of selling pressure, which was attributed in part to a resumption of "bear" selling on the discontinuance of the daily questionnaire concerning operations on the short side of the market. No important issues, however, broke through their low prices established earlier in the month, and several of them made brisk recovery on the announcement of the two billion dollar public utility program for 1930.

In Free Supply.

Investment trust and trading corporation shares were in rather free supply on unofficial estimates of poor 1929 reports, particularly by some of the corporations brought into being at the peak of the "bull" movement early this fall. Pennroad sank below the price at which the new stock was recently offered to shareholders, indicating a temporary withdrawal of organized buying support for that issue.

Sharp advances in some of the pipe line shares, particularly Illinois and Buckeye, featured the oil group. Shares of most of the big producing companies received good buying support, although there was no evidence of any concerted "bull" operations in that group.

Aviation shares were under pressure, with several issues sinking to new low levels for the year. Recent serious airplane accidents, and the disappointing character of the current year's sales have had a dampening effect on speculation in that group.

Run Into Storm.

Mining stocks ran into a storm of selling as a result of unconfirmed rumors of a cut in copper prices, but most of them made partial recovery from the week's lows when leading copper producers indicated that the 18 cents a pound price for the red metal would be maintained.

A brisk demand for the Swift & Co. issues was one of the few features in the industrial group. Trading was started in National Biscuit new, and Canadian Car and Foundry stocks.

Wide swings developed in some of the high priced specialties, notably Aluminum Co. of America, Quaker Oats, Tubize Artificial Silk and Deere & Co., all of which lost ground.

U. S. Electric Light and Power Shares Reports Net

United States Electric Light and Power shares for the quarter ended Nov. 30, 1929, reports total income of $970,000 after all expenses and other charges, equal to 97 cents a share on 1,010,000 shares of stock now outstanding. After payment of dividends for the quarter, a total of $324,880 was added to the reserve account, bringing the latter up to $609,000. In connection with the announcement of the earnings, directors declared the final quarterly dividend for 1929, amounting to 75 cents a share, making total disbursement for the year of $2.89 a share.

in fact, been longer postponed on this occasion than in the sequel to most of Wall street's major panics. But the reason for this postponement, as for the similar absence of rapid recovery after the December breakdown of 1920, is the knowledge that liquidation, although now quietly pursued, is bound to be long continued; that the 'feeding out of distress stock" taken over by banks in the recent crisis can be effected only with the lapse of time. Probably also an overhanging load of "undigested" new securities, whose underwriters were unable to distribute them, may have had to protect their bank loans by sale of their own seasoned securities will also have its influence.

The stock market will also take account of developments in general trade, and here there is considerable ground for speculation in the broader sense. The first page position which news of the market had relinquished has now come to be occupied by the "Hoover program." In a perfectly normal stock market this daily and emphatic distribution of cheerful assurances would very probably have caused an equally cheerful speculative demonstration.

Under existing circumstances, however, not only is the market itself is a state of lethargy but even hopeful watchers with a background of experience are not yet sure to just what extent the White House announcements have changed the business situation. The question is occasionally asked, whether the outlining of state, municipal and company expenditure on construction during 1930 actually embodies in the aggregate any larger plans than were contemplated even before Wall street's October crisis.

Would Still Encourage.

Even if they were found to represent only an unchanged program, the announcements (although none of them are pledges) would be viewed as encouraging proof that the Wall street panic had not led to sweeping revision of such plans. But they would not, on the other hand, mean such arbitrary increase in construction expenditures as would counterbalance a possible shrinkage in all other industries.

Plans for an abnormally great increase of that sort there would, indeed, be surrounded by many doubts —in the case of corporations, the company balance sheets and the market's capacity to absorb new securities—in the case of public bodies, the budget, the tax rate and again the security market. Even in the case of the United States government the question of surplus revenue to be left after the as yet undetermined "deductions for losses," in the income tax statements on which the 1930 revenues will be based, must be considered.

When all is said two facts stand out regarding the visible business situation of the moment; they are all we have as yet to guide expectation of the future. One is that trade activity has been declining since October.

Orders for Lumber Are Only 77 Per Cent of Output

Orders for lumber booked by 834 leading hardwood and softwood mills during the week ending Nov. 23, as reported to the National Lumber Manufacturers association, were only 77 per cent of production, compared with 82 per cent a week ago. The 834 mills gave total production as 376,690,000 feet. The week before production was 362,505,000 feet.

Standard of N. J. Will Not Hold All Dye Trust Patents

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 1.—Patents of the German dye trust covering the hydrogenation process of extracting gasoline from coal and changing heavy petroleum crude oil to the more valuable lighter oils will not be held exclusively by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey in the United States but will be offered for license as soon as practical, according to an announcement made in the Lamp, official publication of the New Jersey company. The Standard of New Jersey is now building three commercial plants for the utilization of the process on low grades of crude oil.

Household Finance Corp. Declares Extra Dividend

The Household Finance corporation has declared the regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share, and an extra quarterly dividend of 12½ cents a share on its participating preference stock, according to an announcement of the directors. L. C. Harbison, president, stated that this extra quarterly dividend in all probability will be continued indefinitely. This places the preference stock on a 7 per cent dividend basis.

GIVE PLAN FOR LIFTING RAIL RECEIVERSHIPS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 1.—Protective committees representing the Brinson Railway first mortgage 5 per cent bondholders and the Savannah and Atlanta Railway first and consolidated mortgage 6 per cent bondholders have announced a plan for reorganization of the latter road under which preferred and common stock will be issued to assenting stockholders. The cash required to lift a receivership that has been in effect eight years will be provided through new bonds.

Two industrial plants will be built to help enhance the line's financial position. These will be operated by the Certain-Teed Products corporation and by the company associated with the Pan American Petroleum and Transport company. Holders will have until Dec. 31 to deposit their bonds with the Equitable Trust company or the Bankers Trust company.

Recommend Revision of Cotton Rates in South

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Revised freight rates on cotton throughout the south were recommended to the interstate commerce commission today by Examiner G. M. Mattingly. Only slight changes would be made in the southeastern rates under the findings of the examiner. In the southwest the revisions would be more numerous and the present group rates now existing in the section would be generally abolished and mileage rates prescribed. The examiner's recommendations would permit, however, certain groupings in the southwest section.

FROM THE ICY WASTES OF ANTARCTICA

BYRD FLASHES FACTS ON MOTOR PROTECTION

WHIPPED by the fury of polar gales, Commander Byrd and his party of men push on . . . wresting ice-locked secrets from nature . . . adding them to man's store of scientific knowledge. Against relentless cold, these men pit dauntless courage . . . and the most thorough preparation that any expedition ever had.

With every type and brand of anti-freeze from which to choose, it is significant that Commander Byrd specified Eveready Prestone for protection where motor failure spells disaster.

Now, after a year's constant use, where the slightest weakness would have been a glaring fault, comes this message: "Eveready Prestone meets all manufacturer's claims . . ."

Freezing weather is around the corner. Today—your car needs the best protection you can give it. Commander Byrd dared run no chances . . . and you will not if you follow his lead. You can give your car the same perfect protection he gives his motors—with Eveready Prestone.

One supply of this perfect anti-freeze will safeguard your car through the longest winter of biting cold. You can forget all danger of freezing. There's no added expense to this investment, but a big gain in peace of mind.

Eveready Prestone is entirely different from other anti-freeze solutions or mixtures. It contains no alcohol or glycerine. Scientific tests by the U. S. Navy Bureau of Aeronautics prove that Eveready Prestone has no effect whatever on the metal in your cooling system or on hose connections. It is perfectly safe and completely effective.

Eveready Prestone is sold by garages, filling stations and dealers everywhere. Go today and have your cooling system made clean and tight—and get your winter's supply of the perfect anti-freeze.

Housebroken
By PAUL HERVEY FOX

SYNOPSIS.

Tom Davies meets Suzanne Branch while he is in college. She is engaged to another man, but she and Tom fall in love with each other. Suzanne breaks her engagement and follows Tom to her home to meet her family. Suzanne goes down to the college for graduation exercises when Tom gets his degree.

The following autumn Tom and Suzanne are married and Tom's father gives him a small house at Stamford, Connecticut, as a wedding present. The bride and groom are perfectly happy for the first few months, then one day Tom stays in town to have dinner with some of his college friends and on his return Suzanne upbraids him. The storm blows over and Tom forgets about it until he promises some of his men friends to attend a prize fight with them in New York. Suzanne creates such a scene when she hears of it that Tom gives up the idea.

About a year after their marriage Bruce Stevens, Tom's best friend, returns from a trip to the Orient. Tom is delighted to see him. He asks Bruce to occupy the guest room at their house. Suzanne and Tom quarrel over Bruce's visit. When Bruce tells them that he will have to stay in town, Bruce asks him as a special favor to stay on at Stamford. Failing to get rid of Bruce in one way, Suzanne tries another. She becomes extremely cordial to Bruce and then starts a flirtation with him. Bruce realizes that it is all pretense and is done to get rid of him and his influence by making Tom jealous. Bruce confides this to Tom and offers to help him and together they arrange a plan.

Tom comes home one evening from the office to see Suzanne in Bruce's arms. He storms around the house and Bruce tells him that he and Suzanne love each other and he is going to take her away with him to his camp in Maine. Tom agrees to let her go and Suzanne is heartbroken at his willingness to be rid of her. She calls up her friend Kathleen Mobray, and persuades her to go with them to Maine. Nothing is explained to Kathleen, although she senses the real situation.

INSTALLMENT XXV.

MAKING A NIGHT OF IT.

On that evening when Bruce had rolled away with Suzanne beside him, and Kathleen in the rear seat, Tom Davies had remained in his deserted home for only a short time.

He had at first been profoundly depressed. The loneliness of the house where he had been so happy got on his nerves. And gradually, as he began to reflect, there came over him a certain anger against Suzanne.

He had had his qualms about carrying out Bruce's wild stratagem, but that was all gone now. He did not examine the motives that had led her to leave him, or the events that had brought this about. All he knew was that he felt put upon and resented it.

All right then! He'd have a good time! He'd enjoy himself. He looked at his grim face in the mirror and changed into another suit.

He caught a theater train into the city and went at once to his club. The doorman took his hat, Tom stepped into the lonely rooms. The club drunk leaned up against the bar; the club bore lay in wait like a crafty spider. Where were all the revellers, the gayety of bachelor freedom, that he was so determined to enjoy?

He escaped from the bore and the drunk and went up to dine. His steak

He tried to think of names. He had been living in such retirement that he had no friends any more, he had not kept up with any one.

Of course there was Joe Galbraith. He called up Joe and heard his stentor of welcome.

"Put yourself into a cab and come on up. We're hatching a little party. Expect you right away."

Joe Galbraith lived in a big studio apartment in the West Fifties. As Tom got out of the elevator, he heard, even through the heavy door, the sounds of a phonograph and loud talk.

Joe greeted him violently, tore his hat off, threw it into a corner, pushed and pulled him into the big room. Tom knew most of the men there, but the girls were strangers to him. They were all quite pretty, all very glittering and flashy and vivid. Walking in from the corridor was like suddenly walking back stage during the performance of a musical comedy.

Girls—mysterious creatures of the race of Suzanne and even Kathleen, making up their lips, smiling, frowning, sitting in chairs, chattering away—Tom studied them almost wonderingly. They seemed to belong to another species, he thought.

Joe put a glass in his hand, yelled his name by way of introduction, and left him to amuse himself.

There was a tall, slender girl near him, with a bright red mouth and rather pretty eyes.

"O, Lord," she drawled in a southern accent, "I hope no one suggests going to Luigi's."

"Where's Luigi's?" Tom asked.

She stared at him. "You from the country, big boy?"

He shook his head, finished his drink, took another from a tray, swallowed that.

"I'll say you're thirsty," she commented critically. "Well, Luigi's is a place where they sell headaches—and that's what you're looking for, isn't it?"

He was amused by her slow drawl and the way she lowered her eyelashes. He assumed proprietorship over her as the party piled into cabs and shot downtown.

Luigi's was, Tom found, just one more restaurant. Joe Galbraith ordered recklessly.

"Caviar, Luigi! Generous portions, Luigi! And a round of cocktails—your own, dashed with absinthe." He caught sight of Tom across the table and grinned. "Take care of my little friend, Vera," he shouted to the girl. "He's just out of short pants today, and that's why he's so grown up."

Vera made a face. She smiled up at Tom.

"Don't mind him," she said. "He's crazy. I like you. I think you're nice."

Tom drank more. His head began to spin. He was making a night of it, having a good time! Wasn't this a good time? He was doing it to punish some one or other. Poor little Suzanne! how badly he had treated her! But some one or other. Poor little Suzanne! how badly he had treated her! But he'd show her—he'd show her he was a man and would do as he wished. He was head of the family. He wouldn't be tricked out of his rights, no sir!

"Drink up!" he shouted to Joe Galbraith, lifted his glass and gulped it down again.

Vera was telling him something. "Cut it out—you've had enough. Your left eye is beginning to look funny. And let's get out of here. Come on, big boy!"

He bowed solemnly, rose, and went swaying down the room between the tables. Faces blurred before him. He thought he heard some one laugh, and he scowled and doubled his fists. He felt Vera punching him jocosely but smartly.

"O, come on—you're not one of the fighting kind, are you?"

He rode uptown with her, his arm around her shoulder. He puffed at a cigaret and let the ashes fall where they would. Then he found himself in a small apartment, overdecorated, with a smell of incense in the air.

Vera had left him. He heard her somewheres. She came back with some black coffee.

"Drink this," she commanded. "There's plenty more. It'll do you good. I just rescued you in time." She smiled. "I don't know why I did, but you didn't belong. I wanted to have you all to myself. Just you and me, big boy!"

He looked around the apartment with a wandering eye. His head was throbbing, but some of his confusion was gone. She met his eye significantly.

"My friend is out of town," she said, adding savagely: "Thank God!"

"Don't you like him?" Tom asked.

"He's all right," she said shortly. "I suppose you're married," she smiled.

He nodded. "I was, up till this afternoon."

"O!" Her eyes took on a look of understanding. "You've run away—you want to play, and you don't know how."

"Maybe."

She studied him thoughtfully. "Now if I were your wife I'd hang on to you. She must be a fool."

"No, I'm a fool."

He said it so humbly, that a laugh of tenderness, a laugh that was somehow maternal, broke from her. She went over to him and put her arms around his neck and kissed him.

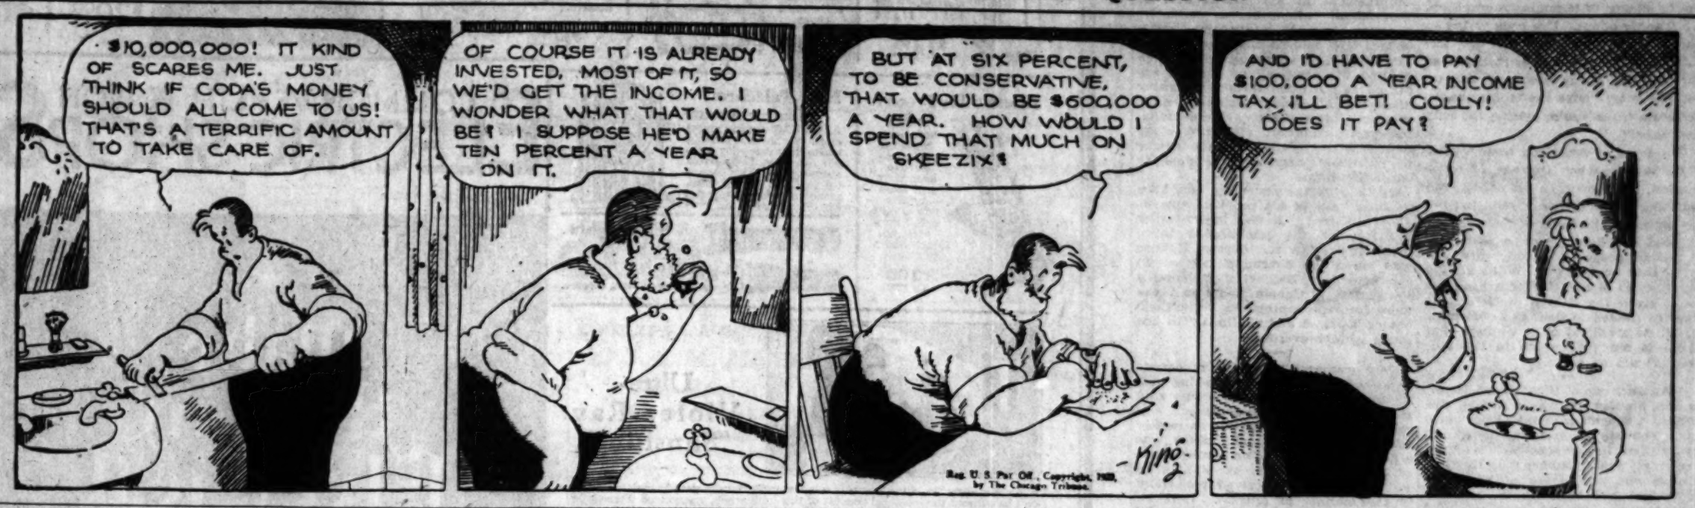
GASOLINE ALLEY—TWO SIDES TO EVERY QUESTION



$10,000,000! IT KIND OF SCARES ME. JUST THINK IF CODA'S MONEY SHOULD ALL COME TO US! THAT'S A TERRIFIC AMOUNT TO TAKE CARE OF.
OF COURSE IT IS ALREADY INVESTED, MOST OF IT, SO WE'D GET THE INCOME. I WONDER WHAT THAT WOULD BE? I SUPPOSE HE'D MAKE TEN PERCENT A YEAR ON IT.
BUT AT SIX PERCENT, TO BE CONSERVATIVE, THAT WOULD BE $600,000 A YEAR. HOW WOULD I SPEND THAT MUCH ON SKEEZIX?
AND I'D HAVE TO PAY $100,000 A YEAR INCOME TAX, I'LL BET! GOLLY! DOES IT PAY?

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!

I felt very badly over the ending of this film, for I wanted Robert Armstrong to marry Carol Lombard and be happy ever after. However, when did producers ever consult me as to how they should make their pictures? Never! So—well, the heart of your critic was sad, but maybe yours won't be.

The story of "The Racketeer," another tale of gangland, isn't particularly original or credible, but the film becomes a production of merit through its splendid direction and finely etched character portrayals. These, from Mr. Armstrong as "the racketeer" down to the chauffeur of his car and the policeman on the beat, are beyond criticism. Sets, photography, sound, are all right up to the minute and, because of acting and direction, your interest never lags. Carol Lombard is one beautiful blonde. Jeanette Loff is another.

I repeat, I didn't like the ending, but we know that "Crime Doesn't Pay," so I reckon the only au fait thing to do was treat Mr. Armstrong rough. Otherwise—where would the moral be? [Also—the world is full of feminine film fans who would probably throw a fit if anything serious were permitted to happen to Roland Drew.]

*Remember Grace?

This is Joan Crawford's first altalking picture, and she and her husband and her friends and her producing company should be much pleased with the account she gives of herself.

The story she drew isn't much to brag of. It is exceedingly melodramatic, abounding in good old ten, twent', thirt' situations, and, while far better dressed, photographed, and presented than the thrillers of other days, still savors of the same.

It sings of a girl brought up among South American jungles, who, upon her father's death, inherits oil leases, becomes immensely wealthy, and the ward of her father's friend, who brings her to New York. On the boat that transports her hither from thither, she encounters one Andy.

"He," quoths she, "is the man for me!" She goes after him tooth and nail, never resting till the H. E. To get him she has to shoot him, but the picture will tell you about that.

Miss Crawford seems a bit mature for the things she is called upon to do in the first scenes. Her actions aboard the boat have a slightly hollow ring. But once she gets to New York, coiffed and clothed in her accustomed manner, she gives a whirlwind performance that stirs enthusiasm for her if not for her rôle.

Robert Montgomery is excellent as Andy, doing some downright brilliant acting in a couple of places. Ernest Torrence does characteristic and satisfactory work as Bingo's guardian.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send your name and address with your question to "Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Ethel May Kopp, room 432, 30 North La Salle street, was awarded $5.

The Question.

Do you agree with Prof. R. E. Rogers of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology that playing bridge is the lowest mental depth to which a human being can fall?

The Answers.

Miss Marguerite MacLean, 4600 North Lincoln street, real estate dealer — I consider bridge as the means of affording a good evening's entertainment. It has been my experience that most bridge players take the game too seriously.

William F. Wigger, 7104 Lowe avenue, high school instructor — That is a rather far fetched statement. Although I am not a bridge fan, it seems to me that it is a game that demands a certain amount of intelligence to play it properly.

Miss Margaret Casey, 127 North Dearborn street, ad taker—I think bridge is a very interesting pastime, and I cannot understand Prof. Rogers' attitude towards it. The chances are he is either prejudiced or insufficiently informed on the subject.

Hyman Shanok, 7 South Dearborn street, lawyer—I do not agree with the supposedly learned professor. I believe bridge affords a means of diversion and is a good substitute for poker, especially when the playing is being done by a young girl or woman.

Mrs. Frances Murphy, 1226 Jarvis avenue, housewife — Bridge is the most wonderful sport I know. We play it a lot. I like it better than the other card games. It serves both as a diversion and as a pastime. I listen to the bridge games on the radio.

Other parts are handled quite as well as they deserve to be.

Some of the party episodes are hard to take, and the film is too long. But Miss Crawford, on the whole, is delightful. You'll like her voice.

London's Bishop Charges "Hell" Makes Atheists

Story of Torments Fiction, He Tells Flock.

LONDON, Dec. 1.—(AP)—The bishop of London, in a sermon in Westminster abbey, tonight stated that "pictures of roasting souls in hell make more atheists than any other thing in the world."

The bishop added it seemed certain that passages in the gospel of St. Matthew on the subject of future punishment "attributed to our Lord were not said by our Lord at all."

At another point he said, "Some say that people who rebel against God will be annihilated. I can only say, we do not know."

The bishop of London is one of the ranking members of the hierarchy of the Church of England. Another prominent representative of the church, Dean Inge, the "gloomy dean," in preaching today at St. Paul's also deprecated "the ghastly pictures of hell which fill Christian literature."

"The Roman churches," he said, "attempted to solve the problem of hell by introducing purgatory, which is a plausible theory. The modernist Protestant really believes in purgatory, but not in hell. What is really needed is a spiritual conception of eternal life.

"I would be the last to revive the terrible symbolism of hell torture, but I think there is a great danger today in entirely banishing the fear which is never absent from the New Testament. We would serve God with reverence and godly fear."

Asks Attractive Churches.

More beauty and zest in religious services will cast a greater spell on the multitude and bring people flocking to the doors of churches, Dr. Harry P. Dewey, pastor of the Plymouth church of Minneapolis, declared last night to the Sunday Evening club at Orchestra hall.

"The unsatisfied world, which is ever being disillusioned in its selfish quests, really is seeking, as all of us are, a good time," Dr. Dewey said. "It is wrongdoing that makes life drab; it is right doing, with the aid of a genuine faith, that lends tang to life. This does not signify any forced, superficial optimism. Life has its obstacles, hardships, and tragedies, and one's religion does not remove them or make them as though they were not."

Cardinal Is Given $100,000 for School for Unlucky Boys

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The Holy Name society presented Cardinal Mundelein with $100,000 yesterday at the fourth quarterly meeting of the society held in Our Lady of Sorrows parish hall, 3121 W. Jackson boulevard. The gift is for the erection of a technical school for delinquent boys near Lockport. More than 1,600 members of the Holy Name society were present.

In receiving the gift, Cardinal Mundelein declared it gave him more pleasure to do something definite for delinquent boys than to build a cathedral. It is the plan to break ground for the new technical school in the early spring.

Judge Francis B. Allegretti, president of the society, presided. In addition to the cardinal, other speakers at the meeting were Auxiliary Bishop Bernard J. Sheil of Chicago, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Bona, head of the big brother movement in the Holy Name society and the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Daniel Byrnes. Msgr. Byrnes stressed the duties of adult citizenship that would benefit the development of boys.

The Rev. Patrick Condon, pastor of Our Lady of Sorrows church, after the meeting, stated that the big brother work in the Holy Name society was an effort both to prevent delinquency, and also to aid boys in their own homes after they had become delinquent, rather than sending them to state or other institutions.

Play to Help Sale of Seals for Red Cross

Benefit performances in the interest of Christmas health seals of the Chicago Tuberculosis institute will be given throughout December by the Jack and Jill players, a juvenile dramatic organization. A number of engagements have already been made for the presentation of a Christmas play, "The Great Gift." Arrangements for the appearance of the players may be made at the institute headquarters, 360 North Michigan avenue.

Death of Art Expert's Son Puts Off U. of C. Reception

Because of the recent death of the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Shatley, the reception which was to have been given for them and Mr. and Mrs. Max Epstein next Monday by the Renaissance society of the University of Chicago has been postponed until Jan. 12. Mr. Shatley is head of the department of art at the university and is developing the plans for the institute of fine arts recently founded by Mr. Epstein at the university.

THEATER

"QUEEN-BEE";

Comedy, in three acts, by Louise Fox Connell and Ruth Hawthorne; made known in Chicago (by Joseph B. Glick) December 1, 1929, in the Cort Theater, with this cast:

Janice Blake.....Gertrude Bryan
Gilbert, her husband.....Allan Dinehart
John Talbot.....Brian Donlevy
Margaret, his wife.....Charlcie Hedge
Elaine Stevens.....Eleanor Phelps
Roger Hyde.....Warren Parker
A butler.....William Stone

MR. DONLEVY walks into the third act as a soused husband who has been out all night, and walks out of the third act with the knowledge that he has been successful in a slight variant of the drunk which a Cockney comic named Billy Reeves used to do in the Ziegfeld Follies and in the varieties. That seems to be about all there is to report regarding "Queen-Bee." That and, perhaps, the notion that the authors have done a reasonable bit of theater-going, and that this piece is their expressed reaction toward what they have seen. They have taken the country-place in Westchester (N.-Y., of course), the wealthy salt-of-the-earth husband, the wife who thinks she is bored, some week-end guests, and a deal of demoded colloquy, and sought to fit them into a play. Mr. Dinehart does what is to be done with the husband; and Miss Bryan, a stranger hereabout, has a go at the wife.

News-Notes of the Stage.

The Misses Duncan will be next week's headliners in the Palace.

Miss George will be held through next week in "The First Mrs. Fraser": the Dramatic League of Chicago, with a view of skipping shopping-week, has put off the third play of its season of five until the night of the 23d. . . . That play, it is decided, will be "The Infinite Shoeblack," with Miss Helen Menken and Leslie Banks, a new-comer from London, in the principal vis-à-vis rôles. Mr. Banks played his rôle in the London run, where Miss Mary Newcomb had the rôle in which Miss Menken will be seen here.

A Chicago cast of "June Moon" will be installed the 23d in the Selwyn, after a breaking-in week in Cleveland. James Spottswood and John Daly Murphy are of the cast.

Miss Lucille Webster [Mrs. James Gleason] and Wells Root have written "The Sob-Sister"; and it may be necessary to explain that it is a play about a newspaper-woman. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Gleason have been busy with films and the like in Hollywood ever since they withdrew from "The Shannons of Broadway," which they jointly wrote.

Mrs. Louise Closser Hale, here recently with Miss Irene Bordoni in the thin show named "Paris," is the author of a piece called "Snare-Drums."

"Trevelyan's Ghost" is a play by Dwight Taylor; and it is soon to be exhibited to the populace. And the author is the son of Miss Laurette Taylor, who isn't certain if she has retired from the stage.

Miss Madge Kennedy, who is picking up loose change in the two-a-day, expects soon to be in a new play. . . . Miss Grace La Rue also expects soon to be in a new play, and gives out the title—"Brandy and Soda."

Reports from New York are that the Theater Guild is without high hope of "The Game of Love and Death," made known there last week. . . . The Guild will have Mr. and Mrs. Lunt back in New York in a fortnight, when they will appear in S. N. Behrman's "Meteor." The principal character is said to be based on "a figure once not unknown to the Broadway theaters.

Announcement by Mr. Dillingham now is that he will start to make ready Fred Stone's new conveyance, "Ripples," after Christmas. He has hired the cast, which will contain two of Mr. Stone's daughters, Dorothy and Paula.

"The Iron Widow," classified by the gossips as "one of the plays in which the late Jeanne Eagles might have been seen had she lived," has its action on Devil's Island.

Scandinavian-American Art Show Now Opened

Rufus C. Dawes, president of the "Century of Progress" celebration of 1933, formally opened last night the first Scandinavian-American art exhibition here, bringing together Norwegian, Swedish, Danish, and Finnish artists. The show is under the auspices of the Chicago chapter of the Scandinavian-American foundation. It will be in the Illinois Woman's Athletic club. It will continue until 10.

More than 200 entries have been received and acted on by a jury.

Fritz Kreisler Used by Critic to Point Moral

Also Why Public Prefers La Argentina.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

If there should be occasion for a debate on what ails the music situation, it might be a good plan to consult Fritz Kreisler and La Argentina before beginning to talk. The facts would force them both to say that nothing whatever ails it, and the same statement would be true for a few chosen others of their kind.

By their kind is meant those who have something that the public wants, and who do it a little better than any one else on earth. It is the whole secret of success in the music profession. Mr. Kreisler with his violin at Orchestra hall, La Argentina with her Spanish dances at the Studebaker, appeared before audiences that would have been larger, if theater seats were not made of inelastic materials, but only under such circumstances.

Mr. Kreisler played the Tschaikowsky Concerto as it is sometimes dreamed about but seldom heard, as a marvel of execution and an ideal of charming melody. Later he demonstrated that he is one of the few to be writing pieces that make distinct additions to the violinistic répertoire. "Shepherd's Madrigal" is one, "Gypsy Caprice" another, not to mention his arrangement of the dance out of "La Vida Breve." They are first rate.

La Argentina's program was much the same as on her last appearance. Apparently she does not need to change. As long as she can bewitch the eye with herself and the ear with her castanets, she occupies a place all by herself.

Tomford Harris gave an uncommonly good piano recital at the Playhouse yesterday afternoon. His is a highly refined manner of playing, excelling in delicacy and details. At the same time there would seem to be little that his hands cannot accomplish, and with this pair of hands goes the mind of a true musician. That uncommonly long sonata in F sharp minor by Schumann, a Chopin group, a piece by Eugene Goossens, and a Liszt group, made up his program.

Jurien Hoekstra, baritone, made an excellent impression when he sang here last season and a better one at the Cordon club yesterday. His voice is resonant and even, it has fine quality, and it has been trained into suppleness. "O Ruddier Than the Cherry" is no joke for any singer, but Mr. Hoekstra made it sound easy and jovial, to say nothing of his projecting every word clearly. It was a good preparation for the lieder and modern songs that followed.

The Chicago Singverein, Hans Marlow, conductor, gave a charity concert at the Great Northern theater yesterday afternoon. Presenting a series of song groups, they displayed good voices, with the soprano and contralto sections overshadowing to some extent the male division, but carefully trained and at all times obedient to the conductor's beat. The soloists were Talanina, mezzo-soprano, and Harry K. Gillman, violinist.

Rosa Raisa concluded the concert list with a song recital at the Civic Opera house in the evening. It was for the benefit of the furnishing fund of the Little Company of Mary hospital; she drew a large crowd and the crowd grew enthusiastic. Miss Raisa's fine voice is fully as well suited to recital as opera, the only trouble being that she consents to so little concert use of it. But it darted through the arabesques of old Italian and old English lightly and deftly, it rang out with great nobility in Bizet's "Agnus Dei," and it was as brilliant and facile as if it were of coloratura type in the Bolero from Verdi's "Sicilian Vespers."

Give the Face a Chance to Bloom While You Diet

From now on for awhile I am going to hammer away on a subject that I am in danger of becoming a crank on, I'll frankly admit. I've been trying to think up a snappy slogan for the drive, but the best I have managed so far to cover the subject half way intelligently is: "Give the face a chance to bloom while you're getting the body in shape."

The faces of American women after they have reached the age of indiscretion, if it may so be called, and meaning indiscretions of reducing following upon the heels of indiscretions of food and living that provoked the reducing program, simply are not what they ought to be. While getting the body in shape, the faces have not been given the chance to bloom. O, they're treated to their false blooming in all its manifold color tintings—but there is not that youth in the face that should be there.

"Another one of those dieted faces," is the manner in which a man dismissed a woman with the bloom wiped out. You see them here, there, and everywhere in company with a figure seemingly years younger than the face. Unless you are aware of what the individual has been up to, dietarily speaking, you wonder what stress of emotion she has been through of late to make her face look so worn.

While you may not be able to put your finger on exactly what's wrong with it, there are those telltale dusky shadows under the eyes, in the cheeks, around the mouth corners and also beneath the chin line. They may be only shadows, not dentures, but sufficient they are to destroy the bloom. It is thoroughly conceivable that dress hides the same blight on the body after the strenuous dietary campaign. But the face is not permitted a veil to sustain the illusion of youth behind it.

We women ought to consider ourselves on a new lap in this matter of reducing education. We are going in for higher education, meaning that henceforth keeping the bloom on the face while we keep the body in shape will be the aim. And tomorrow we will tell in part how it may be done.

OPERA GOERS BRAVE SNOW, STORM AND HEAR 'IL TROVATORE'

BY HAZEL MOORE.

Vincenzo Celli received his first encouragement in his chosen field of Terpsichore when as a child he cavorted about the playground of Hull house. He showed that he had not forgotten that encouragement when he and his company of dancers appeared at the Civic theater yesterday afternoon in a benefit performance for the Hull House theater. Incidentally, the pretty interior, curtained stage and excellent lighting of this theater proved itself admirably adapted to dance programs.

Celli's program yesterday varied little from that of his previous appearance this year. It was improved by the lack of the semi-unified ballet group of the former. Bernice Holmes was again his charming partner in the delightful Boccherini "Venetian Porcelain," a Chopin waltz and the more dramatic pantomime, "The Combat of Tancred and Clorinda," to the music of Monteverde.

Celli presented himself in numerous phases of his art, mostly showing that his technique was not yet of the kind that is able to conceal technique. In one group, however, he was extremely interesting. His second number was a first performance of an arrangement of his own to music by Manuel de Falla. This he conceived pictorially in the manner of Murillo. Here he achieved a fine effect of a colorful Murillo urchin with a gamin expression and lithe young body. Less effective, though with good imagination, were "The Stained Glass Window" and "Rodinesque," which followed, both to music by Scriabin. One could not but wish that Mr. Celli's too, too human hair were not so constantly in evidence. The audience was plentiful and appreciative.

At the Civic Opera house a huge audience braved the weather to hear the Sunday matinée of that grand old favorite, "Il Trovatore." The cast was the same excellent one previously heard excepting in one particular.

Giovanni Inghilleri assumed the rôle of the Count of Luna. In doing so he amply justified his presence in that cast of splendid artists. His voice is vibrant and rich in quality. It is also young and fresh. In appearance he might easily have been the brother of Cortis' Manrico, as in the opera. Also he knew his Verdi. All of which helped the popularity of a performance already popular for itself and enhanced by the presence of the infallible Muzio and the known quantities of Cyrena Van Gordon's Azucena, Cortis, Lazzari, and d'Hermanoy.

Again commuters who remained for the last notes missed their trains, but, judging from the applause, they did not greatly mind. Roberto Moranzoni conducted.

Tribune Cook Book

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Bean Soups.

I am thinking of the young woman office worker and cook in talking now about bean soup, so easy to make though the process is long, and so good when it is hot, and served in a hot bowl, as an appetizing part of a simple meal.

Just so that I might recommend this I did the work anew, first washing and putting to soak one-half cup of white or navy beans in two cups of water over night. In the morning I added three cups more of water, though perhaps two would have been quite ample, and a piece of salt pork weighing between two and three ounces—two inch square thick piece. This was trimmed on the lower side and the rind removed, and on the fat side slashed down in several places so as to give a larger exposure of the fat surface, from which would exude the seasoning for the soup.

The whole was put over a simmering burner, turned low, and remained there all day without boiling once. The amount of vapor which escaped was practically none, because the kettle was covered. If it had been uncovered a good deal might have escaped. Then the whole was turned into a quart measuring pitcher to find out how much of the water had been lost, and apparently the amount was entirely negligible.

This way of cooking beans gives up something besides the starchy content plus a hardened and undigestible protein. The protein may be thus cooked without ever boiling and be digestible and serviceable as nutriment, whereas if it is hardened in the cooking it has no nutriment value at all, makes the body work over something that is not worth anything to it, and it is not really good roughage like green vegetables. And the starch is well cooked in the long process.

The plain liquid thus prepared is really a vegetable essence, with the fat seasoning and when served hot with a slight addition of vegetable seasoning makes an excellent soup. For instance, we may add to a cup of it one-half cup of celery stock made by cooking either celery leaves with water to cover, or the coarse stalks of celery.

If we want a bean purée, either for soup or vegetable, we can pour off all the liquid from the beans, mash them, perhaps add a little butter and seasoning and serve just as they are or we may thin with some of the liquid essence and even add a little cream if we choose.

We may cut up a fresh tomato fine and cook it with the liquid and use some of the beans without mashing them in this soup. With fresh bread and butter, with a salad and some fruit and cheese and wafers, and perhaps a beverage this may furnish a simple meal, better for the tired worker than a heavy dinner.

Chicago Junior League Plans Theater Parley

BY THALIA

The Chicago Junior league, successful pioneers in the children's theater activities, is pioneering again in entertaining the first Junior league theater conference that has ever been held. It will meet Dec. 10, 11, and 12. The committee, headed by Mrs. Latimer Goodrich, has planned to house the 150 delegates who have responded to the invitation to attend to give an interesting and instructive program of discussion and lectures on various theater problems, and to entertain the visitors at lunches and dinners at various smart clubs besides.

It's all quite a stupendous task, and one that will tax all the organizing abilities of the hostesses. Take, for examples, Wednesday evening, Dec. 11, which has been set aside for small dinner parties to precede a performance of puppets and marionettes by the St. Louis puppets. They will give "Jack and the Beanstalk," and the Omaha marionettes will give "Cinderella."

There will be 25 of the local league members giving dinner parties. The largest of these is the dinner to be at the Casino to be given by five hostesses—Harriet and Beatrice Borland, Winifred Smith, Margaret Quan, and Emily Otis. Mrs. Shreve Badger is to have a dozen guests, and Miss Sarane Otis and Mrs. Latimer Goodrich will have a group at the Woman's Athletic club.

Miss Jane Warner, Mrs. Catherine Bartholomay Osborne, Miss Dorothy Schmidt, Mrs. Charles Lindsay, Miss Sophie Harrington, Miss Anna Katherine Hurd, Mrs. John R. Winterbotham, Miss Margaret Hambleton, Mrs. Walter Paepcke, and Mrs. Philip Maher are others who are to give dinners. Mrs. Winterbotham and Miss Hambleton are giving a joint party, as also are Mrs. Paepcke and Mrs. Maher.

About 500 children of the Red White and Blue club at 1338 Wade street are to give a musical service at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon in memory of the late Mrs. Edward S. Beck, who devoted much of her time and interest to working for the organization. The purpose of the settlement is to provide occupational diversion for the underprivileged foreign children of the neighborhood. One of the songs to be sung was written by one of the children and is dedicated to Mrs. Beck.

Officers of the club and members of the board who will be present include Mrs. John H. Winterbotham, Mrs. Morris L. Johnston, Mrs. William V. Kelley, Mrs. Edward R. Field, Mrs. Warren Ripple, Mrs. Oren R. Taft, Mrs. William M. Scudder, Mrs. William Wrigley Jr., Mrs. Mark Trude, Mrs. Charles King Corsant, Mrs. Orville Babcock, Mrs. Wallace Kirk, Mrs. Claire More, Mrs. Howard Gillette, Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick, and Mrs. James Offield.

The annual Christmas gift and toy sale of the White Elephant Rummage shop is set for Wednesday, with Mrs. Harry H. Shearson in charge of the gifts and Mrs. Milton Morse managing the toys.

Assisting Mrs. Shearson will be Mrs. Bruce Borland, Mrs. Clifford Corbin, Mrs. Ira Couch, Mrs. Warren Fairbanks, Mrs. Charles Foster, Mrs. James Hutchins, Mrs. Childs Laflin, Mrs. Joseph E. Otis, Mrs. Arthur Sawyer, Mrs. Oren Taft, Mrs. Patrick Valentine, Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, and Mrs. James Watson.

The toy "saleslaadies" will be Mrs. Horace Bartling, Miss Marion Clow, Miss Helen Gurley, Mrs. Oscar Johnson, Mrs. Charles LeForgee, Mrs. Augustus K. Maxwell, Mrs. Harry MacDonald, Miss Edith Louise Newcomet, Mrs. Horace Wetmore, and Mrs. A. H. Whiting. Mrs. Sam Chase, who is doing the publicity this year, says: "Everything from a piano to a penwiper will be on sale—including two upright pianos, also a grandfather's clock looking for descendants."

The marriage of Mrs. David Goodwillie of Boston, formerly of Chicago, to Edward Sheridan Pettigrew of Shorthills, N. J., is to take place tomorrow afternoon at the Drake hotel. The Rev. John Timothy Stone will read the marriage service at 5 o'clock in the presence of the immediate families only. Mr. and Mrs. Pettigrew are to reside in Shorthills, N. J., after passing the winter at Chandler, Ariz., and Pasadena, Cal.

The Eli Bates sale, which has been postponed twice due to a series of delays in transporting purchases made by Mrs. William McCormick Blair in Europe, will be held today and tomorrow at Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen's residence at 1430 Astor street. The hours on both days will be from 10 a. m. until 6 p. m.

A daughter was born to Mrs. James Otis at St. Luke's hospital on Thanksgiving day. The mother, before her marriage, was Miss Edwena Norris Love, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Love of Riverside. The father's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Otis. Mr. and Mrs. James Otis reside at 27 East Bellevue place.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman H. MacLeish of Winnetka are the parents of a baby girl, born at the Evanston hospital yesterday. Mrs. MacLeish is the daughter of the late Joseph B. McCall of Philadelphia. The new arrival has been named Lenore.

John W. Kirkland, brother of Miss Caroline Kirkland and Mrs. Victor Sanborn, was to sail on Saturday from England to arrive in this country in time to be present for the marriage of his daughter, Miss Irene Bassadre Kirkland, to Dr. Sam Lenher of Wilmington, Del., which is to take place this month.

The marriage of Miss Evelyn Randall, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Edwin Jarvis Randall of Evanston, to Ralph Myron Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy H. Smith of Tacoma, Wash., took place late last month at St. Luke's church in Evanston. The ceremony was followed by a reception at the Evanston Country club.

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: Passing the Buck

WHY, MR. WIGGINS, WHAT'S THE TROUBLE? YOU LOOK WORRIED!!
I KNEW THINGS WOULD COME TO THIS! I HATE TO ADMIT IT, BUT THE FINANCIAL OUTLOOK FOR THE HAIRLESS HAIRPIN CO. IS VERY DARK!!
I'M IN DEBT UP TO MY NECK AND I DON'T SEE HOW I'M GOING TO RAISE THE MONEY TO PAY OFF ALL THESE CREDITORS!
GOSH, THAT IS TOO BAD!
WHY SHOULD YOU WORRY, MR. WIGGINS! JUST CALL THOSE PEOPLE UP AND TELL THEM YOU HAVE NO MONEY—
—AND LET THEM WORRY!!

The lure of exploration through one of the few remaining corners of the world which is little known, the Chinese-Tibetan frontier, brought 3,000 persons to the Field museum yesterday to hear Kermit Roosevelt. Actually only half of that number heard his lecture, a line of more than 1,500 being turned away when the auditorium was filled to capacity.

Slides and motion pictures showed how the William V. Kelley-Roosevelt party abandoned their pack and riding animals and went on foot over mountain passes as high as 17,100 feet in what they thought would be a futile effort to kill a giant panda. Mr. Roosevelt and his brother, Col. Theodore Roosevelt, finally shot one of the animals, which will be placed on exhibit in the museum here.

The natives of the nearby village in Lololand, between Tibet and China, held purification rites after the party had shot their prize and taken it through the village. The panda is considered a semi-divinity, and never killed by the natives.

Although large numbers of the men of Lololand become lamas, or priests, there still is such a surplus of men that a "forceful woman" easily can obtain three or four husbands.

Dancing Deadline of 3 A. M. Made for the Business Man

BY DORIS BLAKE.

The good old American business man, that much maligned gentleman who arises early, dos his daily dozen, sings under the cold shower and gets to his desk at a tidy morning hour, at last has been decorated.

He, this plodding worm, whose preference for business over cultural pursuits has made him the target for many fictional tomes of late years, has come into his own. His is the reward of patient struggle for recognition. Or will be—if the latest crop of debutantes has any appeal to his matrimonial appetite.

What stands as an inalienable fact is that they want him whether the regard is mutual or not. And the debs' mammas want him with that degree of wanting that leads to a social reform.

Witness the new social deadline—3 a. m.! It was made not because the debs' health would be the better for a few more hours of sleep, nor because of the bad psychological effect of rounding out an all night dancing program with bacon and eggs at a cafeteria. The 3 a. m. deadline was promoted on the grounds (and hopes) that young social buds might have the pleasure of meeting business men at their parties.

Shopping around for good matrimonial material, it seems that the homely old virtues of the gentlemen in trade, so to speak, stand up pretty well, after all. Anyway, mammas grown wise in the ways of young men of leisure, of gentlemen who scorn the time clock punching habit, of gentlemen of title (spurious and legitimate, though passé) have been looking the home grown species over of late seasons and finding that more of them present at their daughters' parties would lend a stability to the scene now woefully lacking in something.

And so they have ordained that the gong sound at 3 a. m. so that the nice young men with an eye to their business futures might come, dance, with their daughters, and still be able to appear at their jobs bright eyed and eager.

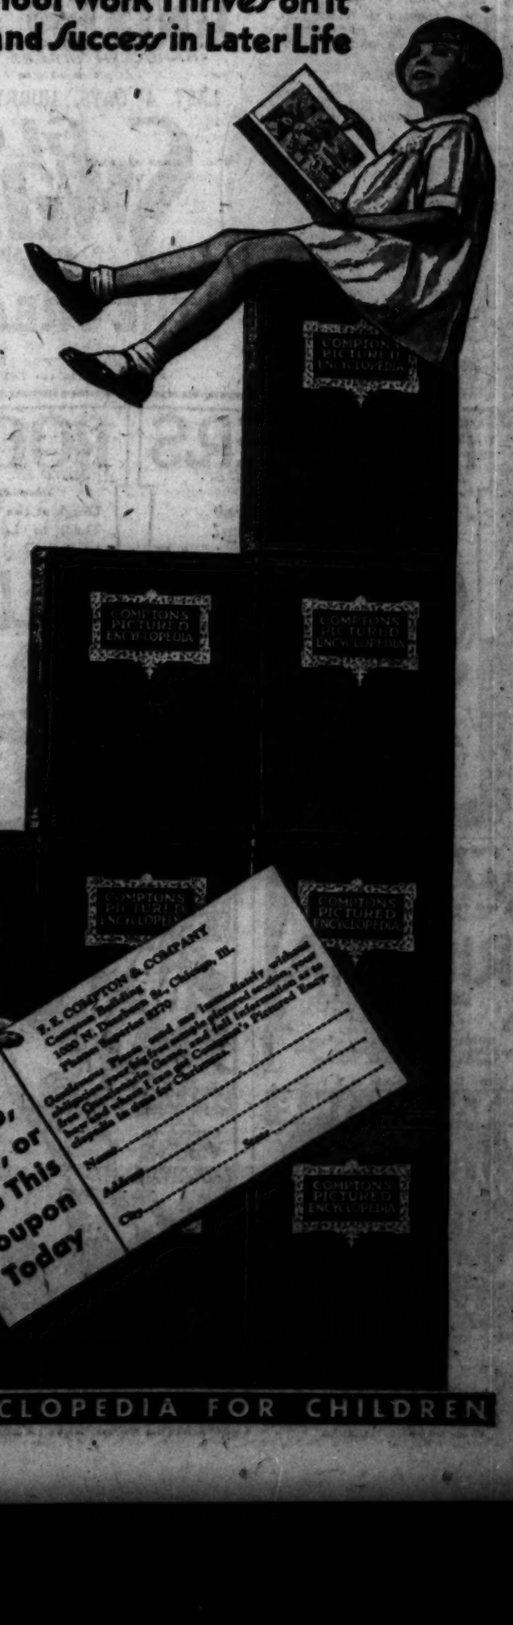
Here's the Most Wonderful Children's Gift in the World

Children Love It, Their School Work Thrives on It
It Brings Leadership Now and Success in Later Life



WHEN you put this wonderful gift under your children's tree this year, you are some day going to realize that their whole future dated from the moment they opened that box. For in that box will be practically all that they ever have to know, both in school and life. And all of it made so simple, so interesting, so understandable that they never again will be discouraged with what they have to learn.

For this most wonderful gift is Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia for Children. A complete encyclopedia, written and pictured entirely for children and in terms of their own understanding.

This is the only gift of its kind in the world, the only time this has ever been done. And the results to children are simply amazing.

They use these books both at home and in their classes. They read in them constantly because they are so interested. And the result is they get better marks in school, they assume greater leadership amongst their playmates; and, all this means preparing for greater success in later life.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Aid for Farmer's Family.

"My dear husband is alive and sober and working as hard as he can and I have a young son and also my mother living with me. Our home is a tiny farm, saddled with debt. Tax and fuel bills have to paid soon and money is—where? Cold weather is at hand and warmer clothes are a necessity especially for the boy who goes to school and for his father who works outdoors all day. Has some one a blazer or overcoat for my son, aged 12, who wears size 16 or 17, shoes size 2 or 3, shoes or rubbers for my husband, size 7 or 7½, other clothing for him, size 40, and shoes size 4 or 5 and a dress or coat for me, size 40? I am in need of a 9x12 rug and curtains, also. MRS. F. W."

Those of you who know anything about farm life in the winter time will realize that the heaviest kind of clothing is needed and you'll know, too, what a difficult time the poor farmer has to get it.

Here Are Some Books for Christmas for Children Over 10

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

A "Play Booklet" by Mrs. Bevans for mothers of pre-school children will be sent free on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

It seems too bad, if one means to be helpful, to let this time of the year pass without at least a few suggestions for parents about the buying of books for their children. A comprehensive looking over of juveniles and the making of a wise selection from the mass production of the publishers is impossible for this department to undertake, but I shall feel as if I had failed a little if I did not even touch the subject.

So, here are a few rather miscellaneous suggestions for book buying. They are mostly for children over 8, since my booklet, "The Youngest Bookshelf," covers the earlier years and the books mentioned there hold their own very well, though some delightful ones could well be added.

For the boy at the age when he loves books of adventure there are always the much loved "Treasure Island" and "Kidnaped," of Robert Louis Stevenson, published by Scribner.

There are also "Prester John," by John Buchan, published by Doran, and "Two Years Before the Mast," by Richard H. Dana, published by Houghton Mifflin.

Though I haven't looked it over, I hear that the juvenile called "Courageous Companions," by Charles J. Finger is considered very fine. It won the Longmans-Green prize and is a story of Magellan's voyage around the world.

Howard Pyle is wonderful for boys around 12. His content, style and illustrations are always fine. There's "Otto of the Silver Hand," and "Men of Iron," both with an historical background. "The Cloister and the Hearth," by Charles Reade, written of course for adults, is another splendid book for the thirteens and older who are rather mature for their age.

In recommending books my pen always falters when I want to link up a book with the age to which it seems suited, especially the books written for adults which children also enjoy. A child's mental maturity, his tastes, and his temperament determine so largely what he will enjoy. In choosing books for children I know I personally like to go to libraries or book stores and look them over first, no matter who has suggested them. It is what I advise every one to do, who can.

A few more books will be noted tomorrow.

Frock of Georgette Has Jagged Drapery

BY LOLITA.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Much engaged in the fray are the various graceful panels inset in the skirt of today's model. Deliberately frayed, jagged as the petals of certain flowers, these draperies form only one factor in a gown full of delightful features.

The medium is brown georgette, and this is set off by touches of the most delicate rose color. A frayed jabot of this relieving tint, together with undersleeves under a jagged upper section, assure us once more that such details of rose or turquoise or plain white are continuing their humane mission on today's neutral toned gown. No longer need the gown of beige or brown or black be unbecoming to the woman who lacks a brilliant complexion. These touches of white or color remove the acid test.

Some sort of extra finish for the fluttering panels, such as is represented by the jagged edges of today, is much esteemed. In fact, anything which makes for feminine caprice is in the mood of the hour. Thus one of the newest crêpe frocks makes use of finely pleated sections applied to the skirt vertically. They occur in pairs, and each pair converges to a point dipping below the hem line. The same pleated finish extends to the corsage in the form of an edging for the collar and small revers.

FARM AND GARDEN

BY PAUL POTTER

When winter injury occurs in most Indiana shrubs it is not the branches or the buds that are killed. The injury occurs at the crown or the junction between the stem and roots. To be sure, the injury manifests itself in spring or summer by the sudden wilting and dying of the leaves, but if this dying branch be traced back it will be found that it always arises from an injured area at the crown.

This being true, winter protection of most of the shrubs is a matter of protecting the crown tissues from the alternate freezing and thawing and low temperatures of winter, according to C. T. Gregory of Purdue university. A three or four inch layer of straw or strawy manure placed about the base of the plants is ordinarily sufficient.

However, this protection should not be applied until after the ground is frozen. If this is done the mulch will hold the frost in the ground and during the warm days of winter the crown tissues will not warm up and become active. When this happens, subsequent cold weather does the damage. So do not be in a hurry about putting any protection about the shrubs until after the weather turns cold. Furthermore, it will be better to use straw than leaves because the leaves become soggy and pack and do not furnish the best protection.

Two exceptions to those general principles are found in the coniferous or evergreen shrubs and to the semi-hardy rose bushes. Evergreens are hurt by winter in an entirely different way. Their leaves remain green all winter and continue to lose water. Suppose that during a severely cold period when the roots are solidly frozen in the ground we have a spell of dry winds. Water loss continues from the leaves, but the root being frozen cannot supply the water and as a result the tissues are dried out and killed.

St. Paul's Church Holds Bazaar, Starting Today

The annual bazaar of St. Paul's church at 50th street and Dorchester avenue will be held today under the auspices of the women's organization of the parish. Mrs. K. W. Baldwin, president of the Woman's guild, is chairman of arrangements.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMEN'S AND MISSES' APRON.

Here is a most unusual looking apron made in a combination of two materials or colors. It wraps the figure, and ties in a bow in the back, while the bottom is cut in a scalloped outline, adding much to its attractiveness. Sateen, percale, gingham and cotton broadcloth are suitable materials.

The pattern, No. 3067, comes in small, medium and large sizes. The medium size requires 1¼ yard of 32 inch plain material, 1⅛ yards of 32 inch printed material, and 3⅛ yards of binding.

How to Order Clotilde Patterns.

Write your name and address plainly on dotted lines, giving number and size of such patterns as you want. Inclose 10 cents in stamps or coin [coin preferred; wrap it carefully] for each number, and address your order to Clotilde Patterns, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, 347 Park avenue, New York City.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

The Tribune will pay $1 for every letter published on "The Most Embarrassing Moment of My Life." Address Embarrassing Moments, Chicago Tribune. Write on one side of the paper. No manuscripts returned.

Bit of Encouragement.

My most embarrassing moment happened this summer. The fellows had built a platform 20 feet high off a pier in the lake which we used for diving. I had just come down to the pier when a tall fellow was about to take a dive. He seemed quite nervous and undecided whether he should dive.

Thinking to encourage him, I said, "Jump in! Don't be afraid; it's easy."

He said, "All right, here goes."

Then he dived. Imagine my embarrassment when he made a full back gainer. I felt like two cents when everybody applauded him and laughed at me. G. A.

Bright Sayings of the Children

The Tribune will pay $5 for each childish saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Write on one side of the paper. Address bright sayings to Aunty Bee, The Tribune, Chicago.

Billy had always been called "daddy's fine boy." At the age of 26 months a baby brother arrived, over which he was very much thrilled.

His grandmother called on the phone a few days after the baby's arrival, and Billy talked with her.

The first question she asked was, "Billy, what has mother and daddy got at your house now?"

He quickly replied, "O, daddy has two fine boys." E. C. B.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Find Other Friends.

"Dear Miss Blake: I asked the girl I love to go to a show with me, but she refused. She doesn't even pay any attention to my love.

"WONDERING."

Calls Her Names.

"Dear Miss Blake: I love a boy whom I know loves me, but he calls me names. Should I give him up or still go on with him? SLOT."

He is showing off and will outgrow that stage. Don't continue to go with him unless he treats you with courtesy.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

M. H.: THIN, FALLING HAIR should be brushed vigorously for five minutes morning and night. At night you may massage the following tonic into the scalp after the brushing: Resorcin, 45 grains; glycerin, 1 ounce; and equal parts of water and alcohol to fill a six ounce bottle.

Mrs. A. W.: SCRATCHES ON THE skin should be treated immediately to prevent infection. Wash with boiled water, then apply tincture of iodine.

THE PUBLIC VINDICATED
ETHEL BARRYMORE could continue indefinitely in the HARRIS Theater insofar as box office receipts are concerned. The response of playgoers to the acting of this great woman has vindicated the public from the accusation that it is indifferent to the spoken drama.
THE ACTRESS' RESPONSIBILITY
BECAUSE Miss Barrymore has promised to appear in other cities of the country and twice has had to defer her contracts elsewhere because of the crowded houses in the Harris Theater, she no longer can postpone her tour. So the most and her Chicago season on Sat., Dec. 14—next week.
LAST TWO WEEKS IN CHICAGO
CONSEQUENTLY her last Chicago appearances in LIL Hatvary's THE LOVE DUEL, adapted by Zoe Akins, will be made in the HARRIS Theater this and next week with matinees Wed. and Sat. only. Good seats still may be secured if purchased at the box office at once.

Christmas Gift Ballot

Shall we give mother the new Master Automatic Sunbeam Iron to lighten her housework? ☐

Shall we give father the only electric cigar lighter shaped to light pipes, too? ☐

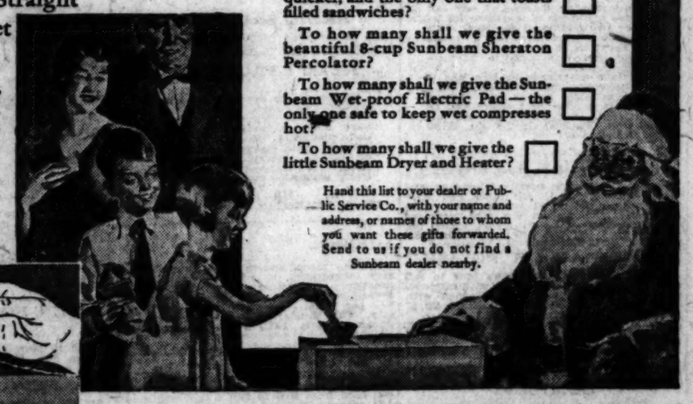
To how many shall we give the Sunbeam Flat Toaster that toasts 50% quicker, and the only one that toasts filled sandwiches? ☐

To how many shall we give the beautiful 8-cup Sunbeam Sheraton Percolator? ☐

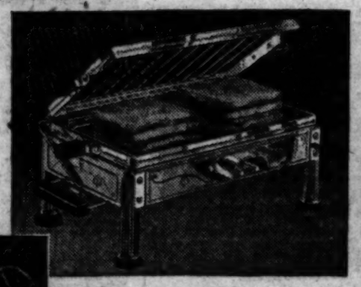
To how many shall we give the Sunbeam Wet-proof Electric Pad—the only one safe to keep wet compresses hot? ☐

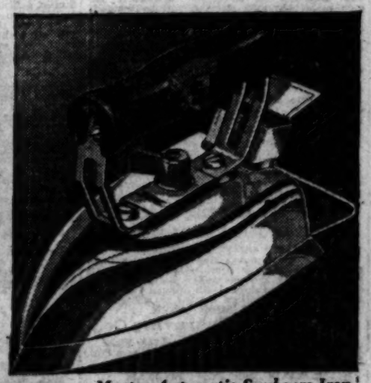
To how many shall we give the little Sunbeam Dryer and Hester? ☐

Hand this list to your dealer or Public Service Co., with your name and address, or names of those to whom you want these gifts forwarded. Send to us if you do not find a Sunbeam dealer nearby.



Sunbeam Lighter for pipes, cigars and cigarettes—$3.50. Only electric model that lights a pipe. To use, lift the lighter from the bronze finish ash tray, apply the heating element to the tobacco, and touch the button.





Sunbeam Dryer and Heater—Sets wave—dries hair—takes chill off sick-room or bath. Takes no more space than a hand mirror. Only $6.50.

Sunbeam Flat Toaster—$8.00. "By timing with a stop-watch, I find that the Sunbeam toasts bread 50% faster," reports Grace Viall Gray, Ph. D., Ed. B., former associate professor at America's largest home economics college. "It is the only one I know that admits halved rolls and ready-filled sandwiches. It grips layers firmly, holding in filling even when turning sandwiches."

Master Automatic Sunbeam Iron—$7.95. Tested and approved by Good Housekeeping Institute—irons with amazing speed. Finger-tip Control sets heat at Low, Medium or High, and temperature remains constant in spite of damp clothes. For the current comes on and off automatically. Hence cannot cool—cannot overheat—protects sheer materials, fine silk, and rayon from scorching.

Sunbeam Sheraton Percolator—Special heating element. Prepares 8 cups of coffee quickly, retains full flavor. Exclusive Sheraton design in nickel over copper, rivaling silverware. $11 and $13.

Sunbeam Wet-proof Pad—Only electric pad safe to keep wet compresses hot. High, Medium, and Low heat controls. Soft eider-down slip cover with wet-proofed inner surface, easily removed for sterilizing. Only $9.50.

Try This Cookie Cereal in a milk dish noon or morning
A new delight

NOT like old-type Graham crackers, but Graham mixed with barley malt and sweets. A cracker-like confection in which children revel. And which men like for lunch-eon or as a bed-time snack.

Two whole grains—wheat and barley—with the bran. All the 16 food elements the body requires. Nothing comes nearer to a complete food than Malted Grahams in milk.

Most folks say they never tasted a breakfast cereal to compare.

Then as tid-bits, crisp and flavory, for hungry children in the afternoons. If you wish them to eat more whole-grain food, here is the way to induce them.

Paul Schulze Malted Grahams have become a sensation. Over 9,000 stores in Chicago and vicinity now supply them. They will bring you a new conception of a Graham dainty.

Surprise Package FREE

It costs us 20c, yet costs you nothing. 14 delightful surprises mailed FREE when you send us the words "Paul Schulze" cut from the front of a large 25c package of Paul Schulze Malted Grahams. Also send your name and address.
